PREFACE.

This volume is published with a full knowledge of the imperfections that will be manifest to many who read it and the publication would be further delayed could such action eliminate them.

The author has faithfully endeavored to secure information of interest and value from reliable sources and trusts that in a measure he has succeeded, but in many instances this information has not been as complete as desired and this feature is no fault of his. Were the faults only those of omission he would be pleased, for such he could not avoid.

Only through the co-operation of many persons has it been possible to present the tabulations and brief sketches of descendants as completely as they have been. Under such conditions it is unreasonable to expect no errors to have been made as frequently intelligent members of the same family have reported the family tabulation differently and in some instances extremely carelessly. Great care has been exercised in transcribing the more than thirty thousand data contained in the volume that the work should be as free from errors as possible. Whether perfect or imperfect, correct or erroneous, every one assisting is entitled to unmeasured thanks from the author and its readers.

The historian Bancroft is authority for the early colonial history and the history of Quakerism, and the language is largely his. Austin's Dictionary of Rhode Island affords data of Thomas Sheriff and his family, while data collected by the late Samuel H. Shreve of New York City and supplied by Mr. Barclay White and Lydia S. Shreve of Mount Holly, N. J., supplemented by information from Caleb D. Shreve of the same place and Francis B. Lee of Trenton, N. J., has been freely used in the history of the early Shreve Families. A. S. Barnes & Co., of New York City have kindly permitted the reproduction of the zinc etching of the old Shreve homestead, also the articles from the pen of Col. Israel Shreve and Lieut. John Shreve supplied the Magazine of American History by Samuel H. Shreve.

It is not proposed to set forth the obstacles and discouragements attending the collection and compilation of such a large amount of data. They were many. The temptation to destroy all memoranda and forever abandon interest in the subject more than once presented itself. Then words of encouragement from some that retained an abiding interest deterred and impelled to a completion of the self-imposed task. Among such must be gratefully mentioned John P. Hutchinson of Georgetown, N. J., Charles U. Shreve of Louisville, Ky., Edmund E. Kiernan of Pittsburg, Pa., Heber J. Grant of Salt Lake City, Utah, and George W. Shreve of San Francisco, Cal. They made the publication possible by their generous subscriptions at a time when abandonment seemed imminent.

Untiring energy and promptness in the collection of data in their respective branches were displayed at an early time by Joseph Price of Salem, Mass., Evan Shreve of Damascus, O., James Shreve of Union

City, Pa., John P. Hutchinson of Georgetown, N. J., Dr. Joseph Shreve of Burlington, N. J., Henry Shreve (now deceased) of Shreve, O., Mrs. B. A. Melville of Dunn Loring, Va., Mrs. Perry J. Pease of Bellbrook, O., and Mrs. J. H. B. Edgar of Dayton, O. With probably one exception the above supplied tabulations absolutely complete to the date of their reports.

A much larger number evinced equally as great interest and liberally contributed, although they did not assume to report so many families, but rather confined their efforts to their immediate relatives. Among them are the following:

Frank Carter, I. Shreve Carter, Wm. P. Shreve, Mrs. O. B. Shreve, Mrs. Robert Gay Hooker, Dr. Joseph Beck, Mrs. Mary B. Carter, Geo. W. Shreve, James H. Shreve, Mrs. Ann O'Hare, Urias F. Wells, Ezra D. Shreve, Mrs. Maria M. Whitmore, Grace L. Shumard, L. M. Shreve, Charles U. Shreve, T. L. Martin, Mrs. T. T. Shreve, Mrs. Juliette A. Nunez, Binford T. Shreve, Mrs. J. H. Hoffecker, Arthur B. Shreve, Mrs. Harriet J. Gentry, J. M. Shreve, Theodore Cowherd, Mrs. Margaret B. Smith, W. C. P. Ayers, Charles H. S. S. Ayers, Francis B. Lee, Mrs. Anna R. Engle, Mrs. Geo. N. Bowne, Mrs. Mary A. Hand, Mrs. J. Biard Carty, Mrs. Caroline Bridge, Mrs. Mary A. Story, Mrs. G. M. S. P. Jones, Juliet F. Heyl, F. S. Zelle, B. B. Antrim, Edmund E. Kiernan, Mrs. Susan R. Ridgway, James S. Hulme, Barclay White, Hiram S. Shreve, Eliza C. McHenry, Mrs. David Shreve, Mrs. Eliza McLaughlin, Mrs. Nancy Bassett, Mrs. Elizabeth Paugh, John Moody, Orrison Shreve, Mrs. Hannah M. Waldron, Mrs. Mary H. Sedorus, Mrs. Sarah Hasson, Mrs. Tabitha Conner, Geo. W. Cunard, Maude L. Shreve, Mrs. Mary F. Hiestand, Asa Shreve, Frank A. Doty, C. P. Shreve, Mrs. Julia Macdonald, Heber J. Grant, Theodore McKean, Howard Ivins, J. C. H. Ivins, Caleb D. Shreve, Benj. F. H. Shreve, Lydia S. Shreve, Rev. C. M. Perkins, Mrs. Emily McClure, Grace S. Bowles, Mrs. Abigail Strawn, Henry Shreve, Julia M. Shreve, Mrs. Esther Sears, George Briggs, Mary Briggs, Mrs. Harriet L. Carter and others. Were personal mention made of each contributor the list would comprise a much larger number. A work of this character is possible only through such generous co-operation and grateful acknowledgement is here made to every one that has even remotely contributed information.

A few pages are devoted to a brief outline of early colonial history since the ancestors of the Shreve family emigrated at such an early period to Massachusetts and Rhode Island and their early environments influenced their posterity so plainly for more than a century and a half. Those families living in America the first one hundred years or previous to 1750, are classified in one section as of one family and their history as fully as known is there recorded. The descendants of each of them if discovered are subsequently classified in a section and their lineal descent from the early families is noted just preceding the tabulation of the first ancestor there recorded. The five thousand descendants are thus clustered together by large branches rather than as one large family.

The several tabulations were reported from 1896 to 1900—probably three-fourths of them in 1896 and 1897. In many instances, changes occurring, the reports were continued to the year of publication, but such was not always done. It is believed that descendants have lived in the places reported sometime during the last four years. Where persons under twenty-one years of age are not designated as deceased, the presumption is that they are living with their parents.

The derogatory finds no place in the volume, the compiler preferring to remain silent rather than record that which it were best to have forgotten. If good, true and noble qualities of character have existed and been reported, he has gladly given them a place, endeavoring to treat every descendant justly and with consideration regardless of political or religious creed.

THE AMSTERDAM ESTATE.

The publication would be incomplete without the best record obtainable of the Amsterdam Estate in which so many ancestors, long since passed away, displayed such great interest. A large number look forward to this portion of the volume with great satisfaction, as at no time has the effort been made to collect from every source everything relating to it with the intention of giving publicity to the results. It is believed that much more could have been added to the record had parties felt disposed to communicate more freely. The compiler has never proposed to secure this estate or to encourage anyone in the belief that such an estate was obtainable by anyone. He has simply sought information from every source. Representative business men and excellent legal talent of Shreve blood have figured at different times in the investigations and because their efforts did not end in fruition they should not be regarded on the one hand as illusionists or on the other as dealing with insincerity in the matter. To this day the whole affair at the best is puzzling. Descendants have freely contributed copies of documents and family letters in their possession and in many instances have sent the originals. The writer has personally examined many of them yellow with age and the writing faded—written in 1830 and 1837. Every one published is just what it purports to be—not one is spurious. By the incredulous the estate may be declared a myth, as no one has been able to produce positive evidence of its existence, location, value or title. The more conservative with equal propriety may suggest that it is not probable that these ancestors would have such confidence without something fairly reasonable on which to base it, particularly when in nearly every generation disinterested persons from Holland of seeming veracity affirmed that to their knowledge such an estate did exist and the property could still be pointed out.

THE COAT OF ARMS.

Persistent efforts have been made to find an authentic Shreve Coat of Arms, but without success. B. F. Haywood Shreve Esq., of Mount Holly, N. J., has displayed great interest in the subject. The results of his researches and his judgment which have been freely communicated are the best authority at this time. Referring to the Coat of Arms discovered by Samuel H. Shreve, he wrote in February, 1897:

"They are the Ireton arms as you will find by examining Burke's Heraldry, and were borne by Cromwell's General of that name. Now, about one hundred years ago, an Ireton married a Stockton, and you are doubtless aware that the Stocktons intermarried with the Lippin-cotts, and that a Lippincott married a Shreve. In this way no doubt a copy of these arms came into possession of some member of the Shreve family.

"I have made a careful examination of all the works on Heraldry to which I had access and also employed a Philadelphia professional, who devotes all his time to it, to look into the matter for me, and the result was the same in both cases. We could find no Areson arms. Our claim to these arms is, therefore, in my opinion, altogether spurious."

Several copies of Coats of Arms were submitted to Mr. Shreve's judgment. In June, 1900, he wrote as follows:

The coat of arms embossed on letter paper which you enclosed, and your lithograph copy, and also one or two other engraved copies which I have seen, are all arrangements from the one original.

The essential features of a coat of arms are merely the markings of the shield, which, in this case, are the sable mantle, and two red bars; the crest is frequently altered by different branches of the family.

All the old copies of the arms in question are like the large colored copy you sent and you will note, that in this copy, the shield has the markings above referred to, and the crest has the helmet and dog's head which appear in your lithograph.

The horns of plenty at each side are known as supporters, and are not essential features of the arms, but merely ornamentation that has little significance excepting, perhaps, to determine the date of the design.

I know of an old copy of this coat of arms painted on a plate, in possession of a member of the Aaronson family, who claim to be descended, I believe, from Diedrick Areson, and they claim it as the Areson arms.

I have never seen the original from which Mr. Samuel H. Shreve made his copy, although I have seen other copies of it.

I beg to call your attention again to the fact that these arms have never been claimed as the Shreve arms by any one who has carefully considered the matter. Mr. Samuel H. Shreve believed them to be the arms of the family of Sarah Areson or possibly Oara Oara. As I wrote in my previous letter I find arms with the same essential features borne by the family of General Ireton, (see Burke) and I can find no authority advanced for assuming that they are the Areson arms.

It seems to me therefore, that if you publish these arms at all, you should label them, "Supposed Areson Arms," and not suggest in any way, that they could have had any other connection with the Shreve family, as it only exposes people to ridicule who use coat armor without a well-proved claim to it.

EARLY COLONIAL HISTORY.

It is well that every family that can trace its ancestry in America to the middle of the Seventeenth century—as the Shreves can do—should understand somewhat of the early colonial history of our country. The American ancestors of this family were of English and Dutch birth; Quakers in religious belief; dwellers in the colony of Rhode Island, and on Long Island, from whence they emigrated to New Jersey and there at an early period in its history they purchased large tracts of land and were known as “Planters.”

The early history of New Netherlands and New Jersey, where many of their descendants reside, and of the Quaker sect, whose religious faith many still practice in its original simplicity, should be especially interesting to their posterity.

Although repeated attempts had been made by nearly every European power, and large concessions had been offered to those risking their lives and fortunes in the interest of discoveries in the New World, from the discovery of the continent in 1492 until after 1600, no permanent colonies had been planted on our soil excepting the weak one of the Spaniards at St. Augustine. Failure was written in every instance.

Jamestown, the first permanent English colony, was planted in 1606. The Pilgrims landed on Plymouth Rock in 1620, and during the next few decades the intervening territory was settled. In 1634 Lord Baltimore planted his colony in Maryland, and the same year Roger Williams, a friend of humanity and the champion of the Indians, appeared in Rhode Island and in 1638 obtained from the natives a gift of that island, piously naming its future capital Providence.

The spirit of the age was present when the foundations of New York were laid. Every great European event affected the fortunes of America. Did a state there prosper, it sought an increase of wealth by plantations in the West. Was a sect persecuted, it escaped to the New World. The reformation, emancipating the United Provinces, led to European settlements on the Hudson. The Netherlands divide with England the glory of having planted the first colonies in the United States; they also divide the glory of having set the examples of public freedom.

In 1609, Henry Hudson, having repaired to Holland, set sail in the interest of the Dutch East India Company for the north-western passage. He landed on the promontory of Cape Cod, then sailed southward to the Bay of Virginia, when he again turned northward, anchoring within Sandy Hook and explored the adjacent river. Holland thus acquired title to the territory which was known afterwards as New Netherlands.

In 1613 three or four rude hovels had been erected on the Island of Manhattan, as a summer shelter for the few Dutch mariners and fur traders whom private enterprise had stationed there. The next year the first rude fort was erected, and in 1615 the settlement of Albany began. In 1623 the era of the permanent settlement of New York commenced. Round the new block house on Manhattan the cottages of New Amsterdam began to cluster; the country assumed the form of a colony, while the office of Governor was held from 1624. In 1625 there was certainly one family on Long Island and a child of European parentage was born there. In 1627 there was the first exchange of courtesies with the Pilgrims of Plymouth, and between them the most friendly feeling prevailed.

These were the rude beginnings of New York. Its first age was the age of hunters and Indian traders; of traffic in the skins of otters and beavers; when the native tribes were employed in pursuit of game, and the yachts of the Dutch, in quest of furs, penetrated every bay and basin and inlet from Narragansett to the Delaware. It was the day of straw roofs and wooden chimneys and windmills.

The historian of Long Island records no regular occupation of lands on that island till 1636. A few years later the limits of New Netherlands were narrowed by competitors on the east and south. The swarms of English in Connecticut grew so numerous that they overwhelmed the feeble settlement of the Dutch, at Hartford, while the tidings of the loveliness of the country had been borne to Scandinavia, and the peasantry of Sweden and Finland emigrated to the banks of the Delaware, which from the ocean to the "Falls" were known as New Sweden. After a distinct existence for seventeen years, in 1655 New Sweden, then numbering about seven hundred souls, surrendered to the Dutch. The descendants of the colonists, in the course of generations, widely scattered and blended with emigrants of other lineage, constitute probably more than one part in two hundred of the present population of our country.

The Dutch seemed to have firmly established their power in New Netherlands. They exulted in the possession of a territory that needed no embankments against the ocean. They were proud of its vast extent, from New England to Maryland, from the sea to the Great River of Canada and the remote northwestern wilderness. They sounded with exultation the channel of the deep stream, which was no longer shared with the Swedes, and counted with delight its many lovely runs of water, on which the beaver built their villages.

The emigrants to our shores from Holland were of the most various lineage; for Holland had long been the gathering place of the unfortunate. Could we trace the descent of the emigrants from the Low Countries to New Netherlands, we should be carried not only to the banks of the Rhine and the borders of the German Sea, but to the Protestants who escaped from France after the massacre of Bartholomew's eve; and to the earlier enquirers who were swayed by the voice of Huss in the heart of Bohemia.

New York was always a city of the world. Its settlers were the first fruits of the reformation; chosen from the Belgic provinces and England, from France and Bohemia, from Germany and Switzerland, from Piedmont and the Italian Alps. When the hurricane of persecution swept over the pious Waldenses, the city of Amsterdam offered the fugitives a free passage to America, and a welcome reception was prepared in New Netherlands for the few who were willing to emigrate. When the Protestant churches in Rochelle were razed, the Calvinists of that city were gladly admitted. Troops of orphans were sometimes shipped for the milder destinies of the New World; a free passage was offered to mechanics.

The colony increased; children swarmed in every village; the new year and the month of May were welcomed with noisy frolics; new modes of activity were devised; lumber was shipped to France; the whale pursued off the coast; the vine, the mulberry planted; flocks of sheep as well as cattle were multiplied; and tile, so long imported from Holland, began to be manufactured near Fort Orange. New Amsterdam could in a few years boast of stately buildings and almost vied with Boston. "This happily-situated province," said its inhabitants, "may become the granary of our Fatherland; should our Netherlands be wasted by grievous wars, it will offer our countrymen a safe retreat; by God's blessing we shall, in a few years, become a mighty people." Thus did various nations assist in colonizing our central states.

Private worship was allowed to every religion. Opinion, if not yet enfranchised, was already tolerated, and Jews found a home, liberty and a burial place on the Island of Manhattan.

Cromwell had planned the conquest of New Netherlands; in the days of his son the design was revived; and the restoration of Charles II. threatened the territory with danger from the south, the north and from England.

In 1664 Long Island was lost, and shortly after the aristocratic liberties of Holland yielded to the hope of popular liberties like those of New England, and articles of surrender were accepted by the magistrate and other inhabitants duly assembled. The colonists were satisfied and very few embarked for Holland. Early in October the whole Atlantic coast was for the first time in the possession of England. The final transfer from Holland to England did not occur until ten years later.

The political existence of New Jersey was given by the Duke of York, who fixed its boundaries and granted the soil. Its moral character was moulded by New England Puritans, English Quakers and dissenters from Scotland. In 1665 quite an impetus was given to emigration to New Jersey from the Northeastern colonies and European countries. Security of persons and property under laws to be made by an assembly composed of the Governor and Council and at least an equal number of representatives of the people; freedom from taxation except by the colonial assembly; a combined opposition of the people and the proprietaries to any arbitrary impositions from England; freedom of judgment, conscience and worship to every peaceful citizen—these were the allurements to New Jersey. Lands were promised at a moderate quit-rent, not to be collected until 1670.

The portion of New Netherlands which thus gained popular freedom was at that time almost a wilderness. Here and there in the counties of Gloucester and Burlington a Swedish farmer may have preserved his dwelling on the Jersey side of the river; and, before 1654, perhaps three Dutch families were established about Burlington; but West New Jersey had not a hamlet. In 1618 a trading station seems to have been occupied at Bergen, which grew into a permanent settlement. Before the end of 1664 a few families of Quakers appear also to have found a refuge south of Raritan Bay.

In that year New England Puritans, sojourners on Long Island, had leave of the Dutch to plant the banks of the Raritan and the Minnisink and succeeded in obtaining from the Indians a deed to an extensive territory on Newark Bay, which was afterwards called "the Elizabethtown purchase." At this time, the beginning of the commonwealth was but a cluster of four houses. The place was called Elizabethtown, and became the capital of the province. In 1668, in the colonial assembly convened at Elizabethtown for the first time, the influence of the Puritans transferred the chief features of the New England codes to the statute books of New Jersey.

The province increased in numbers and prosperity. The land was accessible and productive; the temperate climate delightful by its salubrity. There was little danger from the neighboring Indians; the vicinity of the older settlements saved the emigrants from the distresses of a first adventure in the wilderness. In the Elizabethtown code Puritan austerity was so tempered by Dutch indifference that mercy itself could not hardly have dictated a milder system.

The banks of the Delaware were reserved for men who had been taught by the uneducated son of a poor Leicestershire weaver to seek the principle of God in their own hearts. In the Seventeenth century a popular, and therefore, in that age, a religious party, building on a divine principle, demanded freedom of mind, purity of morals and universal enfranchisement. The sect had its birth in a period of intense public activity; when the heart of England was swelling with passions, and the public mind turbulent with factious leaders; when zeal for reform was invading the church, subverting the throne and repealing the privileges of feudalism.

The rise of the people called Quakers is one of the memorable events in the history of man. It marks the moment when intellectual freedom was claimed unconditionally by the people as an inalienable birthright. To the masses in that age all reflections on politics and morals presented itself under a theological form. The Quaker doctrine is philosophy, summoned from the cloister, the college, the saloon, and planted among the most despised of people.

The mind of George Fox had the highest systematic sagacity; and his doctrine, developed and rendered illustrious by Barclay and Penn, was distinguished by its unity. The Quaker has but one word, THE INNER LIGHT, the voice of God in the soul. That light is a reality, and, therefore, in its freedom the highest revelation of truth; it is kindred with the spirit of God, and, therefore, merits dominion as the guide to virtue; it shines in every man's breast, and, therefore, joins the whole human race in the unity of equal rights. Intellectual freedom, the supremacy of mind, universal enfranchisement—these three points include the whole of Quakerism, as far as it belongs to civil history.

Everywhere in Europe the Quakers were exposed to persecution. Their seriousness was called melancholy enthusiasm; their boldness self-will; their frugality, covetousness; their freedom, infidelity; their conscience, rebellion. In England, the general laws against dissenters, the statute against Papists, and special statutes against themselves, put them at the mercy of every informer. They were hated by the Church and the Presbyterians, by the peers and the king. The code of that day describes them as "an abominable sect;" "their principles as inconsistent with any kind of government." During the Long Parliament, in the time of the protectorate, at the restoration in England, in New England, in the Dutch colony of New Netherlands, everywhere, and for long, wearisome years, they were exposed to perpetual dangers and griefs. They were whipped, crowded into jails among felons, kept in dungeons, foul and gloomy beyond imagination; fined, exiled, sold into colonial bondage. They bore the brunt of the persecution of the dissenters. Imprisoned in winter without fire they perished from frost. Some were victims to the barbarous cruelty of the jailer; twice George Fox narrowly escaped death.

The despised people braved every danger to continue their assemblies. Haled out by violence, they returned. When their meeting houses were torn down, they gathered openly on the ruins. They could not be dissolved by armed men; and when their opposers took shovels to throw dirt on them, they stood close together, "willing to have been buried alive, witnessing for the Lord." They were exceeding great sufferers for their profession, and in some cases treated worse than the worst of their race. They were as poor sheep appointed to the slaughter and as a people killed all day long.

Is it strange that they looked beyond the Atlantic for a refuge? In March, 1674, a few months after the return of George Fox from his pilgrimage to all our colonies from Carolina to Rhode Island, the haughty peer Berkley sold for a thousand pounds the moiety of New Jersey to Quakers, to John Fenwick in trust for Edward Byllinge and his assigns. In 1675, Fenwick, with a large company and several families, set sail in the Griffith for the Asylum of Friends. Ascending the Delaware, he landed on a pleasant, fertile spot, and as the outward world easily takes the hues of men's minds, he called the place Salem, for it seemed the dwelling place of peace. The Quakers desired to possess a territory where they could institute a government, and in August, 1676, they agreed to a division with Cartaret, who owned the other moiety of New Jersey. And, now that the men who had gone about to turn the world upside down were possessed of a province, what system of politics should they adopt?

The light that lighteth every man shone brightly in the Pilgrims of Plymouth, the Calvinists of Hooker and Haynes, and in the freeman of Virginia, when the transient abolition of monarchy compelled even Royalists to look from the throne to a surer guide in the heart; the Quakers, following the same exalted instincts, could but renew the fundamental legislation of the men of the Mayflower of Hartford and the old Dominion. "The Concessions are such as Friends approve of." This is the message of the Quaker proprietaries in England to the few who had emigrated: "We lay a foundation for after ages to understand their liberty as Christians and as men, that they may not be brought into bondage, but by their own consent; for we put the power in the people." And in March, 1677, the charter or fundamental laws of West New Jersey were perfected and published. In that year Burlington was laid out and rude huts were built in imitation of the wigwams of the natives.

Immediately the English Quakers, with the good wishes of Charles II., flocked to West New Jersey, and commissioners possessing a temporary authority were sent to administer affairs till a popular government could be instituted. Lands were purchased of the Indians; the planters numbered nearly four hundred souls; and, already, at Burlington, under a tent, covered with sail-cloth, the Quakers began to hold religious meetings. In 1678, the Indian kings gathered in council amidst the shades of the Burlington forests, and declared their joy at the prospect of permanent peace. "You are our brothers," said the sachems, "and we will live like brothers with you. We will have a broad path for you and us to walk in. If an Englishman falls asleep in this path, the Indians shall pass him by, and say, 'He is an Englishman; he is asleep; let him alone.' The path shall be plain. There shall not be a stump in it to hurt the feet."

After such trials, vicissitudes and success, the light of peace dawned upon West New Jersey, and in November, 1681, Jennings, acting as governor of the proprietaries, convened the first legislative assembly of the representatives of men who said THEE and THOU to all the world, and wore their hats in the presence of beggar and king. Their first measures established their rights by an act of fundamental legislation and in the spirit of "the concessions" they framed their government on the basis of humanity. Neither faith nor wealth nor race was respected. They met in the wilderness as men and founded society on equal rights. They levied for the expenses of their commonwealth two hundred pounds, to be paid in skins or corn or money; they voted the governor a salary of twenty pounds; they prohibited the sale of ardent spirits to Indians; they forbade imprisonment for debt. The little government of a few hundred souls soon increased to thousands. The people rejoiced under the reign of God, confident that he would beautify the meek with salvation. A loving correspondence began with Friends in England; and from the fathers of the sect frequent messages were received.

In May, 1682, Burlington was erected into the capital of the province. In 1684 the assembly divided the province into four counties—Bergen, Essex, Middlesex and Monmouth.

These were the times and the places where the first ancestors of the Shreve family in colonial times are known to us. Quakerism was their religious and political creed, and its principles were so thoroughly instilled into them that for more than one century almost without exception their descendants followed in the same belief, and now, after a lapse of two hundred and fifty years, a large number have not departed from the early faith of their ancestors.

Thirty-five years before Rhode Island numbered 4,000 souls, during which period emigration was large, the names of Thomas Sheriff and his family occur in its annals, while within twelve years of the time Long Island is designated as regularly occupied, and within twenty-five years of the time the first family lived on it, the name of Areson appears on its early records.

EARLY SHREVE FAMILIES.

The ancestry of the Shreve family emerges from tradition when the annals of Plymouth, Mass., and Portsmouth, R. I., at an early date after the landing of the Mayflower record the name of "Sheriff." December 7th, 1641, at Plymouth, Thomas Sheriff was a complainant in an action of trespass, and twenty-five years later, December 10th, 1666, he was grantor in a conveyance at Portsmouth. An inventory of his estate was filed at Portsmouth June 11th, 1675. In those vicinities then he must have lived and died. He was very probably born before 1620, and his wife, Martha ———, not later than 1635. His death occurred May 29th, 1675, aged fifty-five years or more, while she survived at least sixteen years, marrying a second and third time, respectively Thomas Hazard and Lewis Hues. The latter, it seems, absconded within seven weeks of their marriage, taking with him much property belonging to his wife, which occasioned her to transfer her remaining property subject to certain provisions for her maintenance during her lifetime to her son John.

The traditional ancestry of the Shreve family is very interesting and entertaining, as presented by the late Samuel H. Shreve, civil engineer of New York City, who, during the latter years of his life, devoted much time and labor to the study of the ancestry of the family. Mr. Barclay White, an authority on the early families of Burlington County, New Jersey, has contributed the following from his pen :

Mount Holly, N. J., 7 mo. 9, 1895.

Greeting :

The late Sam'l H. Shreve, C. E., of New York City, under date Dec. 4, 1883, addressed me as follows :

I have been interested in the subject of the Shreve family for some years and have embraced every opportunity to add to my stock of information.

From the time of the Caleb Shreve who settled at Mount Pleasant, Mansfield Township, Burlington County, New Jersey, I am satisfied that what I have is authentic. Previous to that it is traditional, but I believe mainly correct.

The first Shreve of whom I have any account was Sir William Shreve, who came from the Southeastern part of Europe, some say Greece, others hint at Turkey, in both of which countries, especially in the latter, the name of Sheriff was not uncommon, but borne only by Mohammedan families. I cannot fix the time of Sir William. He married Elizabeth Fairfax (tradition says Lady Elizabeth, but I always suspect titles, etc., in family traditions), and had a son William, who married a young lady of Amsterdam by the singular name of Ora Ora, or Oara Oara, the daughter of a wealthy nobleman. I have no doubt of Oara being an ancestress of the family.

After their marriage, the story of which is quite romantic, they came to Portsmouth, R. I. They had positively two sons, Caleb and John, and probably a third, William, who left no descendants.

We are now able to make a guess at the date of Caleb's birth from an old deed still in the family. This deed is from John Cooke of Portsmouth, in Colony of Rhode Island, to John Shreve of the same town, and conveys three-fourths of all his right and property at Shrewsbury, N. J. Deed is dated January 9th, 1676-7; on the back is a transfer from the said John Shreve to his beloved brother, Caleb Shreve.

Caleb Shreve received warrants for land from the East New Jersey proprietors as early as 1676. He was certainly of age at the time, and it would be safe to assume that his birth occurred about 1650 to 1655. Allowing thirty years to a generation, we would have for the date of the birth of Sir William, 1590, which is confirmed by the tradition that he was born in the latter part of the Sixteenth century.

This account, you will notice, does not agree with Savage's guess work, referred to by Mr. Saltar, in the Mount Holly (New Jersey) Mirror of April 4th last, that John Shreve of Portsmouth was the son of Thomas of Massachusetts.

I will give you the sources of the tradition of Caleb Shreve's ancestors. I have several statements made by members of the family some fifty to seventy-five years ago, but the best of all, or the one which the few since discovered by me have confirmed most, is that which comes from Col. Israel Shreve, who died in 1799. He was grandson of Caleb, and took a very great interest in family matters. He was very young when his father died; but there continued to live with the family two persons, James Yarnell and Betty Martin, who had been in the service of Col. Shreve's father long before the death of his grandfather, and who lived to a very great age. Col. Shreve's statement is the fullest of all. The descendants of Caleb Shreve who remained in Burlington County seemed to have taken the least interest in family history.

Col. Shreve, after the Revolutionary war, moved to the western part of Pennsylvania, and his descendants are scattered throughout the West, chiefly in Louisville and St. Louis. It was from them that I obtained his statement. From a descendant of Col. Shreve's eldest brother, now living in London, I obtained an account of the family almost identical with the other; therefore, I conclude that this tradition was believed in by Caleb Shreve's son, Benjamin, the father of Israel.

The only discrepancies in the written statements that are of consequence in this connection, is whether Caleb Shreve was born in this country, or in England. He died in 1741, or sixty-five years after he purchased at Shrewsbury, N. J., so that he must have been, supposing him to have been twenty-one at the latter time, at least eighty-six when he died. Hence, if born in England, he was very young when he came to this country. It is also evident, from his purchases, that when young he was possessed of considerable means.

I do not think that Caleb Shreve ever lived on Long Island, but he married there Sarah, daughter of Derick or Diedrick Arson, of Flushing. I do not know the date of his marriage, nor when he moved to Shrewsbury Township, N. J.; both events occurred probably about 1680. In different conveyances he is described as "Planter." His name is spelled in various ways, but by himself always Shreve. He lived on Narumsunk, now mis-called Rumsom Neck. He served as a grand juror in the years 1692-3-4. Before coming to Burlington County he resided in Freehold, N. J., for a few years, probably removing there from Narumsunk about 1692.

He purchased Mount Pleasant, in Mansfield Township, the old homestead that has been in the possession of the family ever since, and now belongs to my cousin, Benjamin F. Shreve, of Mount Holly, N. J., in April, 1699, and moved there immediately. An account of the title to this place is in the New Jersey Mirror of March 28th last. A portion of the house in which Caleb Shreve lived is still standing. I mean that part of which the first story is of brick, the westerly end thereof, built in 1725, the easterly, as the date states, in 1742. The house is historical, and I should be sorry to see it pass out of the family, or be neglected.

From what I have said you will see whence came the story that Caleb Shreve came from Amsterdam, his mother was a native of that city, as was his wife's father, and it is possible she may have been born there. I may mention that Col. Shreve's family still possess some silver trinkets and spoons that once belonged to Oara. Caleb Shreve died in 1741; his wife, Sarah, was living in 1735, but I do not know when she died.

I do not know whether the first Caleb was a Friend, or not. I am inclined to think he was. He was rich enough to provide handsomely for all his sons, except Benjamin, before his death. To Benjamin he left by his will the homestead and considerable other property. Benjamin was a Friend. Of the children of Benjamin, Caleb, William, who was a colonel in the state service; Israel, colonel of the Second New Jersey Regiment, Continental line; Samuel, who was lieutenant-colonel in the state service, took a very active part in the Revolutionary war. Caleb, who was often called colonel, though I do not know he had any commission, with a few militia resisted the British at Crosswick Creek, and in a personal combat shot the British officer.

Israel Shreve received his first commission in 1775, was in the attack on Quebec. In 1776 he was made colonel of the Second New Jersey, and was in active service throughout the war. He was a man of noble character and a pure patriot, of whom all Shreves may well be proud, and who was an honor to his state. I intend sometime soon to publish his life and correspondence. I have about two hundred letters written to his wife during the war, letters to and from General Washington and very many other prominent officers of the army. Israel's son, John, was a lieutenant in his father's regiment. - His son, Henry M., distinguished himself in improving the western steamboats and clearing out the Red River Raft. Shreveport was named after him. I have also a great deal of his correspondence. He commanded a battery at the battle of New Orleans. My grandfather was a captain and saw active service during the Revolutionary war. There were also two or three others of the family who were soldiers, so that notwithstanding their Quaker blood, the family was well represented among the American patriots.

The romantic story of Oara Oara, as forwarded to me by the late Samuel H. Shreve:

Sometime about the close of the Sixteenth, or the beginning of the Seventeenth century, Sir William Shreve, Knight, lived upon the Isle of Wight. Of his life but little is known; traditions in regard to his early history vary. One says he came from Italy, others that he came from Greece, others that he was a native of Southeastern Europe. To account in these cases for his name, which is apparently English, it is said he changed it when he came to England, or, that it was originally Sheriff, a name that formerly was not uncommon in Greece, but was of Mohammedan origin, signifying, first, a descendant of Mahomet, and after, a nobleman. After his arrival in England he was knighted. Probably he was an Englishman who had been sent on some service in Italy or Greece by his government, and was rewarded for his conduct by a Knighthood.

He married Lady Elizabeth Fairfax, and had a son, William. Tradition says nothing of other descendants. The Fairfax family at that time were very prominent in England, and Sir William's marriage with one of its members indicates the high position in society he held.

William, the son, from his childhood upwards was a great favorite with the Lady Abbess of a convent in England, who was an old and intimate friend of his parents, and whom he frequently visited. At this convent, as is the custom at the present day, many young ladies, not only of the country, but of foreign countries, were educated.

Among these young ladies was a niece of the Abbess, the only daughter of the latter's brother, a wealthy nobleman living in Amsterdam, Holland, whose surname was Oara, and who had christened his daughter, Oara.

William and Oara met at the convent, and there occurred the old story even in those old days, and there never was a time so old that it was not the older old story, and then, as now and ever will be, the new, newest, sweetest story. William's young and impressionable heart knew henceforth no owner but the gentle and fair Oara.

Owing to the Abbess' warm affection for the one and her relationship to the other, William had many opportunities of meeting the young lady, and consequently becoming more and more devoted and attached to her, and, as the result showed, his attentions were not disagreeable.

The Abbess perceived, too late to mend it, the state of affairs, and though she would have been pleased with the union of her two young friends, felt it her duty, regretting her previous blindness, to write immediately to her brother. She acquainted him with the fact, knowing her pupil's and her friend's characters, that their mutual attachment was of no trifling nature; she mentioned William's position in society, her high opinion of him, and strongly recommended him to her brother's favor.

William's visits to the convent after the Abbess' discovery were so restricted that his interviews or meetings with Oara were limited to chance, the Abbess acting as discreetly as possible without betraying her knowledge of their feelings towards each other. This course produced the effect that was not intended, and soon led to a declaration by William of his love, which he found was reciprocated, and the stolen meetings always ended with mutual pledges of faith and constancy.

The brother's letter was as the gentle Abbess feared. He was indignant, and his letter was full of scorn and reproaches. His child to wed an Englishman? Never; even of superior rank to her own. But to marry one of inferior rank was a suggestion he could not have expected from his sister. The angry and disdainful letter closed with a peremptory demand that his daughter should be immediately sent home.

The Abbess immediately informed William that she had perceived his attachment for Oara, remonstrated with him on the folly of it, as the father would never consent; and that, therefore, she must prohibit meetings between them and send Oara home. William was obliged to submit, and the result of his pleadings was only to obtain the Abbess' consent to a brief interview with the young lady, in which vows of constancy were renewed and each encouraged the other to hope for the future.

Oara's mother was not like her father, "who love nor pity knew," but gradually came to sympathize with her daughter, who had told her everything. As time wore on and Oara's love seemed to become stronger every day, the mother saw that her daughter's life-long happiness depended upon William. She had already been strongly impressed in his favor by the warm-hearted Abbess' letter, and this impression had been made deeper by her confiding daughter. She consented at length to a visit from William, which was to be made without the knowledge of her husband.

During this time the young man had found means of communicating with Oara, and when he received the permission to come to Amsterdam lost no time in setting upon the journey, and accompanied by a friendly clergyman, took passage in a vessel bound for Amsterdam, and to return in a short time to the Isle of Wight. Once in the city he made his presence known to Oara and her mother; the latter, after much hesitation, consented to the private marriage of the young couple. This took place on board the vessel on the day of the departure for the Isle of Wight, where the happy pair remained for some time.

The mother soon found it was impossible to reconcile the father, and Oara became so fearful of his power in England to separate her from her husband, that a safe refuge for them was sought in America.

Thus the origin and cause of the Shreve family in America. Oara's mother, at her marriage, gave her many presents, and she was by no means a penniless bride, some of her jewelry and silver (as claimed) is still in the possession of members of the family.

Among other things that were brought was a picture of a coat of arms, which I was delighted to discover in the garret of a relative, when I was a boy. From the peculiar ornamentation about the shield, the original picture was evidently made not less than about three hundred years ago, and it certainly was brought to this country by the family. I cannot find the name to which it originally belonged, whether Oara, Shreve, Fairfax or any other; and I have looked in many works on Heraldry. I have since found two copies of the same picture in the possession of members of the family. The motto, "Fide et Constantia," "with Faith and Constancy," seems quite appropriate for William and Oara.

I give you above and in previous letters, all my authority as to the parentage of Caleb Shreve.

Very respectfully,
BARCLAY WHITE.

This splendidly written account is at this date considered accurate in statement and conclusions by those that have subsequently studied Shreve ancestry, with the exception that Caleb Shreve, of New Jersey, is acknowledged the son of Thomas Sheriff, or Shreve, of Rhode Island Colony. This requires the removal of the traditional ancestry back one generation and a correction of assumed dates and facts to conform, making William Shreve that married Elizabeth Fairfax, born about 1590, and Sir William Shreve that married Oara Oara born about 1560.

Nine years after Mr. Samuel H. Shreve wrote Mr. White the preceding letters, Mr. Caleb D. Shreve, of Medford, N. J., now residing in Mount Holly, wrote Mr. Francis Bagley Lee, of Trenton, N. J., each of whom are genealogists of authority, as follows:

Genealogy of the Shreve family in New Jersey, commencing with Caleb Shreve to Caleb D. Shreve, the writer, October 29th, 1892:

I have in my possession the original deed from John Cooke, Senior, to John Shreve, both of Portsmouth, R. I., by which he conveys to the said John Shreve certain lands in Shrewsbury, N. J., bearing date the 9th day of January, 1676 or 1677, and which deed has on it the assignment thereof by John Shreve to his beloved brother, Caleb Shreve. As the Shreves first settled near Shrewsbury, this deed approximately fixes the date of their arrival. The brother, John, is supposed to be the ancestor of the Shreves in New England.

Caleb Shreve the First afterward moved to the farm called "Mount Pleasant," in Mansfield Township, in the County of Burlington, about three miles from what is now the village of Columbus. The "Mount" Pleasant is a small but quite conspicuous round-topped hill in one of the fields.

The name of Caleb's wife is sometimes spelled Aaronson. She was the daughter of Diedrich Areson, of Dutch ancestry, and through her it is said that the Shreve family are the rightful heirs of a fortune of about twenty millions of dollars over in Holland.

In August, 1685, the proprietors of the eastern division of New Jersey granted a warrant to Jacob Coal and Caleb Shreve (by the name of Caleb Sheriff), to lay out or locate one hundred acres of land, fifty acres at a place called Fe-pe-que-work-qua, Book L of Warrants, page 33, Surveyor General's office, Perth Amboy.

On January 22nd, 1687, patent was granted to Caleb Shreve (by the name of Caleb Sheriff) for eighty-two acres of land on Rumson Neck and a branch of Shrewsbury River. Book B of East Jersey Deeds and Patents, page 274, at Perth Amboy or Trenton.

On April 22nd, 1699, deed of Richard French to Caleb Shreve for three hundred and twenty-five acres at "Mount Pleasant," and on which Caleb Shreve settled and which is still in the family, excepting one hundred and twenty-five acres of it, which Caleb Shreve sold on February 7th, 1812 (Book M, page 413, at Mount Holly), conveyed to Thomas Kinsey. The deed from Richard French to Caleb Shreve is recorded at Trenton in Book B of Deeds, folio 643. Twenty-five days after purchasing of French, Caleb Shreve and Sarah, his wife, late of Freehold, in Monmouth County, that is to say on May 15th, 1699, conveyed sundry tracts of land to Charles Hubs, of Mandamus Neck, L. I., consideration 180 pounds, on tract bounded on the north by Burlington Path (which went from Burlington to Freehold and forked about one-half mile east of Freehold, one branch going to Shrewsbury and the other to Middleton), and south by Passaquamequa brook, and one lot or meadow at or near the head of Manasquan brook.

The said Caleb, January 11th, 1700, purchased of David Curtiss the farm between Upper Springfield Meeting House and Wrightstown (his son Joshua afterwards lived there). Book AAA of Deeds, page 371, at Trenton. The said Caleb Shreve conveyed this last mentioned farm to his son, Joshua, by deed dated 12th mo., 11, 1711. The said Caleb Shreve's will dated April 5th, 1735, and proved February 18th, 1740, is of record in the office of the secretary of state, at Trenton, in Book N 4 of Wills, page 267.

Benjamin Shreve, son of the first Caleb Shreve, was born in 1706. His will is dated March 14th, 1750-51, and recorded in the office of the secretary of state, at Trenton, in Book 7, page 47. His son, Caleb, grandson of Caleb the first, was born in 1734, and died in 1792. His son, Benjamin, great grandson of Caleb the first, was born in 1759 and died in 1844. His son, Caleb, grandson of the grandson of Caleb first, was born in 1788 and died in 1848. His son, Caleb D. (myself), was born in 1833, and my son, Caleb Edgar, was born in 1877. I now reside with my family in Mount Holly, having moved here from Medford in 1889.

Aside from the dates of births and marriages, and the names of parents and the parties contracting marriage recorded in the monthly meetings of the Society of Friends, it is nearly impossible to ascertain the history of any family, excepting it is of unusual prominence, in the early colonies of the United States.

This is especially true of the class known as "early pioneers." The means of disseminating knowledge of current events were meager, and the motive was nearly entirely wanting. Printing was expensive until after 1800, and mail facilities were hardly known. After the service was established in the more populous districts between New York and Boston, it was uncertain and slow, and the tax of twenty-five cents on each letter, when received, was often a drain on the family finances, as it exceeded the value of a bushel of wheat. Communication, therefore, between families in Massachusetts and New Jersey was infrequent, and required more time than now from San Francisco to London. The attention of the sturdy pioneer was occupied in wresting sustenance for his family and his flocks from the fertile soil that abounded at every side, and in taking an active part in the local politics of the day. European emigrants brought little wealth, and when their kindred in the mother country left estates in which their descendants had an interest, before many years proofs of ancestry were difficult to secure, and other technical requirements eventually caused such estates to revert under the laws to the crown.

Markets for extra products were few and often distant. Some of the more persevering and intelligent pioneers had homes embellished with a little more than the domestic life compelled, but the vast majority were not nearly so fortunate. Wearing apparel from head-wear to foot-wear was "home-made." The furniture of the primitive homes was rude and in keeping. It was no small part of the work of the women to supply the warm, comfortable bedding for the household. The old Dutch ovens and open fireplaces were the facilities for cooking, and fire was supplied by flint, steel and tinder. The pine knot, tallow dip and genial fireplace afforded light for the long winter evenings. Medicinal herbs were gathered from the fields and forests, while the science of cure was learned from the friendly Indian. Books were scarce and expensive, but the Bible was always the first to enter the household. Such were the surroundings of our early ancestors. Superior homes only came with development and advancing civilization. Many in those times were unaware of better surroundings and certainly never lived to enjoy them.

It is, therefore, not surprising that the history of entire localities is summed up in a few lines, and that of individual families entirely lost. The old court and church records are the principal sources of information. The probate records afford the names of solvent persons and their heirs, with inventory of their estates; while it is the province of the church records to take notice of marriages and births, recording the names of all connected with those occurrences, and the dates they transpired. When parties were insolvent or married "outside" of the church, these records are unavailing, and the chain of descent is broken. These records are frequently imperfect, sometimes entirely lost, often only partially intelligible, but withal they are of inestimable value to genealogists. The next records of value are those attending the stirring events of the Revolutionary war, and from that period the obstacles to successful research are not so great.

The ancestry of Thomas Sheriff, of Rhode Island, may be traditional, but the early records of that province show conclusively that he had eight children and was a property-owner when he died. As late as 1737 the members of the family that remained in the vicinity retained the name "Sheriff," while Caleb, who had married and emigrated to New Jersey, adopted the form "Shreve."

Austin's Dictionary of Rhode Island is authority for the following:

1. THOMAS SHERIFF, was b. —, in —; m. Martha —, before 1649. He d. May 29th, 1675.

He deeded Thomas Hazard a quarter of a share in Misquamicut, and also paid him 20 pounds, receiving in exchange therefor 30 acres in Portsmouth, and house, orchard, etc., all to belong to Thomas Hazard for life, and at the decease of Thomas Hazard to be for Thomas Sheriff and wife, Martha, for their lives, and at death of both of them to go to second son, John Sheriff, and heirs, and for want of issue of John to go to third son, Caleb Sheriff, etc.

Her 2nd husband, Thomas Hazard made a declaration (just after her husband's death, 1675, May 29): "This is to satisfy all men, whom it may anyway concern, whereas there is a promise of matrimony betwixt Thomas Hazard and Martha Sheriff, yet I the foresaid Thomas Hazard do take the said Martha Sheriff for her own person, without having anything to do with her estate or with any thing that is hers" &c.

ment with her son John Sheriff, which she had by former husband, whereas said Lewis Hues was lawfully married to his above named wife Martha, took an occasion privately to go away within six or seven weeks after he was married, taking away great part of her estate, that was hers in her former husband's time. She now surrenders all her estate real and personal to her son John, excepting provisions, bedding, &c., and such things as she formerly gave her daughter Susanna Sheriff, John Sheriff to pay his mother £6, on Dec. 25th yearly for life, and thirty pounds good butter, and thirty pounds good cheese, and two barrels cider, two barrels apples, firewood, room at north east end of house she now lives in, east part of garden, and keep of a horse or mare, &c.

3. iii. CALEB SHREVE, probably the third child and third son of Thomas Sheriff (or Shreve), of Rhode Island Colony, and Martha ———, his wife, was b. about 1652; m. Sarah Areson, dau. of Diedrich (or Deric) Areson, of Long Island, about 1680. He d. in Burlington Co., New Jersey, in 1741.

Caleb Shreve permanently located in New Jersey on his marriage, about 1680. He lived after 1699 in Burlington Co., seven miles east of the present site of Mount Holly. At that date his children numbered seven. The eldest, Martha, was twelve years of age; the five next older were boys, with probably the youngest, Mary, an infant; a daughter and two sons were subsequently born. Previous to the birth of the youngest in 1706, the oldest daughter, Martha, married, in 1704.

The family otherwise remained unbroken by marriages until 1711-1713, during which period Thomas, Joshua, Joseph and Caleb married. The marriages of the remaining children occurred: Jonathan in 1720, Mary in 1721, Sarah in 1724, Benjamin, the youngest, in 1729. After marriage the father gave each child a fine farm, the precise locations of which are not known. They were probably all living in Burlington County in 1739, as the poll book of an election held in that county that year has in it the names of every son and son-in-law, excepting John Ogborne. The four elder children had sons old enough to vote, but they may have moved to other places. In the list of voters is an Amos Shreve, and Caleb, Jonathan, Samuel and Thomas Scattergood, who were probably sons of Martha Shreve and Benjamin Scattergood. The descendants of Benjamin, the youngest child, have preserved the best history of the family. He acquired from his father by will the old homestead, and became, by contract with his mother, sole heir to her property, which subsequently they construed to cover her interest in the rumored Amsterdam estate. This instrument was executed February 28th, 1740-41, while she was living with Benjamin, and after the marriages of her other children.

Other branches had heard of the estate, and as a precaution had preserved their lineage to protect their future claims; but as they became more remotely removed from the old homestead their records are not so complete, and assume a more traditionary character.

There is no reliable authority for a correct tabulation of the family of Caleb Shreve and Sarah Areson in the order of ages. The order must be conjectured from the dates of their marriages shown on the church records of the Society of Friends in Burlington County, assuming the sons married at the age of twenty-one, and the daughters at eighteen, or thereabouts. However, the dates of the births of Joshua and Benjamin have been authoritatively transmitted to their respective descendants. The authority for their names is Caleb Shreve's will, dated April 5th, 1735; others may have died in infancy or unmarried previously. The authority for the places of their births is the late Samuel H. Shreve, of New York City. The places of their deaths, where noted, is the probate records of the state. The precise locations of their homes are unknown, excepting Benjamin's, nor whether their places of residence were permanent or transient. The marriages of eight were in Burlington Co., New Jersey, by Friends Ceremony. There is every reason to believe Joshua's was also by Friends Ceremony. No record of David is found, excepting in his father's will and the election poll book in 1739 for Burlington County. Caleb Shreve devised to each: Thomas, "my eldest son;" Joshua, Joseph, Caleb, Jonathan, "my son-in-law" Benjamin Scattergood, Mary Gibbs and Sarah Ogborne, five shillings; my son, David Shreve, one good cow—said bequests are designated as "compleating his (or her) portion"—undoubtedly referring to the farms given them in his lifetime.

[Third Generation]. Children:

16. i. Martha Shreve; b. 168—; m. Benjamin Scattergood in Burlington Co., N. J., in 1704 (declared Mar. 3) by Friends Ceremony at Chesterfield Meeting.
17. ii. Thomas Shreve; b. 168—; m. Elizabeth Allison in Burlington Co., N. J., May 26, 1711, by Friends Ceremony at Burlington Meeting; d. in Burlington Co., N. J., July —, 1747.
18. iii. Joseph Shreve; b. 168—; m. Hope Harding in Burlington Co., N. J., in 1711 (proposed second time July 3), by Friends Ceremony at Burlington Meeting; d. before 1757.
19. iv. Joshua Shreve; b. Apr. 5, 1692; m. Jane —; d. 1752 (?).

20. v. Caleb Shreve; b. 169—; m. 1st, Mary Hunt in Burlington Co., N. J., May 8, 1713, by Friends Ceremony at Chesterfield Meeting; 2d, Ann ———; d. 1746.
21. vi. Mary Shreve; b. 169—; m. Isaac Gibbs, Jr., in Burlington Co., N. J., Jan. 5, 1722, by Friends Ceremony at Chesterfield Meeting.
22. vii. Sarah Shreve; b. 169—; m. John Ogborne in Burlington Co., N. J., Jan. 19, 1724, by Friends Ceremony at Chesterfield Meeting.
23. viii. Jonathan Shreve; b. 169—; m. Hannah Hunt in Burlington Co., N. J., Feb. 4, 1720, by Friends Ceremony at Chesterfield Meeting; d. 1756.
24. ix. David Shreve; b. 169—; d. after 1735.
25. x. Benjamin Shreve; b. June 9, 1706; m. Rebecca French in Burlington Co., N. J., Feb. 23, 1729, by Friends Ceremony at Springfield Meeting; d. 1751.

No report has been received of the descendants of Martha Scattergood. Several of the name now reside in Burlington Co., and probably are descended from her. Her children were born between 1704 and 1732. She probably died before 1735.

The names of the descendants of Thomas Shreve, other than his children, are not reported. These are ascertained from his will and the church records of marriages. They were born after 1712, and Hilbournes, Norths and Tylees born after 1740 may be descendants of this branch. Whom the two sons and Martha married is unknown. Thomas lived and died in Burlington, N. J.

The tabulation of Joseph Shreve's descendants is not satisfactory. He resided in Mansfield Township, Burlington County, where he died. No inventory of his estate was filed nor any record of a settlement, consequently the names of his children do not occur in the probate records of the county. He was married to Hope, the daughter of Thomas Harding, by Friends Ceremony. Inasmuch as many descendants in this branch bear her name, she must have been an exemplary woman. The descendants of their son, Caleb, have generally continued to reside in Burlington County, and transmitted their genealogy in a reliable manner. By the authority of S. H. Shreve, a son, Thomas, is placed in the family tabulation. He married March 1st, 1740, Sarah Shreve, his cousin, daughter of Joshua Shreve, for which the Society of Friends "disowned" them. Their descendants are not known. A daughter, Ann, married Solomon Southwick by Friends Ceremony about 1747. Some of their descendants live in Burlington County. Another child, Mercy, is placed in the family tabulation on the authority of Mrs. Mary A. Hand. Mercy Shreve married James White about 1747. Mrs. Hand's paternal grandmother, Hope Robbins, was a cousin of her maternal grandfather, Isaac Shreve. They, therefore, were grandchildren of Joseph Shreve and Hope Harding. Hope Robbins' parents were Mercy and James White. There may have been other children. Joseph Shreve's family were born after 1711.

The children of Joshua Shreve were born after 1713, and the family tabulation as to names is satisfactory. The order of births is unknown. Marriages occur from 1728 to 1750, and Curtises, Shinns and Becks born after those dates may be descendants. Several of those names reside in Burlington Co., but their ancestry is unknown. James Shreve's descendants generally remained in Burlington Co., or New Jersey. Caleb's emigrated to Virginia, then Pennsylvania, Ohio and the far West. Sarah married her cousin, Thomas Shreve, and the Society of Friends "dis-owned" them. Mercy Mathis' descendants located generally in the eastern part of New Jersey, as did Faith Butler's. There may have been other children that died in infancy or unmarried. The tabulation is on the authority of S. H. Shreve.

The tabulation of the family of Caleb Shreve is by authority of the late S. H. Shreve. No further reports have been made of descendants. The children were born after 1713. The Amos Shreve that voted in Burlington Co. in 1739 is probably his son. There are reasons to believe that Joshua Shreve, that married Vashti Rogers, was the child of Amos, and that the daughter, Mary, married John Haines, and left many descendants who remained in New Jersey. Gaskills born after 1737 may be descendants. There may have been others that died in infancy or unmarried.

If Jonathan Shreve had children they were born after 1721. None are reported.

The children of Mary Gibbs were born after 1722. None have been reported.

The descendants of Sarah Ogborne (or Ogbourne) are also unknown; if any they were born after 1724.

David Shreve is only mentioned in his father's will and in the poll book of the election held in Burlington County, N. J., in 1739. If he had descendants, they were probably born not earlier than 1723.

The genealogy of the descendants of Benjamin Shreve, the youngest child, is the most satisfactory. For several generations they remained in the vicinity of the old homestead, which was duly transmitted to descendants of that branch. The late Samuel H. Shreve, of New York City, was a great, great grandson, and took great interest in the latter part of his life in family genealogy, not confining himself to his own branch. All Shreve descendants are indebted to him, and it is a matter of regret that he did not live to see some of his laudable hopes bear fruition, one of which was the purchase of the old homestead by an association of descendants, to be perpetually transmitted to later generations.

Of the children of Caleb Shreve and Sarah Areson, the descendants of five are unknown, three daughters and two sons. There is little doubt that all had descendants, with the possible exception of one son. The names of thirty-one grandchildren are known. All were born between 1712 and 1750; twenty-three are known to have married, the marriages occurring between 1728 and 1771. One died unmarried. The marriages of five are uncertain, and two probably married, but are not so reported.

Caleb Shreve and Sarah Areson's children, or the second generation, intermarried between 1704 and 1730, with Scattergoods, Allisons, Hardings, (one unknown), two with Hunts, Gibbs, Ogbournes, (one doubtful), and Frenchs. The surnames of the children of this second generation are Scattergood, Shreve, Gibbs and Ogbourne.

The next, or the third generation, the issue of the five reported second generation, intermarried with Hilbournes, Norths, Tylees, Antrims, Shreves, Whites, Southwicks, Davis, Thorns, Curtis, Shreves, Mathis, Butler, Shinn, Beck, Gaskills, (one unknown), one probably Haines, Ivins, Pancoasts, (one unknown), Curtis, Cokeley, Very, Wood, Scattergood, Beck, Nixon, and (probably) Trout; and the surnames of the children of this third generation, or the fourth generation are Hilbourne, North, Tylee, White, Southwick, Curtis, Shreve, Mathis, Butler, Shinn, Beck, Gaskill, Haines, Ivins, Scattergood, Beck.

The religious principles of the Society of Friends were thoroughly imbedded in the Shreve descendants until the period of the Revolutionary war, when the stirring events of those times compelled many averse to war to take an active part in the defense, not only of their political principles, but their property. The society "disowned" their members when even remotely participating, yet their principles permitted their return on "making acknowledgment to satisfaction." Many did this, but others never returned. The women were not subject to such discipline and reared the youth according to the faith.

17. ii. THOMAS SHREVE, probably the second child and eldest son of Caleb Shreve and Sarah Areson, was b. on Narum-sunk in New Jersey, 168—; m. Elizabeth, dau. of Richard Aleson (or Allison), of Burlington, N. J., May 26th, 1711, by Friends Ceremony at Burlington, Mo. Meeting. He d. in Burlington Co., N. J., July —, 1747.

Thomas Shreve lived in Burlington, N. J. His will is dated February 23d, 1746, proved July 24th, 1747, and recorded in the office of secretary of state, Trenton, N. J., in Book 5, page 362, of Wills.

[Fourth Generation]. Children:

26. Mary Shreve; b. —; m. Thomas Hilborne in Burlington Co., N. J., March 7, 1739; d. —.
27. Hannah Shreve; b. —; m. — North.
28. Elizabeth Shreve; b. —; m. James Tylee, in Burlington Co., N. J., Apr. 26, 1740.
29. Thomas Shreve; b. —; m. — (lived in N. Y.)
30. Caleb Shreve; b. —.
- 30a. Martha Shreve; b. —.

18. iii. JOSEPH SHREVE, probably the third child and second son of Caleb Shreve and Sarah Areson, was b. in 168—, on Narumsunk, N. J.; m. Hope Harding, the dau. of Thomas Harding and Elizabeth Nichols, at Friends Meeting in Burlington, Burlington Co., N. J., July 3d, 1711. He d. intestate in Burlington Co., N. J., about 1757.

The parents of Joseph Shreve moved to Freehold, Monmouth Co., N. J., in 1692, from thence in 1699 to Mansfield Township, Burlington Co., N. J., where they lived, their children married and they died. Very little is known of Joseph Shreve and his family. In his lifetime his father gave him a fine farm in Burlington Co., where he lived and died, probably in Mansfield Township. The 15th of October, 1757, letters of administration were granted on his estate to Thomas Shreve, "he being duly affirmed and Giving Security well and well and truly to administer the said Deceased's Estate, to Exhibit a true and perfect Inventory and to render a Just and true account thereof." (State Records, Trenton, N. J., Book 8 of Wills, page 517.) There is no record of the settlement of the estate or the names of his heirs to be found in Burlington County or Trenton, N. J. The state records designate Joseph Shreve as grantee in transfers recorded in Book E, pages 221, 222, and in Book DD, pages 78 and 253 as grantor. His wife, Hope Harding, was born June 11th, 1694, and he was at least sixty-five or seventy years of age at his death. Those best posted in Shreve history name four children. There were probably others, which unfortunately cannot with any degree of certainty be placed in the family tabulation.

A white oak walking cane, with a silver head cap, containing a Spanish half-dollar, dated 1742, is an heirloom from this ancestor, now in possession of Dr. Joseph Shreve, of Burlington, N. J., the title passing to his son, Caleb; then to his son, Joseph; thence to his son, Joseph; then to his son, Joseph; thence to his nephew, Joseph, the present owner, by will.

19. iv. JOSHUA SHREVE, probably the fourth child and third son of Caleb Shreve and Sarah Areson, was b. Apr. 5th, 1692, in Monmouth Co., N. J.; m. Jane —, date and place unknown. Place and date of death is unknown.

Joshua Shreve was an approved and esteemed minister of the Society of Friends, traveling on horseback in the ministry as far south as Virginia, and as far north as Massachusetts, holding and attending meetings on his way there and on his return. He lived in Springfield Township, Burlington Co., N. J., adjoining Richard Stockton. He gave to the Society of Friends four acres of land from his farm, on which to erect a meeting house, and for a graveyard. This was built in 1727, and that date is still to be seen in the brick work over the door. It is located about one-half mile from Wrightstown, and is known as Upper Springfield Meeting. Previous to its erection Friends in the neighborhood attended meeting at Crosswicks. May 6th, 1749, Chesterfield Meeting granted him a certificate "to make a religious visit in the government of Pennsylvania, Maryland and Virginia." April 7th, 1750, he produced a certificate from Fairfax, Va., which was "to satisfaction." (Chesterfield Monthly Meeting Records.) His children were born in Springfield Township.

7. vii. WILLIAM SHREVE, the seventh child and fourth son of Daniel Shreve (or Sheriff) and Jane ———, of Little Compton, R. I., was b. Mar. 26th, 1701, in Little Compton, R. I.; m. Freelove Dyer (b. June 21st, 1699). He d. about 1750, in Fairfax Co., Va.

Freelove Dyer was born in Little Compton, R. I., and was the great grandchild of Mary and William Dyer. Charles Dyer, their sixth child, had a son, James Dyer, who was the father of Freelove. Charles Dyer was born in 1650, and died May 15th, 1709. His first wife was Mary ———, and his second wife, Martha Wait, widow of Jeremiah. James Dyer, his son, was born in Little Compton, and married in 1696. Freelove Dyer's brother, Charles, was born March 22nd, 1697, and married Elizabeth Shreve, sister of William Shreve, the husband of Freelove. James Dyer moved with his family to Bucks Co., Pa., and died there about 1735. Letters of administration were granted on his estate Jan. 29th, 1735-6, to William Shreve, his son-in-law. The sureties were William Shreve and Henry Van Horn. About 1745 William Shreve and Freelove Dyer went to Fairfax Co., Va., to live. He died there about 1750. His widow, Freelove, appears upon the court records of Fairfax and Loudon Counties, petitioning for her dower, and her sons, Benjamin and William, are acting for her. William Dyer, the great grandfather of Freelove Dyer Shreve, was the first attorney general for Rhode Island, in 1650, and one of the original settlers. Commander-in-Chief upon the sea. He was sent to England in 1653 to revise the charter, and was one of the most prominent men in Rhode Island in its early colonial history. His wife, Mary Dyer, was hung on Boston common in 1660, for preaching the Quaker doctrine in that city.

DESCENDANTS OF MERCY SHREVE AND JAMES WHITE.

ANCESTRY.

- I. Thomas Sheriff and Martha —.
- II. Caleb Shreve and Sarah Areson (3. iii.).
- III. Joseph Shreve and Hope Harding (18. iii.).
- IV. Mercy Shreve and James White (31).

31. MERCY SHREVE, child of Joseph Shreve and Hope Harding, was born in Burlington Co., N.J., not earlier than 1725; m. James White about 1747; d. —.

Very little is known of Mercy Shreve. She probably was reared in Burlington Co., N. J., and lived in West New Jersey in the vicinity of Philadelphia and later in Virginia. The best record states James White was a planter in Virginia and of English descent. He was living between 1785 and 1790 in that state, and about that time on the occasion of a visit from his second son, Thomas, and James, Thomas White's eldest son, then quite young, he gave a family dinner party in their honor, and at the dinner table were seated fourteen Thomas Whites, all relatives. The incident appears authentic. Mercy White probably visited her relatives near Chesterfield, N. J., in 1783, as on Dec. 4th, she was a witness to a marriage by Friends Ceremony at Chesterfield Meeting. Nothing further is known of the parents. The places of the births of their children are not known. The dates of their births and their names are authentic. The eldest, Sarah, married a Mr. ——— Cooper, and probably previously a Mr. ——— Newton. She was living in 1807 in Philadelphia, and with her a niece and namesake, which she had reared, the mother having died while she was an infant. She was then known as Mrs. Sarah Cooper. It is not known that she had descendants, very likely none. At an early day three sons, Joseph, Thomas and Robert, emigrated to Western Pennsylvania, and later to Eastern and Central Ohio, where they endured all the sufferings and trials of early pioneers. Hope married and remained in Philadelphia or its vicinity in New Jersey. The four remaining daughters and one son probably died in infancy or unmarried.

[Fifth Generation]. Children:

A descendant writes: My great grandparents lived in Beaver Co., Pa. I think Wilksborough was my father's birthplace. They must have died in Ohio somewhere. They seemed to have lived with their children. Great grandmother, I think, lived with her son, Joseph W. White, in Medina Co., O., at Chardon, the county seat. My mother saw her after my parents' marriage, as they made them a visit. She said great grandmother was very old, and at times her mind wandered when she talked of her troubles; at other times her mind was all right and she was very pleasant and quiet—no trouble at all. Great grandfather, it seems, lived with his daughters. I think he lived nearly 100 years and died in the woods, where he wandered. My impression is his body was never found. Ohio in those days was a dense forest, and wolves and panthers were as plentiful as sheep are now. They lived apart in their old days and were taken care of by their children. I do not think great grandfather ever had a burial.

The boat floated down the Sciota and Ohio Rivers to Cairo, from where it was "cordelled" up the Mississippi to the mouth of Wood River, in Madison County, Ill., a point about twenty miles above St. Louis. Here they passed the first winter, making themselves as comfortable as possible. The next spring they moved about 45 miles farther

Their daily lives were those of the early pioneers, ever filled with hard toil to secure and maintain a comfortable home. They were through life members of the M. E. Church, and devoted Christians. Their home was the haven of the early itinerant minister, and their influence always for piety, morality and education.

Allen had surveyed and platted the present site of Greenfield, Ill., so named by his life-long and valued friend, the Rev. J. B. Corrington. At this place he was the first postmaster, which office he held sixteen years; the first merchant, in 1832; the builder and proprietor of the first mill, in 1835; and a justice of the peace, holding the office many years, and to his death. Through life he engaged in the mercantile and milling business. Their home was open to hospitality, and travelers were entertained without charge. They were ever in advance in the cause of education, morality and Christianity, being pillars in the church, in their day entertaining such eminent personages as Lorenzo Dow, Peter Cartwright, Peter Ackers, James B. and winter. During this time preparations were made to locate about 45 miles north, in what subsequently became Greene Co., Ill. They lived as pioneers in the vicinity of Apple Creek until 1842, when they moved to Mason Co., Ill., near Bath. All but the oldest and youngest children were born in Greene Co. For eleven years they engaged in farming and selling merchandise in Mason Co. In 1853 they emigrated to Harrison Co., Ia., then a new country. All of their family were married but two at this time. Only a short time elapsed before all the children were located near them. Here they lived until death. In their home kindness and affection were always displayed. Mrs. Emma Sheets writes: "I am living on the farm my father, Lewis Shreve White, entered from the land office at Steubenville, O., and he and mother cleared up, first building a log house and barn, and then as soon as able a large bank barn and afterward a large frame house. The log house is yet on the place; in it were born mother and father's eight children, and the first grandchild. Of the children, but the two oldest and the youngest are living. When my brother, Cyrus, mother's main support at the time, died, my husband, who is a carpenter by trade, and myself, moved from Alliance to the farm for the sole purpose of taking care of my dear aged mother, who is quite feeble, and Brother Joel, who never married. Many cares keep me very busy. I have no living children. Grandfather came from Athens Co., O. Mother remembers the war of 1812. Coming here when all was a wilderness, she has seen a great many Indians. She has helped to make maple sugar in every field as they cleared them up to pay for the land. Wild animals were numerous, and trees were blazed for a traveling guide. Mother says we do not appreciate the hardships and trials of pioneer life. Brother Lewis K. White was mustered in the U. S. service by Capt. A. E. Drake, 2d Inf., U. S. A., Sept. 18th, 1862, at Camp Massillon, O.; was captured at the battle of Nashville, Tenn., and taken to Andersonville, Ga.; was there several months; then discharged and died at St. Louis, Mo., on his way home, of chronic diarrhoea. He was in Co. F, 115th Reg., Ohio Inf. Vols." Mrs. White has since died. The local paper says: "She has been a remarkable woman, retaining her faculties up to the time of her death."

Joseph Shreve first settled in Mansfield Township, Burlington Co., N. J., on the "Old York Road," occupying the old Shreve mansion on the old homestead, which consisted of between three hundred and four hundred acres. When his son-in-law, Charles Newbold, died in 1807, he moved to Springfield, on his daughter's farm. They lived the remainder of their lives at this place. Joseph Shreve, their son, lived on the Charles Newbold farm until the marriage of Martha Shreve Newbold to Taunton Earl, in 1830, when he returned to the old Shreve homestead, and there built a large new brick house, where he and his wife resided until their respective deaths, leaving no issue.

Samuel Shreve, of Longacoming, commenced his business life with Mark Reeve, a merchant of Medford, Burlington Co., N. J. Reeve was the patentee of cut nails and began their manufacture at Medford by horsepower. He later built a factory at the Falls of Schuylkill, Philadelphia, where he manufactured them for some time. The subsequent history of the cut nail business is well known. About 1864, Reeve died, in Tennessee. Samuel Shreve was with him many years. After leaving him he settled in Longacoming, Gloucester Co., N. J., where in 1816 or 1817 he engaged in the mercantile business with Jonathan Haines. They purchased of Thomas Wright a store room and forty-two and one-half acres of land. In 1818 Samuel Shreve bought his partner's interest and continued the business. In 1819 he married Ann Haines, and about the same year associated farming with his mercantile interests. He was also interested in the manufacture of glass, at Clemington, the first glass works in New Jersey, located four miles from Longacoming. Jonathan Haines had in the meantime started the Waterford Glass Works, and operated them very successfully eight years when he died. Within a very short time thereafter Joseph Porter, Thomas Ivens, of Haddonfield, Samuel Shreve, of Longacoming, and John Ivens, of Marleton, formed a co-partnership and succeeded to the business at Waterford, which for a long time was the leading glass manufacturing establishment in the United States, supplying New York, Philadelphia and Boston markets with their products. They operated the works nearly thirty years. Samuel Shreve retired, and in 1834 bought property at Evesham Mount, now Mount Laurel, where he built a new home, leaving Longacoming for about twenty years. His children grew up and his son, Joseph, marrying, settled at the old homestead in Longacoming. On his daughter, Martha's, marriage, he built for her a new home at the same place. Samuel and his wife returned to Longacoming, living with their daughter, where they died. Their remains were buried in Mount Laurel Cemetery.

"A hasty newspaper sketch can hardly do justice to such a noble man. An active and honorable career of over half a century in our midst, caused him to be familiar to every one. While maintaining a proper dignity, the poorest resident sought his advice and assistance without the slightest hesitation. His countenance was the true index of his honest heart. With all his erudition and wealth, he was a humble man. He belonged to a school, which, unfortunately, appears to be on the decline. A great, broad-minded citizen, he towered far above the petty obstacles of life, and leaves an enduring monument in the hearts of those who had the honor to rank among his friends.

“Mahlon Hutchinson, lawyer, was born May 10th, 1823, in the city of Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, and was a son of the late Randel Hutchinson, Jr., who married Mary Keller, both natives of that State; the former being of Welsh descent, while the latter was of German lineage. Mahlon received his preliminary education at the Lawrenceville High School, and graduated with the highest honor; he subsequently entered Princeton College in 1840, and remained there until 1841, being a classmate of the Hon. John P. Stockton, now Attorney General of New Jersey. Having determined to embrace the legal profession, he entered as a student the office of the Hon. Henry W. Green, with whom he remained until he completed the prescribed course of reading; and was licensed as an attorney in 1845, and as counselor in 1854. He immediately entered upon the practice of his profession, locating at Bordentown, where he remained ever since engaged in legal pursuits, and had the control of an extensive and lucrative line of patronage. In 1853, he was elected on the Whig ticket a member of the Legislature, from the First district of Burlington county; that being the first year when the district system was adopted in this county. While a member of the House in 1853 and 1854, he served on several important committees, chief among them being those on the Judiciary, the Educational and on the Insane Asylum; he declined a nomination for the year 1855. He was appointed in 1860, by Governor Olden, Prosecutor of Pleas for Burlington county, which position he retained for five years. He was likewise commissioned as one of the Commissioners of the Supreme Court of New Jersey. Also United States Commissioner, and in addition, held the position of a Master and Examiner in Chancery. He was Presidential elector on the Republican ticket in the year 1884. He served as a member of the Public School Board for three years, and was President of the Board of Trustees of the Bordentown Female College. He had been for the past 36 years a Director of the Bordentown Bank, and its President at the time of his death. He has been the trusted representative of many large estates belonging to residents of this city, now deceased, viz.: Samuel Pancoast, Emily Pancoast, Samuel C. Taylor, Samuel Bunting. He was also Director of the First National Bank of Trenton. He was an elder of the Presbyterian Church for many years, and was a generous and liberal supporter of the church. He presented the parsonage to the church about three years ago. He was instrumental in moving the location of the church to upper Hammond Avenue, and contributed largely to the building of the same. He has ever taken an active interest in the affairs of his adopted State, especially in connection with the various lines of railway, which have been constructed within the past twenty-five years. Since the disintegration of the Whig party he has affiliated with the Republican organization. He was first married to Anna Elizabeth Hamilton, of Trenton, N. J. She and her daughter both died the same year. He was married February 23d, 1848, to Amy Newbold Shreve, daughter of Caleb Shreve, of Mansfield, Burlington county."—(From Bordentown Register.)

allowed peaceable possession of their lands until they died. They were regularly fed in winter by the Shreve family and the doors at night were not locked, so that it sometimes happened that a company of Indians would enter the farm house, still warm from the generous fires of the evening. The Indians, in accordance with previous permission, would put wood upon the embers in the large fireplace and make a good fire, then go to the larder and get what was in sight, cook what they wished to eat, make some hot coffee, eat and drink in silence, put the remainder away carefully, sweep the floor, cover up the fire, shut the doors carefully and then retire to their wigwams in peace, the Shreve family now and then taking a peep of interest to see if they had enough to eat, or sleeping entirely composed, as the Shreves can sleep like all good Hollanders can. The last Indians to live on the property were two women named Tryphemia and Moll—no other name—who were taken care of while they lived. Isaac Shreve always kept in his stable a horse which would pull the stages on their way from Philadelphia and New York out of the clay slough when the four stage horses were taken out after they had in vain tried it. The horse seemed proud of his prowess and was always kept in certain seasons harnessed in readiness for the work. The stage drivers always stopped on their way to partake of Mr. Shreve's hospitality and the passengers would get a share also. Isaac Shreve and his wife, Abigail, attended the Friends' meeting at Mansfield; in the Friends' graveyard they are buried, as are many others of the Shreve family.

"I was present (a child of five or six years) when grandmother was buried. The love, sympathy and patience of her and her children I never expect to see again on earth, I could appreciate them, although so young. I stayed awhile after the funeral, and was taken to the different homes on little visits. Everywhere it was the same. Peace and rest seem to have pervaded every home. No jarrings, no disputings, no complaining. I must give this tribute to the Shreve family. They were known everywhere for their peaceful traits and hospitality."

Mrs. Caroline Bridge, the writer, continues: "It is rather remarkable that in all my acquaintance with the Shreve family, of course very extensive, I have met with none who have not been either a Whig in the past or a staunch Republican in later times."

196. iii. WILLIAM AMBROSE SHREVE, the third child and third son of William Shreve and Sarah Bryant, was b. March 8th, 1810, near Bordentown, N. J.; m. Mary Ann Tiel, dau. of William Tiel, in 1845, at Bordentown, N. J. He d. Nov. 6th, 1887, in Franklin, Venango Co., Pa., at the residence of his brother-in-law, John Tiel.

William Ambrose Shreve was remarkable for enterprise and urbanity. He embarked in the oil business in Oil City, Pa., and soon made a fortune at the commencement of the oil boom in that locality. Previously he had successfully engaged in gold mining in California. His sons went with him to prosecute mining. His wife and her sisters accompanied him to his silver mining property, where he had built a handsome residence. Mrs. Tiel and her sister a few days after their arrival at Owensville became suddenly ill and died about the same hour and were buried in one of the cemeteries near the big trees of Mariposa. Those who knew the persons well understand the sadness of the separation in life and death.

As Bordentown was always the home of the deceased, no matter to what part of the country he went for a season, he and his family are well known to most of our readers. His life was an eventful one, and a history of his experience would fill a good-sized volume. In 1849 he went to the Golden State, but, contrary to the rule of the day, did not engage in mining for the precious metal. There were fortunes to be made in other channels. Mr. Shreve was the first man to discover lime rock in California and he manufactured the first bricks ever used in the construction of a building in San Francisco. He had numerous lime kilns and brickyards, and there was a brisk demand for their product. After accumulating over $100,000, he returned to Bordentown and erected the handsome mansion on Farnsworth avenue, above Burlington street. The spacious grounds were beautified with rare plants and flowers, fountains and statuary. He had a large family, and they enjoyed their good fortune until reverses set in. At this juncture petroleum was discovered, and Mr. Shreve and the late John L. McKnight owned and controlled large tracts of land in the coal regions of Pennsylvania. The new discovery made Mr. Shreve a millionaire. Retiring from business a second time, he refitted his mansion, and the surrounding gardens were made far more beautiful than ever. On every side evidence was furnished of the extreme liberality of Mr. Shreve. He entertained like a prince. In an unfortunate moment he was beguiled into cotton speculation in New York. Then it was the old, old story—advancing thousands in the hope of preserving other thousands in danger of being swept away. Those who know how even so sagacious a man as the late President Grant had his millions to melt away without the power to prevent it, may fancy the position of the deceased. Once more fate had decreed that he should fight fickle fortune. Blessed with an ambition that never admitted the thought of failure, he once more went valiantly to work. This time he engaged in cattle raising, connecting himself with a company having a ranch in New Mexico and Nebraska. Tiring of New Mexico, and depressed by the death of his estimable wife in California, he came east. After a few years he accidentally made the discovery that he still held the title to productive oil property in Pennsylvania. Thither he went, and, after gathering sufficient funds, he determined to start this week to Nebraska and work his cattle ranch with all energy. But “man proposes and God disposes.” The letter he mailed to his brother in this city—a missive of four pages, teeming with the writer’s brilliant prospects—did not reach its destination until a few hours after the sorrowful telegram announcing his death.

Mr. Shreve was a kind, noble man. His friendship knew no bounds. He saw only the bright side of everything. Had he been more thoughtful of self and less generous to others—less confident in those who understood the wiles of the world better than he—to-day he might have been living in affluence and happiness. The years of continual strain on his fine nervous system was too much for poor human nature to withstand. The vital cord was suddenly snapped and the spark of life went out forever in a moment of time.

The remains were brought here to his native place, and yesterday, amid the genuine sorrow of old friends and relatives, laid away in the Bordentown cemetery.—From Bordentown, N. J., Paper.

Mr. Shreve at one time was a prominent figure in the oil business. He came to this city in 1861, from Bordentown, N. J., where he was engaged in the banking business. At various times he was associated with divers persons in the oil business, and the firms of Shreve & Tilson and Shreve & Marston were well known in the commerce of the region. He was a director of the Columbia Oil Company and one of the largest holders of its stock; he was interested in the Egbert farm and owned stock in the Sherman and Caldwell wells, two of the best known gushers of their day. He organized and was the first president of the First National Bank of this city. In 1865 he went to New York and in connection with Tilson and Rehren engaged in the banking business. They opened a branch banking house in the South, and through the speculation of its cashier the banks lost money. Mr. Shreve, after residing in New Jersey for some years, came back to the oil country. About four years ago he moved to California, where two years later Mrs. Shreve died. At the time of his death he owned important mining interests in Mariposa county, California, where his two sons, William T. and Harry, all that now remain of his family, reside. He was a heavy investor in mining stock, and it was his misfortune to be a co-sufferer with many of his old friends and former townsmen in the late lamented Sunset mine. He was interested with Pool Bros., of Pithole memory, in valuable tracts of agricultural lands in Nebraska. Mr. Shreve was a genial gentleman, large hearted and generous to a fault. Of the many anecdotes related of his generosity this one will bear repeating. During a period of depression in the oil business in the early days, things looked blue and the business seemed to be going to the bowwows about as fast as it could go. Investors grew panicky and wanted out; in their anxiety to let go choice stocks went at a sacrifice. Shreve bought a large block of Columbia oil stock for something like $10,000; at all events, the stock brought but a fraction of its real value. Mr. Shreve advised the party to hold on to what he had and get more if he could. At last, as a favor to the seller, too, he took the stock off his hands at a price mutually agreed upon. In a short time Mr. Shreve sold the same stock at an advance of $350,000. Then he hunted up the panicky seller and made him a present of $50,000.

His last ventures in oil were made with Mr. S. H. Lamber-ton, of this city, at Four Mile, N. Y.

So long as he had means no deserving charity passed him by unnoticed. His hosts of friends in this region will be pained to hear of his death.—From Oil City, Pa., Paper.

He sold this place and moved to Jennings Co., Ind., near Vernon, where he died. He and his father served in the Indian war of 1816. James Allen, the remaining son, served in the Civil War, loyal to his Government. At the battle of Wilson Creek, Mo., he was wounded and lingered a time in the hospital at Lexington, Mo.; soon after coming home he died of his wound. Mrs. Bassett was married at her father's home to her husband, a young farmer, by the Rev. Macintosh, Baptist minister of Middle Fork Church. At once commenced house keeping in a one and one-half story hewed log house of four rooms, about one mile from her father's, living there about fifteen years. They sold this farm and bought 280 acres of land near by, mostly covered with a dense growth of timber and underbrush, where they moved and lived in enjoyment for about twelve years, when again they sold their property, moved to Cross Plains, Ind., where Mr. Bassett formed a co-partnership with his son-in-law, Jacob Lacock, they buying a carding and fueling mill in connection with a grist and saw mill, with 50 acres of land. They were dissatisfied with business life and again sold their property, seeking a home in the then thinly settled county of Linn, Iowa. In this county, with their family, in 1855, they located on a farm adjoining Linn Grove. They again sold their property and moved to Mount Vernon, a small country town. At this time they purchased a farm one and one-half miles north of the place to which they moved. Here Mr. Bassett died, and she operated the farm for five years. She then sold it and moved to Mount Vernon, Iowa, where she now resides, having purchased property there.

Although reared in the peaceful doctrines of the Society of Friends, Captain Richard L. R. Shreve was the youngest of four brothers that volunteered in the Union army in the late Civil War. Mr. Shreve left a mercantile pursuit and a pleasant home to join the National Guards—Captain Neff—as a private. He served three months in that capacity with honor and was among the first wounded in that campaign. Scarcely a week had elapsed after his company had been mustered out before he joined the 72d Regiment Pennsylvania Volunteers, Company I, as Second Lieutenant, and at the close of the year 1861 was promoted to the First Lieutenantcy for gallant conduct on the field of battle. In 1862, for like meritorious conduct, he received a Captain's commission and at the unanimous request of Company B, of the same regiment, was assigned to that brave but ill-fated company which had already lost three captains in battle. In the terrific struggle at Gettysburg Capt. Shreve received a fourth wound that shattered his left arm and deprived him of its use. In this disabled condition impelled by the noblest impulses of duty and patriotism, he left a young and confiding wife to whom he had been married but a few months and was devotedly attached, to join his company and lead it again into the very whirlpool of death. Within ten days his lifeless body was returned to his sorrowing family and friends. Capt. Shreve died in the full consciousness of his Christian training. On leaving home for the last time he remarked that he "never went into battle without first offering up a prayer to the Giver of all Good for guidance and protection." His was a noble character and an honorable death. He was the second of the four brothers to die in battle—at the time two others were bearing arms.

Charles Shreve was President of the old State Bank of Mount Holly.

Rebecca Pitman Cox, through her mother, was of Scotch and Huguenot extraction. Jane Ross, her mother, was the daughter of Dr. Alexander Ross and Elizabeth Becket. Dr. Ross was born in Scotland in 1713 and was a son of John Ross of Carnbrock, a small estate near Stranrad, Wyntonshire, Scotland, which his family had owned for many generations. Dr. Ross graduated from the University of Edinburg and during the first half of the last century came to America, settling in Bristol, Pa., where he practiced medicine with Dr. John Abraham De Normandie, whose niece, Elizabeth Becket, he subsequently married. He also practiced in Burlington, N. J., and finally located about 1752 in Mount Holly, N. J., where he died May 10th, 1780, his remains being buried in St. Andrew's churchyard in that place. He was one of the most skillful and prominent physicians in South Jersey, in his practice covering an extent of territory the circuit of which required two weeks to travel, on which occasions he rode an old black mare with his saddlebags stuffed with medicines, and often slept in the fields or forest, wherever night overtook him.

Elizabeth Becket's grandmother was Marguerite De Normandie, who at the revocation of the edict of Nantes fled with her family from France to Geneva, from there to England, then settling in Bristol, Pa., where her son, John A. De Normandie, was born in July, 1713. The latter was a man of extensive travel, of great learning and scientific attainments; a member of the American Philosophical Society of Philadelphia in 1768 and of the New Jersey Medical Society in 1790.

Richard Cox, the father of Rebecca Pitman Cox, was born in 1754 and died in 1816 in Mount Holly, N. J. He was Lieutenant in the Third Regiment of Continental Troops raised in New Jersey, which joined the Northern Army in 1776 and in garrison at Ticonderoga, 1777. In the spring he raised a company in the same regiment and near the close of the Revolutionary war rose by regular promotion to a Majority. Major Cox, being a good disciplinarian, was sometimes inspector of the "Jersey Brigade," and universally esteemed an intelligent, active, brave officer. The Jersey line of officers, knowing his correctness in accounts and his integrity, chose him treasurer of the Society of the Cincinnati in New Jersey on its first institution, in 1783, and annually re-elected him until 1811, when on account of his ill-health he declined, and received the thanks of the society for his faithful discharge of the duties of treasurer for twenty-eight years.

One of the oldest and most respected citizens of Mount Holly passed away on Saturday evening, when Richard C. Shreve died at his residence on Mill street, of apoplexy, after a short illness. He was the oldest subscriber of the Mirror at the time of his death.

The following sketch of his eventful career is from the pen of Isaac W. Pennypacker, of Mount Holly:

Richard Cox Shreve was born in Mount Holly, May 22d, 1808. He well remembered being driven about the streets of Mount Holly by his grandfather, Major Richard Cox, an officer of the Continental Army, to see the illumination in 1815, in honor of the treaty of peace ending the second war with England. When a lad of seven years he spent six months with his Uncle Wilmer, father of Bishop Wilmer, of Alabama, and then went to the Friends' boarding school at Westtown, Pa. In 1823, when 15 years old, he entered a relative's store at Wrightstown, N. J., and soon became the manager. There he frequently saw Murat and Joseph Bonaparte. In 1830, on attaining his majority, he returned to Mount Holly to take charge, with his brother Alexander, of the large mill property which they had inherited from their father.

From this time Richard C. Shreve was one of the most active and respected citizens of Burlington county. He was foremost in every local enterprise. His first vote was cast for John Quincy Adams for President against Andrew Jackson, and during life he voted the Whig or Republican ticket. He was intimate with Samuel L. Southard, New Jersey's famous statesman, of whom Clay said he was the greatest orator in Congress. Among his playmates at Westtown school were Thomas P. Cope, the great shipping merchant of Philadelphia; Samuel Sharpless, the merchant, and the Morris boys, of Morris & Tasker. He was one of the original subscribers to the Mount Holly Fair, became a member of the ancient Relief Fire Company of Mount Holly in 1832, was a director of the Burlington County Insurance Company at Medford for 25 years; was senior warden of Trinity Episcopal church, of which he was one of the founders, and superintended the construction of the church building. He was one of a committee appointed to take charge of the surplus revenue awarded to New Jersey as one of the original thirteen States, by the general government during the administration of John Quincy Adams, and turned over the last of the sums to the county treasurer. He was one of the most persistent workers in overcoming the political influences of the Camden and Amboy Railroad, and in securing from the Legislature a charter to build the railroad from Mount Holly to Philadelphia, and subscribed to $5,000 worth of the stock of the original scheme. He was one of a committee appointed by the Legislature to sell the stock of the contemplated road from Camden to Keyport. He was chairman in 1849 of the meeting which formed the first building association in this section of the country, and held the office of president for a dozen years or more. Up to the time of his death he was a director of the Camden and Burlington County Railroad. He was one of the founders of the Mount Holly Water Works, for many years was its president, and owning the water power himself, practically contributed the water supply to the company for many years. His memory of local happenings and public events and of Burlington county families and individuals, of the State political leaders and distinguished Jerseymen of a half century and more ago, with a great number of whom he had intimate political, business and social relations, was remarkably clear, and his mind was a storehouse of information concerning men and measures local and general.—From Mount Holly (N. J.) Mirror.

Hackley of Bardstown, Ky., in the summer of 1853. He d. in Port Gibson, Miss., Aug. 31st, 1878, of yellow fever.

When about fifteen years of age Charles Shreve was received as an apprentice in the well-known firm of John Hart, in the city of Philadelphia, and thus qualified himself for the management of the intricate and important business of druggist.

He first came south in October, 1835; remaining a few weeks at Natchez, he then came on to Port Gibson and entered the drug store of Samuel P. Bernard, where he remained as clerk until 1836, when he went to Grand Gulf, where he continued in business until 1853, when he finally settled in Port Gibson.

As a man of honor and integrity Mr. Shreve had no superior. His fidelity to trust and duty was unswerving. He relied on industry, economy and perseverance as the elements of success. Himself and family were victims of the yellow fever epidemic which raged in the South in the fall of 1878. He was first stricken with the disease. Only a few days after his death his wife—a noble Christian character—a model wife and mother, passed into the great beyond and two days later their son Charles Shreve, Jr., a young man of many virtues and a promising future, joined them. Three out of the four members of the family that remained at home and were exposed to the disease were swept away in the brief space of ten days.

Mr. Shreve's first marriage was extremely felicitous—his wife was intelligent above her sex; her virtues as wife and hostess, amiableness, dignity of manner, with earnest suavity, rendered her character lustrous and symmetrically shaped.

Mrs. McHenry was a devout Christian woman and was always deeply interested in the welfare of Trinity Church. Mr. McHenry was a member of the first vestry and for some years Warden of the church. She survived his death twenty-eight years and in her advanced life the Christian graces shone radiantly—perfectly developed. Subsequently their only surviving child, in memory of her parents, presented Trinity Church a handsome lectern, said to be the finest in New Jersey, being seven feet high, made of bronze, with brass trimmings. The figure is that of an angel in bronze standing on a globe also of bronze, the whole resting on a beautifully polished brass base. The upper desk part is also of brass and rests upon the uplifted hands of the angel above its head on which is a suitable inscription. Mrs. McHenry in her youth was pronounced by Prince Murat the handsomest woman in the Jerseys.

Rachel Ridgway Ivins' father died when she was six years old; her mother when she was nine. After the death of her mother she lived with her cousin, Joshua Wright, at Trenton, New Jersey, until eighteen years of age. Afterwards lived at Hornerstown for two or three years with Richard Ridgway.

While living here was baptized and became a member of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-Day Saints.

In 1842 visited Nauvoo, Ill., with one of her cousins. Was at Nauvoo when Joseph Smith, the prophet, was martyred. After the death of the prophet returned to Hornerstown, New Jersey. Leaving there in 1853 she emigrated to Salt Lake Valley with her sister Anna and a number of members of the Church residing at Tom's River, New Jersey. Arrived in Salt Lake Valley on the 10th day of August, 1853, and has resided there continuously ever since. Was married as a plural wife to Jedediah M. Grant, in November, 1855.

Her relatives in the East were quite well to do financially, and by renouncing her religion she could have lived in comfort with the money which one of her brothers offered to settle upon her. But she preferred to remain faithful to her chosen religion, and reared her only son in poverty and by hard work succeeded in giving him some educational opportunities.

In the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-Day Saints there is an organization known as the Female Relief Society. There is a general organization embracing the whole Church, and subdivisions embracing districts presided over by local officers. She has been the president of the Female Relief Society of the Thirteenth Ecclesiastical Ward in Salt Lake City ever since the date of its organization, thirty-three years ago, and has been an active worker in this line all her life. She is looked upon as one of the most devoted and faithful members in the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-Day Saints. Is a good public speaker.

Jedediah Morgan Grant was the son of Joshua and Thalia Grant, born in Windsor, Broome County, New York, on the 21st day of February, 1816. He became a member of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-Day Saints by baptism, March 21st, 1833. Filled a number of successful preaching missions, principally in the Southern States, and was associated with the "Mormon" people in Ohio, Missouri and Illinois. He filled a short mission to Philadelphia, in the spring of 1847, returning in June in time to cross the Plains with the first emigration that followed the pioneers to Salt Lake Valley. He was Captain of the Third Hundred. Just before reaching Salt Lake Valley, his wife, Caroline Van Dyke, died. He had previously buried a little daughter by the wayside. Agreeable to her request his wife's remains were brought to Salt Lake Valley for burial.

In May, 1849, when the State Militia was organized, he was elected Brigadier-General of the First Brigade, Nauvoo Legion. This was the cavalry cohort.

In 1852 Daniel H. Wells, who had been Major-General of the Legion, became Lieutenant-General and Jedediah M. Grant was promoted to the Major-Generalship, which office he held until his death. He was a most efficient officer, courteous, and energetic and just. It is said of him that in difficulties with the Indians, he was not only wise and tactful, but as jealous of the rights of the red men as he was of the safety of the whites.

He visited the Eastern States a number of times, after moving to Salt Lake Valley, on business and church matters. He was the first Mayor of Salt Lake City, which was incorporated in January, 1851. He held the office first by appointment of the Governor and Legislature, and afterwards by election under the City Charter in April of the same year. He was an efficient Mayor and energetic, and held the office by continuous election as long as he lived.

He was a member of the Council in the First Legislative Assembly in the territory of Utah, which convened in Salt Lake City, September, 1851.

Was elected in 1852 to the Legislature and chosen speaker of the House of Representatives, a position filled by him during that and the three subsequent sessions. His quick perception, sound practical judgment and high sense of right enabled him to render valuable assistance to his fellow law-makers, while at the same time he was an excellent presiding officer.

In 1854 was chosen Second Counselor to President Brigham Young in the First Presidency of the Church of Jesus Christ of Later-Day Saints. He died December 1st, 1856, in the forty-first year of his age: a comparatively short life as to time, but a long life if reckoned by its achievements. President Brigham Young stated at his funeral: "He has been in the Church upwards of twenty-three years, and was a man that would live, comparatively speaking, one hundred years in that time."

His wife Caroline, who died on the way to Salt Lake Valley, had two children, both daughters, both of whom are dead. His wife, Rosetta Robison, bore him a son and daughter, Jedediah Morgan and Henrietta. His wife Susan Noble was the mother of Joseph Hyrum and Susan Vilate, who is dead. His wives Sarah Ann Thurston, Louisa M. Golay, Marietta Kesler and Rachel R. Ivins, each bore him a son, who are named respectively—George S., Joshua F., Brigham F. and Heber J. George S. was accidentally killed while rabbit hunting.

In a series of letters written by Mayor Grant to the New York Herald we learn that his father's paternal grandfather came from Scotland, while his later ancestors were all New Englanders of the old stock, two of them fighting for independence in the War of the Revolution.

[Eighth Generation]. Children:

35. i. Heber Jeddy Grant; b. Salt Lake City, Utah, Nov. 22, 1856; m. Lucy Stringham, Georgetown, Utah, Nov. 1, 1877; Hulda Augusta Winters, May 26, 1884; Emily Harris Wells, May 27, 1884; l. Salt Lake City, Utah.

35. i. HEBER JEDDY GRANT, the only child of Rachel Ridgway Ivins and Jedediah Morgan Grant, was b. Nov. 22d, 1856, in Salt Lake City, Utah; m. Lucy Stringham in Georgetown, Utah, Nov. 1st, 1877; Hulda Augusta Winters, May 26th, 1884; Emily Harris Wells, May 27th, 1884; Lucy Stringham (d. Jan. 3d, 1893). He resides in Salt Lake City.

Heber Jeddy Grant resided in Salt Lake City until Oct., 1880; then moved to Tooele City in an adjoining county. Resided there for two years, then returned to Salt Lake City and resided continuously until the present time. Attended private schools and the University of Deseret, until fifteen years of age; then entered an insurance office. Worked as insurance clerk and in a bank until twenty years of age, and then went into the fire insurance business for himself. Mr. Grant is to-day president of the Home Fire Insurance Co. of Utah, The State Bank of Utah, The Co-operative Wagon & Machine Co., and has held the offices of president from the date that these companies were incorporated. These companies each have a cash capital of a quarter of a million dollars.

Served one term in the Territorial Legislature, as a member of the Council. Was a member of the City Council of Salt Lake City for several years; elected to both of these offices. Is a member of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-Day Saints. While in Tooele County, was the president of the Ecclesiastical Subdivision of the Church for Tooele County. After returning from Tooele to Salt Lake City, was made one of the Quorum of the Twelve Apostles of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-Day Saints. This Church is presided over by a presidency of three, the next in authority being the Quorum of the Twelve Apostles. Politically is a Democrat.

His father died when he was a child nine days old. His mother had a very hard struggle to make a livelihood and to give her son some advantages of education in his youth.

The subject of this sketch was raised in poverty, so to speak. In his youth knew many adverse circumstances. Is to-day one of the leading officials of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-Day Saints, and the president of three successful corporations, enumerated above; also the president of the Salt Lake Dramatic Association, proprietors of the finest theater in Salt Lake City, erected by the late Brigham Young. In his youth was too poor to afford the luxury of a twenty-five cent ticket, price of admission to the third gallery in the Salt Lake Theater, and he used to carry water up three flights of stairs to gain admission. As president of the theater company he has the privilege of occupying a box free of charge.

The place of his birth was on Main Street. The old Grant Homestead is now occupied by the large store of the Zion's Co-operative Mercantile Institution, an institution with a capital of over one million, and has a business of over three million dollars a year.

Mr. Grant is a director and chairman of the executive committee of this institution.

Caleb Shreve was a member of the New Jersey Assembly in 1776 and 1777, also a member of the assembly meeting at Trenton, 1778 and 1779, and 1783 and 1784. Sept. 14th, 1777, he and eight others were appointed a committee to join with a committee of council to district the State and appoint persons to recruit men for the Continental service (Votes and Proceedings of the General Assembly of New Jersey, Vol. V.) During the Revolutionary War he held two offices under the United States Government. While in the service he was pursued by Mr. Bacon, the British officer. Each held his loaded musket aimed at the other—both muskets snapped—they then turned away and both of their firearms fired off. It was he that the same Mr. Bacon shot at when the ball entered the wall of Crosswit Meeting House in New Jersey, the ball remaining there many years.

Benjamin Shreve was a member of Friends' Meeting and was disowned by them for having taken part in the war of the Revolution (in 1782 and 1783), consequently he was not married by their ceremony, but by a minister. In this connection the following is of interest, showing the course of procedure of the society under such circumstances:

The Friends appointed report they visited Benjamin Shreve in respect to his Bearing Arms in a Military way, he informed them he expected to continue therein, therefore this Meeting disowns him, the said Benjamin Shreve, from being a Member of our Religious Society until he becomes sensible of his Deviation and condemns the same as Discipline directs. William Satterthwaite and Barzillai Furman are appointed to give him a Copy of this Minute, inform him of his right of Appeal, and report to next Meeting.

Extracted from the Minutes of a Monthly Meeting of Friends held at Chesterfield, the 6th of the 2d. Mo. 1783.

By SAMUEL WRIGHT, Clerk.

It is said he would never acknowledge that he had done wrong in bearing arms, and was never again a member of the society.

COPY OF HIS MARRIAGE CERTIFICATE.

This may certify to all whom it may concern that Benjamin Shreve and Rebecca Lippincott were legally joined together in the Holy Banns of Matrimony on April the thirteenth, one thousand seven hundred and eighty-five (1785).

S. H. Shreve was born at Trenton, N. J., Aug. 2d, 1829, his ancestors being among the colonial proprietors of New Jersey. He graduated from Princeton in 1848 and from the Harvard Law School two years later. He practiced law at Green Bay, Wis., and subsequently at Chicago until about 1853, when he returned east to prepare himself for the engineering profession, toward which he was attracted by a love of mathematics. His best work was done as an engineer, and his reputation achieved as such.

He was engaged early in his career as an engineer in defining the complicated boundary lines under old colonial deeds in Ocean County, N. J., and made careful surveys for the purpose. Between 1860 and 1863 he was engaged as engineer on the Southern Railroad of New Jersey and its branches, and was connected later with other surface railways. He was interested in the elevated railway projects in New York City from their inception in 1866, but took no active part until he aided the development of the Gilbert Elevated Railway just before it became the Metropolitan Elevated Railway.

He was retained as consulting engineer by one of the first rapid transit commissions in New York, and afterward by the Metropolitan Railroad. He became identified with the design and construction of the Sixth Avenue line and the structures on the east and west side of the city, built for the joint use of the New York and the Metropolitan Elevated Railways. At this time, the most active in elevated railway construction, Mr. Shreve was recognized as a leader in this class of engineering work, and in 1881 was appointed chief engineer of the Brooklyn Elevated Railroad, a position he held to the time of his death, Nov. 27th, 1884. All the essential features of the first Brooklyn elevated road were designed by him, and the most important portion of the line had been completed before he died.

In 1873 he published a work on the strength of bridges and roofs, which was translated into French. It was one of the first to succeed the pioneer work of Squire Whipple, printed in 1847, and discussed only the simple forms of trusses. It was to have been followed by another volume on the cantilever and the more complicated trusses, which was partly written at the time of his death.

The mathematical attainments of Mr. Shreve were notable, but in his published writings he has made use of only algebraic processes. In order to avoid the use of the calculus in problems where the maximum or minimum values of a function have to be determined, the equation containing only the first or second powers of the independent variable, he devised a process which he explained in an article in Van Nostrand's Engineering Magazine, Vol. 15, page 530. While recognizing the utility and convenience of graphics, he preferred algebraic methods of computation, in which he became so expert, that, having written an equation of the second degree, he effected the transformations mentally, and wrote down the values of the variable after a brief pause. He served as Associate Editor of the 1878 edition of "Johnson's Encyclopedia." Mr. Shreve became a member of the American Society of Civil Engineers, May 19th, 1869. In volumes 3 and 4 of Transactions will be found two discussions of some length written by him on the subject of arch trusses.—From the Proceedings of the American Society of Civil Engineers, April, 1896.

For several years preceding his death Mr. Shreve, as a recreation, had devoted much time in collecting genealogical data of the Shreve family. He was the first to take an interest in the subject and was generous in distributing his knowledge by personal letters and published articles. Much of his early researches are embodied in this volume.

His daughter Margaret Johns married Gerard Hopkins in 1700 at a Monthly Meeting at the house of William Richardson, at West River, Md. The poet Wordsworth, though much older than she, was a warm personal friend of hers. She visited him at his own country home. After she had passed her eighty-fifth birthday, she left England, where she had resided most of her life, and crossing the Atlantic, passed the remainder of her years in America. Until the close of her long and unusually eventful career of nearly ninety years she retained her rare intelligence and pleasing manners.

Grant and Sherman at Shiloh on the first day of the battle; then three and one-half years with General John H. Morgan, and was the last Colonel of his original dashing famous cavalry regiment. Col. Thomas Shreve and Ann Hopkins were prominent members of the Society of Friends, the latter of whom was nearly related to John Hopkins, who gave to Baltimore the grand university that bears his name.

The burning of Washington by the British and the stagnation of business resulting from the war of 1812 caused a failure in his calico mills there, and Thomas H. Shreve came to Cincinnati, hoping to better his financial condition. Here he purchased an interest in the "Cincinnati Mirror," which he had the credit of greatly improving. In 1838 he moved to Louisville and became a member of the extensive wholesale dry goods house of Joshua B. Bowles & Company. When the firm sold out, he accepted an editorial chair in the office of the old "Louisville Journal," and was for many years an able coadjutor of George D. Prentice, and finally did most of the heavier work in "leaders" in that influential paper. Mr. Shreve's editorials were copied throughout the Union. He warmly advocated Henry Clay for the presidency, and for a brilliant series of his papers in this advocacy admirers of Mr. Clay presented Mr. Prentice a handsome silver service, thinking him the author. When personal friends insisted that Mr. Shreve should let it be known that he was the author of the articles, he modestly insisted that as Mr. Prentice was senior editor, he had to bear all the censure and hence was entitled to all the honor given the Journal's articles. Mr. Shreve was naturally an essayist. He wrote "Drayton, a Story of American Life," a work eulogized by the press. He also wrote several poems of great merit and excelled as an artist of the easel and brush. His wife was a talented lady, and from the union were three daughters, all talented in various ways, but all of whom died young, although Mrs. Shreve spent a fortune in quest of their health, which probably lengthened their lives, but one by one the fond mother lived to see them pass away.

DESCENDANTS OF WILLIAM SHREVE AND ANNA IVINS.

ANCESTRY.

- I. Thomas Sheriff and Martha ———.
- II. Caleb Shreve and Sarah Areson. (3. iii.) 18
- III. Benjamin Shreve and Rebecca French. (25. x.)
- IV. William Shreve and Anna Ivins. (59. iv.)

59. iv. WILLIAM SHREVE, the fourth child and third son of Benjamin Shreve and Rebecca French, was b. Aug. 4th, 1737, in Burlington Co., N. J.; m. 1st, Anna Ivins, of Springfield, Burlington Co., N. J., May 8th, 1756; 2d, Mrs. Ann Reckless, July 17th, 1779. He d. in 1812 in Burlington Co., N. J.

The book of "Marriage Licenses" at Trenton, N. J., contains this entry:

William Shreve, of Springfield, Burlington Co., New Jersey—Yoeman—married May 8th, 1756, Anna Ivins, of Springfield, Burlington Co., New Jersey.

Bondsman—Moses Ivins, of Springfield, Burlington Co., N. J., Yeoman.

Witnesses—Gab Bland. Sam'l Peart.

The Military List "Official Register of the Officers and Men of New Jersey in the Revolutionary War" contains the entry:

William Shreve, 1st Maj: First Reg Burlington Sept. 28 1776 Lieut. Col. ditto March 15 1777 Col ditto April 18 1778.

Little has been ascertained of Col. William Shreve's career before his services during the Revolutionary War. After that period he was a man of business, and owned at one time vessels on the sea.

His marriage occurred when he was nineteen years of age, and his oldest child was Jeremiah Warder, who also married young, in 1775, or when eighteen years of age. It is mentioned among descendants that at one time father and son courted the same girl and in the conquest for her hand the son came out victorious. Col. William Shreve married the second time Mrs. Ann Reckless, widow of Joseph Reckless and daughter of Joseph and Hannah Woodard; this was in 1779. It appears that during his military career he was a widower.

While on duty in the army the British plundered, burned and destroyed his property, consisting of house, barn and outhouses with contents, amounting in value to £1,355.15. The property was located in Burlington County, and its destruction occurred June 23d, 1778.

After the close of the war he was shopkeeper in Mansfield, but in 1782 the business proved disastrous, and on Nov. 2d of that year he and his wife assigned "all their real and personal estate to Jeremiah Warder, Jr., Mordecai Lewis and Samuel Coates, merchants of Philadelphia, in trust for his creditors, he being by misfortune and losses in trade rendered incapable to pay the full amount of his indebtedness, but nevertheless is desirous as far as his power to satisfy his creditors, for 5 shillings he and his wife Ann convey to above merchants everything, to go to his creditors, and if anything is left over, to be for his and his wife's use."

Dec. 12th, 1789, these same men convey the above premises to Moses Ivins for divers sums and £2,537.

He and his wife, with others, in 1788, crossed the Alleghany Mountains; his brother, Col. Israel, then emigrating to his future home in Fayette County, Pa., where the son of the latter (Capt. John Shreve) had preceded two years before. There is no record of his permanent residence there, or of his investing in property in that vicinity.

He probably resumed business in Burlington County, acquiring quite a competency before death. Any real estate he might have possessed was disposed of before the making of his will, which was dated May first, 1810, and devised only personal property amounting to $2,043.17, of which $1,500 were in bonds.

Mrs. Maria M. Whitmore, of Ottawa, Ill., was the oldest grand daughter of Anna Shreve and Nathan Shumard. She well remembers many incidents related to her by her grandmother, who was the daughter of Col. William Shreve. July, 1896, she writes as follows:

My mother has told me that after her mother's—Anna Shreve—marriage to Nathan Shumard, that they moved on Olbanion Creek, where their surroundings were not very good, and they soon after moved, buying a farm on Stone Lick, in Clermont Co., O., on which there was a fine mill site. He soon had a small mill in operation. As his boys grew up, the family got along very well, as well as their neighbors—fellow pioneers. This mill and farm is still in possession of his descendants. My grandmother was loved by her many friends and neighbors and all her children and grand children that knew her rise up and call her blessed. After I was grown my grandfather remarked how good she had always been to him and the children. After the custom of the Quakers she would have no nicknames, all the children must be called by their full names. Although so young, I can well remember her kindness to me. Her character seemed to be made up of love and kindness to all with whom she was in contact. Her last sickness was short. She was in usual health in the morning, but died at four o'clock in the afternoon. The funeral was preached at the house, and she was laid to rest on a high hill selected for the family burying ground, only a short distance from the house. As a child I remember the men carrying her up the hill and we all following, and on our return the prevailing sadness, knowing we had lost our best and dearest one.

I was six years of age when grandmother died, but remember her very well, and often heard her speak of her brothers in Jersey. I do not remember her speaking of her sisters. During the late war, when visiting a friend in North Vernon, Ind., I met an elderly gentleman who had come from Monmouth Co., N. J. On ascertaining I was of Shreve descent, he was much interested, claiming to have known my grandparents before their marriage. He said Anna's father thought a great deal of Nathan, but thought he was too easy and would not take care of property, for he said they were very rich, consequently he was not very willing for them to marry. He said her father gave them a mill, for Nathan was a miller and fixed them with fine property. I had often heard this from my mother, who said they had such a nice place and she wished her father had stayed in Jersey. Grandfather and mother wanted a deed, but her father did not think best, so they moved to Ohio with his brother, Samuel Shumard. This gentleman, whose name I cannot recall, had stayed in Monmouth Co. with a George Shreve, who, he said, was an own cousin of my mothers. Mother related two incidents I well remember—one was how she was cured of the ague. After she had had it a long time, grandfather said to his wife: "Suppose we have Rebecca to tie the ague to a tree." He was sure it would cure her. So they procured a blue yarn string and all three started across the field to the timber. Mother could hardly walk; she was shaking so hard. She tried to climb the fence, but fell and cried. She did not believe it would do any good, but they again urged her. Soon they came to the timber and her grandfather tied the string around a tree and told my mother to take hold of the end and go around the tree, repeating: "Fever and Ague, you have tormented me, and now I'll tie you to this tree," until the string was all wound up. Then grandfather said: "This tree shall never be cut down." Mother said she never had any more of the ague while they lived in Jersey. It seems foolish and silly, but it was a superstition of those days, I suppose. Mother used to talk so much about Jersey. The other incident was when the Redcoats came up the street in Monmouth. I do not know whether before or after the battle. Mother said she saw them coming and hollowed. They looked so pretty, their brass buttons glistening in the sunlight, but directly her grandfather came running and said they were after him, and asking,

"Where shall I go?" some replied, "In the house and hide." He said: "No; they will burn the house." "Then go to the barn." He said: "They are bound to have me and will burn the barn." So he retreated to a thicket and hid. They burned the house and barn. He was near, and the fire so hot he could hardly bear it. The British hunted everywhere for him, as they thought, without finding him. They remounted their horses and left. The family were greatly frightened, and only relieved when they found her grandfather all right. Mother has told me that her great grandfather Shreve had ships sailing on the sea.

John Bailey was a native of Rockbridge Co., Va., and was born in 1762. The place of their marriage is not positively known.

They settled in Centerville, eight miles from Dayton, O. At that time the place was a wilderness occupied by many Indians. Mr. Bailey built a little cabin of rough logs, in which they dwelt during the summer in a most primitive manner, and not until fall was it "chinked and daubed." Their first bed was constructed by boring holes in one of the logs on a side wall in which long pins were driven, the ends resting on forks, on these pins or poles, clap boards were laid and on the boards a bed tick, filled with dried leaves and grass was placed. This for a time was their downy couch until better could be procured. In a few years Mr. Bailey built a more pretentious dwelling of hewn logs, which was quite necessary to accommodate their rapidly increasing family. At one time the Indians showed signs of hostilities. The settlers built a block house and to this place of safety Mr. Bailey took his family. Only a slight skirmish ensued, which resulted in but little damage. When General Harrison, with part of his army, was stationed just across the road from them, their headquarters being in an old stone church, the General and two officers were at times guests of Mr. and Mrs. Bailey. A relative of General Harrison was thrown from a stage and seriously injured. The accident occurred not far from the home of Mr. Bailey, to which the injured man was taken and cared for for two or three weeks. When he had sufficiently recovered, he was carried to Mr. Bailey's carriage, placed on a bed and taken by Mr. Bailey and his daughter Mahlah to Dayton, where he was removed to a canal boat and taken to Cincinnati.

He was born in New Jersey soon after his parents came to this country, and with his parents emigrated to Ohio, settling at Woodburn, near Dayton. After marriage they settled in Dayton and a year later built themselves a home on E. 3d Street. The house still stands, and is owned by their daughter. Mrs. Westerman is still hale and hearty, barring a lameness, caused by a severe fall, and is a prominent resident of that beautiful city. Mr. Westerman was associated with many of Dayton's early enterprises. He was a man of strong opinions and had the courage of his convictions, possessing independence of thought and action. This was evidenced by his style of dress, always wearing a dark blue broadcloth coat and vest cut in full dress pattern, and trimmed in brass buttons.

They resided one year on Staten Island, then moving to Madison Avenue, N. Y. City, returning in 1884 to Staten Island, where they had built a handsome home at 20 Central Avenue, New Brighton. They pass but little time in it, traveling most of the time for health and pleasure. Mrs. Edgar is a daughter of the Revolution. Mr. Edgar was born on Staten Island, and was the son of Dr. David A. Edgar, many years president of the Richmond Medical Society. From boyhood up Mr. Edgar was engaged in the banking business. At the time he was Cashier he was the youngest man in New York City filling that position. He was First Cashier of Lincoln Bank on 42d Street, and upon him devolved much of the responsibility when starting and organizing that institution. 3. RICHARD SHREVE, probably the third child of Col. William Shreve and Anna Ivins, was b. Sept. 25th, 1760, in Burlington County, N. J.; m. Margaret Newbold, of Philadelphia, Pa., in 1783. She was b. May 26th, 1766, and d. Sept. 10th, 1852. He d. in Bloomfield Township, Crawford Co., Pa., Sept. 12th, 1822.

Richard Shreve was "Captain troop, light horse, Burlington, Aug. 7th, 1782," in the Revolutionary War. Soon after its close he married, and at once moved to Fayette County, Pa., a locality that at the time attracted many emigrants from Burlington County, N. J. He remained in Fayette County until the latter part of 1798, when he emigrated to Bloomfield, Penna.—himself and Mr. ——— Bloomfield being the first settlers of prominence in the locality—both emigrating from Fayette County. Richard Shreve obtained employment in a grist mill ("Miles Mill") where now is located Union City. This materially aided in providing for his family, then numbering eight children, the eldest of whom was but fourteen years of age. The surrounding country was a wilderness without roads, schools or churches, the settlers finding their way from place to place by blazing the trees. Their routine of daily life was that of the sturdy pioneer of that period continually beset with perils and dangers, while privations and physical sufferings were great. Fish and wild game were plentiful and afforded the principle food, while they felled the forests and burned the underbrush. As the soil was brought to a state of cultivation, the hard conditions were ameliorated, and better homes and surroundings in a few years prevailed.

Margaret Newbold was a daughter of Thomas Newbold, of New Jersey, and was related to the Newbolds in England that manufactured cutlery. Richard Shreve had resided at Perryopolis before emigrating to Bloomfield. During Commodore Perry's campaign his sons William, Barzillai and Israel took part in guarding the fort at Lake Erie.

Barzillai Shreve was engaged principally in sawing lumber, owning a saw mill and small farm on Oil Creek, two and one-half miles west of Centerville, Crawford Co., Pa. He possessed a remarkably strong voice, which could be heard one mile with little effort on his part. He was a good man, esteemed by all that knew him, possessing many traits like his elder brother, William.

Barzillai Shreve, at the age of thirteen, with his parents, moved from Fayette Co., Pa., to Bloomfield, Pa., where the family endured all the hardships of the early pioneers in conquering the forests. Many adventures were experienced, one of which is recalled.

After Barzillai had arrived at manhood, strong and athletic, he had cleared a small tract of land near his father's, and sown it with rye, of which the bears were fond. One morning he took his club, remarking he would go out and drive the bears from his grain. Accompanied by his dog, they found a bear and two cubs in possession. The dog attacked, but soon was vanquished, returning to its master. The bear pursued and with open mouth attacked them. The first impulse was to flee, but the bear was too near, so the next resource was to climb a small tree or sapling near by, thinking the animal could not follow. However, it followed hand over hand, as himself had done. The sapling could not support their combined weight and bent over, permitting him to strike the ground with one foot and dislodging the bear when the tree again raised up, supporting his weight. His cries for help in the meantime brought assistance from a hunter, who rescued him and captured a cub, while the other foragers escaped. This is but one of the many adventures occurring in those times.

Henry Shreve was reared on a farm. When sixteen years old he engaged in the milling business in his father's flouring mill at Shreve, O., continuing at the business and that of millwright until 1856, when he moved to a farm adjoining, and platted an addition to the town. In 1859 he was elected County Commissioner, serving in the capacity two terms (six years). During this period he was the principle mechanic of the board attending to all the plans and specifications for all public improvements. He held the keys to the county treasury vault for twenty-four hours when it contained a large sum of money. On another occasion he closed the same office when it had been inadvertently left open by the Treasurer. Mr. Shreve held all the township offices at different times excepting Justice of the Peace. He was ever foremost in educational matters and general public improvements.

He returned to Pennsylvania the next December and worked in a saw mill for ten dollars a month. He was next employed in sawing and running lumber from Centerville down the Alleghany and Ohio rivers, continuing four years in the business. Until twenty-one years old he gave his earnings to his father. In 1846 he purchased one hundred acres of land on time and when about half paid for married and at once began improving and clearing up his farm which is two miles and a half from Union City, Penn. Here he has continuously lived. Mr. Shreve joined the Presbyterian Church in 1865 and for nearly thirty years has been elder in the church. He has been elected road master, tax collector, school director and justice of the peace. In the collection of data he has rendered valuable aid without which the descendants of Richard

Rev. Samuel H. Whitmore was born in Clermont Co., O., Dec. 8, 1821; died, June 5, 1891. He was converted Feb. 22d, 1843, and soon after his conversion joined the Church. He was licensed to exhort soon after uniting with the Church, and in 1851 received license to preach. He was abundant in labors from the beginning of his Christian life; and the first year, after receiving license to preach, he preached fifty-two sermons. He was ordained deacon by Bishop Morris, Sept. 24th, 1865, and elder by Bishop Simpson, Sept. 19th, 1869. In 1865 he was appointed to Sugar Creek Circuit, Southeast Indiana Conference, serving that charge one year. He served St. Louis Circuit one year, New Pennington Mission two years, New Trenton Circuit three years, Guilford Circuit three years, Boston Circuit one year, Salem one year, and Otter Creek Mission. He married Maria M. Teal, Jan. 7th, 1846. Theirs was a Christian home. Their living children—two sons and two daughters—are leading useful and earnest Christian lives, one being the wife of Rev. A. R. Beach, of the Southeast Indiana Conference. He was an earnest and instructive preacher. He was often eloquent, with that eloquence born of deep conviction of the truth. With him the gospel was the power of God unto salvation, and he so declared it with much effect to others. In his relations to men he was reserved, but frank; an open, honest soul, and a true friend. He loved the Church, and desired to attend the services of the Lord's house, having but recently moved from the country to Moore's Hill, that he might have a better opportunity to do so. He often said during his illness that he desired to depart and be with Christ. Death was a peaceful falling to sleep in the blessed hope of the Gospel.

Oliver Sheridan Whitmore, at the age of fourteen years, enlisted in Company B, 6th Reg. Indiana Vols. His Captain (afterward Colonel), Hagerman Trip, expected to make him a fifer, as he was so young, but he objected, saying, "they took me in to shoot, and I am going to shoot." His first experience was at Shiloh, and later he was in thirteen hard-fought battles and skirmishes, including Corinth, Stone River, Chattanooga, Chickamauga. At Mission Ridge, half way up the hill, he was wounded, but as no bones were broken, he kept on fighting. He was mustered out Sept. 22d, 1864 (his time expiring at Atlanta). He only remained home five weeks, when he again enlisted until the war was over. He never had a furlough, and was in every engagement his regiment was in. After his discharge he learned the printing business, working at Indianapolis and Chicago. He died of small-pox at the early age of twenty-six.

DESCENDANTS OF COL. ISRAEL SHREVE.

ANCESTRY.

- I. Thomas Sheriff and Martha ———.
- II. Caleb Shreve and Sarah Areson. (3. iii.)
- III. Benjamin Shreve and Rebecca French. (25. x.)
- IV. Israel Shreve and 1st Grace Gurtis; 2d Mary Cokely.
(60. v.)

60. v. ISRAEL SHREVE, the fifth child and fourth son of Benjamin Shreve and Rebecca French, was b. Dec. 24th, 1739, in Burlington Co., N. J.; m. 1st, Grace Curtis, Feb. 27th, 1760, by Friends' ceremony in Burlington Co., N. J. She d. Dec. 12th, 1771; 2d, Mary Cokely, dau. of Cornelius and Johanna Cokely, May 10th, 1773, in Philadelphia, Pa. She was b. Aug. 17th, 1749, in Amity Tp., Berks Co., Pa. He d. Dec. 14th, 1799, in Fayette Co., Pa.

Israel Shreve was thirty-six years of age when the battle of Bunker Hill occurred and at the time was living on the "Franklin Park Farm" in Rancocas, Burlington County, New Jersey, and as far as known his only occupation was farming. He was evidently a man of influence and integrity and had acquired a sufficient knowledge of law to occupy the office of justice, for which he was commissioned in Gloucester County, February 28th, 1775, and in Burlington County, Nov. 30th, 1781. Soon after the engagement at Bunker Hill the Provincial Congress ordered four regiments to be raised from New Jersey. Although Quaker blood coursed through his veins, Israel Shreve promptly responded and was appointed Lieutenant-Colonel of the second battalion New Jersey troops November 8th, 1775, and upon the reorganization of the "Jersey Line" November 28th, 1776, he was made Colonel of the Second Regiment, in which capacity he served until the end of the war. He was regularly commissioned "Colonel of the Second Battalion of Troops raising in the State of New Jersey" January 1st, 1777, and as "Colonel of the Second New Jersey Regiment to take rank as such from the 1st day of January A. D. 1777" on March 12th, 1779. His regiment was a part of Maxwell's Brigade and was with Washington in many of the most important battles of the Revolutionary War. The battalion which he commanded won laurels in many bloody encounters.

His son John, then a lad of only thirteen years, took an active part in the war much of the time in service with his father. In the latter part of his life he made a record of his services, wherein is found the best account of Colonel Israel Shreve's military career.

On the morning of July 11th, 1777, Col. Shreve's battalion opened the engagement at Brandywine, in which battle two horses were shot from under him and he was wounded. John Shreve took charge of his father and nursed him until he recovered and joined his regiment. They marched to Germantown, where, after skirmishing with the enemy, they formed the left wing and reserve of Washington's army in the battle of Germantown, Oct. 4th, 1777. The winter of 1777 and 1778 was passed in suffering and gloom at Valley Forge. A detachment of Shreve's Gloucester troops was encamped at Newark, New Jersey, and in May, 1779, the brigade took part in General Sullivan's expedition up the Susquehanna Valley to punish the Seneca Indians for their massacres.

During the march of the British through New Jersey they passed near his plantation, about one mile from Mt. Pleasant, and because he was an American officer they burned his residence and destroyed his crops.

In 1781 Colonel Shreve, then weighing three hundred and twenty pounds, was unable to get a horse that could carry his weight faster than a walk and consequently he retired from the army on half pay. The State records of New Jersey state that he was discharged at the close of the war.

When the war closed emigration to the west from the coast States was large. Colonel Israel Shreve in 1788 moved from New Jersey to Fayette County, Pennsylvania, where his son John with his family had preceded him in 1787. There he purchased from General Washington the first tract surveyed by the latter in 1748, and still known as "Washington Bottom." The purchase included the dwelling and the slaves of the partner of Washington. The house became Col. Shreve's dwelling, and but a few years ago was still standing. He engaged in farming until his death, which occurred during the same night Washington died. It is said that the last words of Colonel Shreve were: "Washington! O, Washington!"—their spirits passing to the great beyond about the same hour.

The following interesting letter from a most remarkable man, we are permitted to publish in the "Mirror." It throws much light upon an eventful period of our country's history, and as the author is a Jersey man, whose relatives are among the most worthy citizens of Burlington county, we have no doubt it will prove very acceptable to our readers. Previous to the Revolution he lived with his father, on the "Franklin Park Farm," in Rancocas. In 1786 he married a sister of Benjamin E. Ridgway, an old resident of that vicinity.

The writer says: "I am this day ninety-one years old—I write this without spectacles."

The original is plainly and well-written—and shows but little of the tremulousness of age.

Near Salem, Ohio,

(A SHORT ACCOUNT OF MY LIFE.)

S. A. D. Dear Niece:

I was born on the 8th day of the 4th month (April), in the year 1762, in Burlington Co., New Jersey. My mother died when I was about nine years old. My father married again in about three years after. In the year 1775 the war of the Revolution commenced.

Soon after the battle of Bunker Hill, the Provincial Congress ordered four regiments to be raised in New Jersey to serve one year. My father thought it was his duty to assist in liberating his country from British tyranny and he was appointed Lieutenant-Colonel of the second regiment, which was raised and equipped and marched in February, 1776, for Canada.

My father thought it was not proper to leave me with a step-mother, and took me with him in the army. I was appointed an ensign in the regiment the 15th of July, and returned to Philadelphia and went to school to fit me better for the next campaign. When the regiment was discharged in December, a new regiment was ordered to be raised. My father was appointed Colonel, and I was appointed First Ensign in the regiment. We lost a Captain killed in the battle at the Short Hills in New Jersey, in the month of June. I was promoted to the rank of Lieutenant the first of July. My father was wounded in the battle of Brandywine, the 11th of September, 1777. I went with him through Philadelphia to New Jersey—then took him to the town of Reading, in Pennsylvania, when the British entered Philadelphia—and I joined the regiment at White Marsh. Shortly after we went into winter quarters by building huts at Valley Forge, where we suffered for want of provisions and clothes. After a partial supply of the latter, my father was ordered with his regiment to cross the river Delaware and take a stand at the town of Haddonfield, seven miles from Philadelphia, to watch the motions of the enemy. In March, 1778, General Washington thought they were preparing to make their escape through New Jersey to New York. When the British were moving their army over the river, General Maxwell was ordered with the other two regiments (the first and third) to join the second; and joined us at Mount Holly. When the enemy evacuated the city and crossed over the river, Washington moved the army and crossed the Delaware at Corell's and Howell's ferries above Trenton. I was ordered, with a guard, to take the baggage of the brigade to the northeast of Trenton, and stay there till the enemy passed, and our army approached the enemy which they met at Monmouth Court House. I followed our army and was at English Town, three miles from the battle ground.

The day after, when the enemy had moved off in the night and left their dead and most of their wounded, I joined the brigade with the baggage; this was in June, 1778. The enemy made their escape to Sandy Hook and New York.

Our brigade was ordered on the lines at Elizabeth Town and Newark, where we remained through the winter following. We had many skirmishes and engagements with the British and Tories that winter and spring. They came out with eight or nine thousand men and thirty wagons in June, 1779, intending to take our stores of provisions at Morris Town. We stopped them at the town of Springfield. The people said when they returned, the thirty wagons were full of dead and wounded. In September of that year, our brigade was ordered to join General Sullivan, to chastise the Indians and Tories, towards the Susquehanna, and their towns in Genesee county, now west of New York.

On our return we wintered near Morris Town, in New Jersey. In 1780 we were on the lines of our former station, near Newark, when the British ship brought Major John Andre (the English spy) and laid at the head of Tappan Bay, about seven miles below West Point Fort. General Greene was ordered with several brigades to lay at the little town of Orange; our brigade was one. I was ordered to take a stand with twenty-six men near to where the ship lay to watch her motions. While there I saw General Arnold, the traitor, go on board the ship when he made his escape—and saw Major Andre, the spy, hung at Orange Town.

In the year 1781, my father being very fleshy, weighing three hundred and twenty pounds, he could not get a horse that could carry his weight faster than a walk, and he retired from the army on half pay. We then had but little property, except our public securities, which could not be turned into money. We thought it best for me to leave the army also, and help to support his family. That year ended the war.

I stayed and assisted the family until the year 1786. Then I was married and remained in New Jersey until the fall of 1787, then removed with my wife and one child to the west side of the Alleghany Mountains, and purchased 100 acres of land, with but two or three acres cleared, and a small cabin without a nail or any sawed board, on Little Red Stone Creek, a branch of the Monongahela river, about thirty-three miles south of Pittsburg, where I remained thirty-eight or forty years and raised a family of nine children. I cleared about sixty acres of the land, mostly with my own hands. I served the township a great part of the time in all the public offices. A county commissioner three years—five different times a commissioner for laying graded roads—and times in the State Legislature.

I went once to the Falls of Ohio and returned by the wilderness through part of Tennessee, and part of Virginia. I went three times with flour down the rivers Monongahela, Ohio and Mississippi, to New Orleans, and took flour from New Orleans to the West Indies, one time to Havana, in the Island of Cuba; one time to Kingston in the Island of Jamaica. Took sugar from Cuba and rum from Jamaica to New York and paid six thousand seven hundred dollars duty to the United States on the sugar and rum.

I was concerned with a company in a manufactory, after the close of the last war with England, and lost the most of my savings from my fifty years' toil. I surveyed land occasionally for more than thirty years. I had the rheumatism in my limbs, which prevented me from following the compass, and I moved to the State of Ohio, where I have remained with my children about twenty-seven years. Congress acknowledged to be indebted to services rendered to the United States and I am now receiving an annuity which enables me to provide a comfortable living in my old and declining age.

JOHN SHREVE.

While Thomas C. Shreve was a boy his father moved from Fayette County, Pennsylvania, to the Western Reserve in Ohio. The son resided some years in Portage County, Ohio, which he represented in the Ohio Legislature in the years 1845 and 1846, subsequently living in Massillon, from which place he came to Kansas in May, 1857, locating at White Cloud. He was a graduate of Jefferson Medical College, Philadelphia, holding high rank among his associates and in the institution, and practiced through life his profession successfully. Intelligent, social, high-minded, courteous and honorable, he seemed like a gentleman of the olden time, rarely met in these times. His professional services were sought from the very day of his advent into White Cloud, and notwithstanding the growing infirmities of age, he was called upon and almost forced to go, even to the time of his last illness. Although enduring the exposed life of a physician, he had taken good care of himself and had lived a virtuous and temperate life. He was a man of fine personal appearance. For twenty years he had been a member of the Odd Fellows' Society and was buried with the ceremonies of the order. His estimable wife survived him nineteen years. She was born at Coatesville, Chester County, Pa., and lived nearly ninety-five years. She was educated at Friends' school at Weston, Pa. In her Ohio home she warmly espoused the cause of temperance and was one of the first in the struggle for the legal rights of woman, at the time when great heroism was required. She was as well an active and effectual laborer for the freedom of the slaves. She and her husband soon filled an influential position in their new Kansas home. Their royal bounty and open hospitality knew no cessation until the decease of the husband. The last ten years were years of retirement, during which her intellect was undimmed and her disposition cheerful and serene.

ville and Cincinnati Railroad, and was there employed during its construction to Millersburg, Holmes County. He engaged next in the preliminary of what was then called the Ohio and Atlantic Railroad, of which company William Neil, of Columbus, was president. He was also with General De Haas on the preliminary survey of the Cleveland and Mahoning Valley Railroad. In the spring of 1855 he came to Nebraska and engaged in surveying. He assisted in running the third, fourth and fifth parallels, the sixth principal meridian and guide meridians north from the third parallel taking up the survey on the third parallel and a point where Col. Manners and party had been run off by the Pawnee Indians. At that time the tribe were savage if an opportunity existed. He also assisted in laying out the town of Columbus. He was one of five persons who met in General Lorimer's parlor at Omaha to first organize the Republican party of Nebraska. He came to White Cloud, Kansas, in the spring of 1858 for the purpose of surveying the town site, only a small portion of which had previously been surveyed and platted. White Cloud has been his place of residence since that time. For many years he has held positions in the city and school district. Here he was employed at his trade, only mining about four months of the time. April 5th, 1856, having accumulated considerable means, he shipped for New York City by way of Panama and the Gulf of Mexico, arriving at his destination April 29th. Two days after he left for Morgantown, O., from where in September he went to his home in Salem, Iowa, and the next year married. His wife was born at Germantown, Pa., in October, 1829. In 1837, with her parents, she moved to Salem, Ia., where she passed the remainder of her life, excepting three years she lived at Glasgow, Ia. Meanwhile he married Miss Leonora Carson, they living at the towns of Piasa, Medora, Gillespie, Connellsville, Carrollton and Beardstown in Illinois. At one of his schools he only received $37 in cash, the balance in country produce—flax at eight cents a pound ; corn twenty-five cents a bushel ; oats eighteen and three-fourths cents and wheat at half a crown per bushel. He continued to teach until 1829, when he remained a short time with his widowed mother, but again teaching near Barnesville, O. In the fall of 1830 he purchased a farm four miles from Smyrna, O. This comprised sixty acres, partially improved, with a cabin house and a cabin barn. Thirty acres were under cultivation, but large trees were in the field. After marriage he built a comfortable brick house (in 1837), where the family resided until 1857, when they moved to near the natural road a few miles west of Saint Clairesville. In 1854 he had entered a section of land in Mahaska Co., Iowa, and a quarter section in Keokuk Co., Iowa. In 1856 he sold his home farm in Ohio, buying two hundred and forty acres in the same county on which he lived seven years, when he again sold and located near Barnesville, O. In 1865 he emigrated to Iowa, purchasing a large farm twelve miles north-east of Oskaloosa. Mr. Joseph Price, of Salem, Mass., so heartily responded with complete data of this branch for publication in the Genealogy and History of the Shreve Family that his correspondence on the subject is here inserted without abridgement, excepting that the family tabulations are altered to conform to the general plan of the work.

Salem, Mass., Nov. 7th, 1895.

L. P. Allen, Esq.

Dear Sir: Your letter of Nov. 2d received. About a dozen years since, being confined at home with a broken limb, I began to collect family genealogies from the family Bible, etc., and have added a little to it from time to time. Four years since the French claims were revived and I had a hand in collecting data to prove legally that the family of Isaac Shreve were descendants from Benj. Shreve, of Alexandria, Va. (a partner of James Laurason). And while furnishing information to you, I am also adding to my own store of family history. I have copied the lists of the old families into a book and send the lists or sheets to you, viz.: An account of Caleb Shreve and Sarah Areson, with an extract from Caleb's will; second, family of Benj. Shreve (son of Caleb); third, family of Benjamin (son of Benj.) and Hannah Vail; fourth, a letter from the last Benjamin to his son Isaac (worthy of notice and good for any time or latitude); fifth, family record from the Bible of Isaac Shreve of Salem; sixth, families of Wm. Price (into which Saml. V. Shreve and Hannah Shreve married), and of Eben N. Price, husband of Hannah Shreve (the last two being my parents). My parents had six children, all boys, and there was no death till Rufus, the third son, unmarried, aged 24, mate of ship, was lost overboard and drowned in the Pacific Ocean. The other five were married and had children, and I enclose lists of their families. There has been no particularly great men or women in this branch of the Shreve family. There have been smart, active business men; seamen, masters and mates of vessels. Benj. Shreve's only son, by first wife, is one of our leading physicians. And Louisa Shreve Osborne's only son is an Episcopal clergyman of some repute. But there are no great men or events to chronicle. Still, if you desire a little sketch of some of the members of the great middle class of humanity, I will try and gratify you. My mother's mother was a Very, and I have the principal line of that family for six generations back, to Bridget Very, born 1600, in Salisbury, England. If you care for it, I will give it to you. If there is any information in particular that you desire of matters here, let me know and I will try and obtain it for you, although I can't promise to be very prompt about it. Yours truly,

JOSEPH PRICE.

An account of Caleb Shreve and Sarah Areson, with an extract from Caleb's will:

"By (the original) Caleb Shreve's will, dated April 5, 1735, it appears that he had then living his wife Sarah and sons Thomas, Joshua, Joseph, Caleb, Jonathan and David. These sons being spendthrifts and having spent farms, of which he had given each one, were cut off by the will. Benjamin, the remaining son, had two-thirds of real estate and two-thirds of personal; the widow had one-third of each real and personal, and the best room in the house while unmarried. If she married, was to have no part in the real estate. Also two daughters, Mary Gibbs and Sarah Ogburn, for whom no provision appears to have been made.

"Caleb Shreve came from Rhode Island, or Nantucket, where he had followed the whaling business, and settled in 1699 at Mount Pleasant, Mansfield township, Burlington county, New Jersey, three miles from the Black Horse and six miles from Bordentown. He married Sarah, daughter of Diedrick, or Derick, Areson, of Amsterdam, Holland. They had a son, born June 9th, 1706, Benjamin Shreve, who probably died about 1751. Caleb Shreve came originally from near London, England. He bought land at Shrewsbury 1676. He died in 1741."

A Sketch of the Family of Benjamin Shreve and the Reason Why the Three Surviving Sons Removed to Salem, Mass.

Benjamin Shreve, grandson of Caleb Shreve and Sarah Areson, was a merchant of Alexandria, Va., and partner of James Laurason. Their vessels suffered from the spoiliations of French and the indemnity being assumed by the United States, was partly paid within the present decade. Benjamin married Hannah Vail, by whom he had nine children. Of these, five died in infancy; one, a daughter, lived to the age of seventeen years.

and three survived to manhood. These three were named Isaac, Benjamin and Samuel Butcher. Their mother died when they were six, four and two years old, respectively. Their father, within two years, married Susannah Wood and had by her one son (John).

Alexandria was then a prominent port for the exportation of flour and Salem, Mass., was at the same time distinguished for the tanning of leather with hemlock bark. The interchange of these two articles led to the acquaintance of Benjamin Shreve with Capt. Samuel Very, of Salem, and in 1794 Mr. Shreve sent his son Isaac, then a lad of fifteen years, to Salem, in the care of Capt. Very, for the purpose of learning the trade of tanner. Isaac, while learning his trade, also learned to love Hannah, the daughter of Capt. Very. Having completed his trade, and his father having died about six months previous, Isaac, on May 2d, 1802, took Hannah to wife and returned with his bride to Alexandria. At that place he pursued the tanning business, and here his first four children were born, viz.: Rebecca, Samuel, Hannah and Isaac, Jr. His business either proving unprofitable or else his wife pining for her old home, led him, about 1811 or 1812, to return to Salem, where he followed the business of tanner for the remainder of his life. In Salem four more children were born to them, viz.: Benjamin, Mary, Louisa and Frances Eliza. His wife dying Jan. 13th, 1820 (aged 38 years), he subsequently married Mary Moulton, from the adjoining town of Danvers, and by her had five children, viz.: Elizabeth, Susan Wood, John, Mary and George. Isaac died Sept. 24th, 1829, aged fifty years, and Dec. 20th, 1854, at the age of sixty years, his second wife joined her husband in the great beyond.

Isaac's brother, Benjamin, married Mary Goodhue, of Salem, Mass., and removed there. Salem was at that time a pioneer port in the East India trade. He first went to sea as supercargo, then became a merchant and bank director. He was a man of intelligence and integrity. He accumulated a fair property and made good use of it. His married life was never blessed with children. He died in Salem, May 8th, 1839, aged fifty-eight years, his wife surviving him.

Samuel Butcher, the remaining brother, married Rachel Kafendoffer, of Alexandria. He lived for some years in Salem, Mass. The first wife was childless and, I think, died in Salem. Samuel removed to New Jersey and married a second time (I do not know to whom), and had two daughters. Samuel died in Burlington, N. J., in 1865, aged eighty-three years. Of his family, Mrs. Fannie Hand, of Camden, N. J., is the sole survivor.

JOSEPH PRICE.

To L. P. Allen, Esq.:

In your letter of March 14th, 1896, you inquire my authority for certain statements concerning Caleb Shreve. My uncle, Benjamin Shreve, now living in Salem, Mass., has a trunk containing the private letters and memoranda of his uncle, Benjamin Shreve, who was formerly a merchant here. He at first went to sea as supercargo and became eventually a merchant and bank director. He was a man of intelligence and upright character, careful and methodical in his ways, and accumulated some property. It is understood in the family that he gathered information concerning the Shreve family in view of urging either the Dutch or French claims of the Shreve family. I think that the information he gathered was correct, although he does not state his sources of information. The Magazine of American History, by J. A. Stevens, December, 1878, describes a journey in 1788 of Col. Israel Shreve, and occupying twenty-five days in wagons, from New Jersey to the Monongehala River, Pennsylvania, where he settled and hired farms from Gen. Geo. Washington. I think the following facts were derived from this magazine, viz.: That Caleb Shreve came from near London, England. Bought land at Shrewsbury in 1676. Settled in Mansfield township, New Jersey, 1699. Died 1741. If he died in 1741, at ninety years of age, he would have been born in 1651, and bought the land when twenty-five years old. But as the Shreve adults appear to have generally died between fifty and sixty years old, and as the name Caleb was repeated for several generations, it would appear that probably Caleb's father or uncle of the same name bought the land. Regarding Caleb's will, it ought to be on file in the probate records of Burlington county, New Jersey. I do not know where Caleb's children lived. Martha Scattergood is not mentioned in memoranda of will. Don't know the Shreve who was murdered. Don't know Benj. Shreve, the latter. My uncle, Benjamin Shreve, is eighty-three years old, is weak in mind and body and can give no information. My mother, nee Hannah Shreve, is eighty-eight years old. Her mind is pretty clear, but memory of early events is defective. I have questioned her about early events, but do not get anything more than you already have.

DEPOSITION OF BENJAMIN SHREVE RELATING TO HIS ANCESTRY.

Benjamin Shreve now (October, 1891), a resident of Salem, Mass., and president of the Shreve, Crump & Low Jewelry Company, of Boston, Mass., presents the following documentary evidence in proof of the fact that his father, Isaac Shreve, late of Salem, Mass., was son and lawful heir to the late Benjamin Shreve, merchant, of Alexandria, Va., who died Nov. 18th, 1801, viz.: First, a letter of fatherly advice and counsel from the said Benjamin, the father to the said Isaac, the son, upon the occasion of the son, in his sixteenth year, leaving his home in Alexandria to live in the family of Capt. Very, of Salem, Mass., for the purpose of learning the trade of tanner.

Second, the family record in the family Bible of the said Isaac Shreve, by which it is shown that Isaac was a son of Benjamin and Hannah Shreve, of Alexandria, Va., and that he, when twenty-three years old, married a daughter of Capt. Very and returned with his wife to Alexandria, where his first four children were born. Afterwards he with his family returned to Salem, Mass., where four more children were born by his first wife. This wife dying in 1820, he was subsequently married to Mary Moulton, by whom he had five children, and finally, that he, the said Isaac, died Sept. 4th, 1829, at the age of fifty years.

LETTER FROM BENJAMIN SHREVE TO ISAAC
SHREVE, WITH DIRECTIONS ON THE BACK.

To Isaac Shreve, from His Beloved Father:

Alexandria, 29th the 5th Month, 1794.

Dear Son Isaac: Thee is now going from under the care of thy loving father, whose eyes have been ever watchfull for thy good into the wide world. Thee will be now under the care of Captain Very, who will advise thee for thy good, and I would wish thee to be advised by him. I have thought it most for thy good for thee to go to Salem to learn the trade of a tanner. If Captain Very can get thee a place to suit, I would advise thee to stay; if not, come home by the first opportunity that offers. As thee will be among strangers, take good care how thee forms acquaintance. Let them be friends, if possible, and steady, sober lads, older than thyself, and the fewer the better. A young man's happiness, both in this world and that which is to come, in a great measure depends on the connections he forms when young. Keep steady to meeting and to plainness both in speech and apparel, and that God that made us will protect thee from all harm. Above all things, be true to thy trust and defraud no man, though the thing may be small. But do unto men as thee would that they should do unto thee. And by so doing thee will gain the esteem of all good men and thy master, and come up in the world a useful member of society. Thee will have peace in thy own mind, which cannot be taken away but by actions which I hope thee wilt not be guilty of. If I should be spared to live until thee comes of age, I am in hopes to be able to set thee up in thy intended business, so that by care and industry thee may soon get above the frowns of this world. But if I should be taken from works to rewards, thee may expect an equal share of what I leave behind me: provided thee conducts thyself in a sober, orderly manner. If thee agrees to stay, I shall send thee a certificate, which thee must take to the monthly meeting. As there will be many opportunities, I would have thee to write often, and let me know if thee stand in need of anything, and I will endeavor to furnish thee from time to time. I want thee to serve five years and a half. Then thee will have some time in the winter which will give time for thee to prepare for settling thyself in the spring following. I now recommend thee to that God that has protected me from my youth until this time (my father having died when I was about four years old). And I am sure He is the same heavenly father that ever He was, and will remain to protect and preserve all those that love and fear Him. From thy loving father,

(Signed)

BENJ. SHREVE.

N. B.—Take care of the little money thee has, for thee will find that to be a friend where all others have forsaken thee. I shall furnish thee with small matters of money according as I hear of thy behaviour. Often read this advice and endeavor to follow it.

Then appeared before me the said Benjamin Shreve, of Salem, Mass., personally known to me, and made oath that the letter and Bible record herein named belonged to his father, the late Isaac Shreve, of Salem, and that they are true and honest evidence of the facts in question.

By careful comparison, I find these to be true and accurate copies of the letter and Bible record named therein.

(Signed)

HENRY M. MEEK,

Notary Public.

The following is condensed from the Baltimore Episcopal Methodist of July 11th, 1874, which contained a feeling tribute to the life and memory of Richard S. Shreve and his wife:

Richard Sothern Shreve was consecrated to God in early youth, and grew up in Christianity. He was educated at Dickenson College, Carlisle, Pa., graduating in 1860. That fall he taught school at East New Market, Md., and contemplated studying law, but early abandoned the idea and entered the Christian ministry, obtaining a license as an exhorter. In 1862 he entered the Confederate army, and remained until the surrender, serving as Lieutenant in the Stuart Horse Artillery. While in the army he conducted various religious services in his battalion; after the war, on his marriage, he settled in Alexandria Co., Va., and engaged in farming, but serving the church in the meantime. In 1868 he was admitted to the Baltimore Conference, his first charge being Lafayette Circuit, Montgomery Co., Va., his second Laurel Circuit, Anne Arundel Co., Md. In March, 1871, at conference at Salem, Va., he asked for and obtained a location, intending to settle in Kentucky, but was induced to abandon the idea and took charge of Monterey Circuit, Highland Co., Va. He was readmitted to the conference and served the people in Monterey Circuit three consecutive years, ending March, 1874. His next and last appointment was Upper Botetourt Circuit. In all these fields he labored faithfully and efficiently. His whole heart and mind were enlisted in the work he loved. His wife, a beautiful, refined and accomplished lady, of a most estimable Christian character, was the daughter of Travis Epps, Esq., of Nottoway Co., Va., and although reared in the lap of luxury, an utter stranger to hardship or inconvenience of any kind, yet endowed with such noble qualities of head and heart, that she easily accomodated herself to the trying position of a Methodist minister's wife, and cheerfully underwent the privations and hardships incident thereto. Thursday, in company with his brother John, a pastor himself, and wife, he passed the day with the family of one of the members of his church. Returning to the parsonage at about seven o'clock, they found the evening meal prepared, and as was their usual custom before partaking of it, they were about to engage in family worship. A storm cloud was approaching from which a bolt of lightning descended with no warning, striking the house and killing them instantly. The brother and servant in the same room were seriously injured, but recovered. Their remains were deposited in one grave in the old family burying ground in Alexandria Co., Va.

William Mead was the son of William Mead, Sr., and Ellen Worrall, who lived in Bucks County, Pa., in Lower Makefield Tp., and removed from there in 1746 to Fairfax Co., Va. They were Friends and the Friends' Monthly Meeting of Bucks Co. gave them letters to Fairfax Meeting.

Mrs. J. H. Hoffecker, a descendant, writes: "William Mead, Jr., lived in Loudon Co., Va., after his marriage with Mary Shreve; then went to Bedford County, where they resided only a few years—I think eight or ten—I have heard my uncle, Joseph Mead, speak of their journey back to Loudon, which was before railroads existed to any great extent. They came in large covered wagons and brought some live stock with them. I have also heard that Anne Berry was a very beautiful woman and that the brother of her husband was also very much in love with her and never married when she rejected his suit." Their home place, when they returned, was two and a half miles from Leesburg, on the road going to Middleburg, where they lived and died. Joseph Mead lived with his widowed mother on the old homestead and added to the house, making it a handsome country seat. It remained in possession of the family until after his death, when none of his sons wishing to farm, they sold it. The house, including the original portion, is in good preservation.

William D. Shreve came to Kentucky with his parents when about twelve years old. When twenty-one or twenty-two years of age he returned to Virginia, where he taught school. He was elected Sheriff of Loudon Co., which office he held for several years. He enlisted as Captain in the war of 1812, and his company arrived at New Orleans just at the close of the battle. The company was from Harper's Ferry. In 1817, on his marriage, he emigrated to Green Co., Ky., where he remained until 1820, when he purchased land near Bloomington, Ind., and lived on a farm. He was very much opposed to slavery and came to Indiana, where he could rear his family away from its influences which he considered sinful and degrading. His brother-in-law, Scade Chandler, at the same time emigrated to Putnam Co., Ind., where his daughter married a Mr. Talbert and had quite a family, most of whom died in youth.

Mr. Arthur B. Shreve contributes the following:

My grandfather, Benj. Shreve, was a tall, large man with dark hair and eyes, and exceedingly stern to all outward appearance, but very gentle and tender-hearted to those who were acquainted with his private character. He held many positions of honor and trust in the County, and was a man of the strictest integrity, requiring all contracts to be complied with to the letter, yet he was most liberal to all objects of charity, and the poor in his immediate neighborhood shared to a great extent his large means; especially was the Episcopal Church the object of his great solicitude, and he was ever ready to aid and tender all the assistance the Church needed.

My father, who was named for him, inherited his principal traits of character, was tall and exceedingly large, but at the same time he was the smallest of all the brothers, only weighing from 250 to 265 pounds.

During my grandfather's life he appointed his brother-in-law, Robert Moffett, and my father his deputy sheriffs, and at his death my father was elected High Sheriff, a position of honor and lucrativeness in those days. But in after years, when one of Mr. Rogers' negroes was convicted of murder in the 1st degree, and in anticipation of his execution, my father, rather than hang the servant of his personal friend, resigned and devoted his attention to his large landed estates and milling interest.

Peculiar to the times, I desire to relate an incident which even shows the vicissitudes of life and the changing fortunes of those who are public benefactors of the human race.

During my father's sherifffalty there was a run on the bank in Leesburg, and the doors were closed ten minutes to 3 o'clock

p. m. They immediately sent a messenger for my father, who went to their aid and gave them a check on Alexandria, the port from which he shipped most of his flour, for ten thousand dollars in gold, and as Alexandria is only 35 miles from Leesburg, two of the officers of the bank went there and got the money, returning in time to open the bank by 9 o'clock the next morning, thereby saving the institution from ruin. The time came when my father asked a similar favor of the bank, and was of course accommodated for any amount he desired, but the crisis of 1836 and 1837 coming on just as my father had completed the construction of another large mill, and having hundreds of slaves to feed and clothe, and hundreds of barrels of flour on hand for which he had been offered nine dollars per barrel, dropped suddenly down to three dollars per barrel, and this statement was corroborated only Monday last by Mr. Chas. P. McCabe, of Leesburg, whose father was one of my father's millers. These sudden changes in the commerce of our land brought on the crisis, and my father's financial condition was impaired to a considerable extent, in consequence of which he moved to my mother's estate "Cedar Grove," in Montgomery Co., Md., the home of my birth, the place of their burial, where rest the sacred and hallowed memories of father and mother.

Co., Va.; m. Mary Elizabeth Trundle, Dec. 2d, 1828. He d. in Montgomery Co., Md., Sept. 25th, 1861.

Mr. Arthur B. Shreve, a descendant, writes: I have a copy of a newspaper published in Leesburg on Aug. 25th, 1825, giving an account of Gen. La Fayette's visit to President Monroe; in the same account it appears that my father, Benjamin Shreve, was Captain of the Artillery, being only twenty-one years old, and fired the salutes on the arrival of Gen. La Fayette in Leesburg, and afterwards entertained him at his home, which was just on the suburbs of the town. In 1831 Governor Floyd commissioned my father Colonel of all the militia in this section; his commission was written on parchment and is now in my possession.

During the dark days just prior 1861, this section of country was wild with the prospect of war, and every southern heart was throbbing with feverish impulses to defend the inalienable rights of our people. My father's home was the active scene of preparation for the coming conflict. Companies were being formed to join the South and they would meet at his house, and my father gave to many a soldier his first lesson in warfare. At that time my brother Daniel was living in the house which I now occupy—Shelton Hall. He organized what was known as the Loudon Cavalry, and was chosen its Captain.

My brother Thomas was on Gen. Evans' staff; was captured and taken to Fort Delaware, where he remained for 13 months. Believing he would soon die with throat trouble, they turned him out and he came home a living skeleton, but becoming much improved in health, he married the daughter of Gen. Tench Tilghman. The seat of disease having been planted, he was never entirely free from it. After a few years it increased in virulence, and his shattered constitution was unable to stand it, and death claimed him.

I think it was the winter of 1863 when Capt. Grimes' company was stationed on our place when the following trivial incident happened: I was then but a mere boy, going to school, and had about 2½ miles to walk, consequently in the winter it was quite late when I got home; but being anxious to make some rabbit boxes, I went over to camp to secure some old ones that I had seen laying around. On my way the 1st picket stopped me and questioned me for some time, and I gave him the information that I had two brothers in the Southern army, and probably said other indiscreet things; however, I was permitted to pass, went on and got what I wanted and returned home, which was only a short distance. That night about 11 or 12 o'clock a squad of soldiers came to our house, and even though it was cold and a rough winter night, they arrested me and made me walk to camp between two soldiers. My older brother went along, and when we reached the guard-house or tent, there we found that the charge of being a spy was made against me. Only a short trial was held, and by my brother's evidence the charge was not sustained, and I was released. My brother was arrested regularly every day and became used to it. Thus it was we were treated to all the indignities by an exasperating enemy.

DESCENDANTS OF WILLIAM AND MARY LAURENCE.

ANCESTRY.

I. William Shreve and Mary Laurence. (106.)

106. WILLIAM SHREVE, child of ——— Shreve and Catherine ———, was b. Aug. 26th, 1761, in Maryland; m. 1st, Mary Laurence; 2d, Mrs. Ann B. Wake, nee Ann Barnett, in 1808. She was born in Virginia on the Rappahannock River, Sept. 20th, 1775, and died Apr. 13th, 1849. He d. in Jan., 1837, at "Anchor-In-Hope," the family homestead in Jessamine Co., Ky., near Nicholasville.

During the American Revolution, soon after the battle of Monmouth, which crippled the little American army, recruits were much needed and it was at that time when Cornwallis was pushing his forces to the South that William Shreve, though but a youth at a country school, where the recruiting American army was passing, volunteered and remained in the service until the surrender at Yorktown. He was wounded in some engagement, probably the battle of Cowpens, and received a pension from the Government until his death. He enlisted from Maryland. In 1796 he moved from that State to Kentucky, settling in Jessamine Co., where he purchased a large tract of land and built a mill and established a store. At this place he lived a long time, and his wife died and was buried there, after which he traded for land near the present site of Nicholasville, and later married a second time. For thirty-one years he was Judge of the County Court of Jessamine County. The eldest surviving member of his branch, Judge Luther M. Shreve, of Chicago, has written: "My grandmother married a second time, and when I knew her, her name was Catherine Thomas. She was a remarkable woman — tall, dignified and reserved even with my father, Judge William Shreve. She lived alone (except with her two servants) for a number of years on her own little farm, consenting in her last years, at my father's request, to come and live near him at his farm, known as "Domestic Retreat," near Nicholasville, and ten miles from Lexington, Ky. My earliest education was from her. She gave me a pony and taught me to ride. She died about 1830. My father was perhaps as well known in Central Kentucky as any man in the State, of dignified, quiet manner and a Christian gentleman. My parents were the first converts to the Christian Church organized by Alexander Campbell, of Bethany College, Va., and proprietor of the Christian Harbinger. My father was politically an old line Whig, and entertained Henry Clay, of whom he was a personal and political friend, whenever he came to our village at Nicholasville to attend court, my father being the Judge for some years of the County and Probate Courts, and manifested his friendship when pecuniary disaster came to Mr. Clay. We frequently communicated with Capt. Shreve during the progress of the work undertaken by him in removing the obstructions in the Red River. My mother, Miss Ann Barnett, of Farquier Court House, Va., married Dr. Wake, and with him and their children, Alexander, Ambrose and Mary, emigrated to Kentucky. While descending the Ohio River her husband was accidentally killed on the barge on which they descended by the discharge of a rifle-gun when being taken down from the side of the boat. She afterward married my father, who had five children by his former wife."

Leven L. Shreve was reared to manhood on his father's suburban farm near Nicholasville, Ky., receiving a fair, substantial but comparatively limited education. At his majority his father gave him and his brother, Thomas T. Shreve, $5,000 each in cash, a sum in those days considered opulent. On this capital they embarked in the iron business and builded for themselves a successful career and fortune. Their remarkable filial love, domestic intimacy and business interests renders a sketch of his life incomplete without referring to that of his brother, Thomas T. Shreve. By neither of his marriages did he have children. His large and handsome estate passed by will to his numerous nephews and nieces. Mr. Shreve, with his brother, in 1832, moved to Louisville, engaging in the foundry business, afterwards in the iron business, under the name of L. L. Shreve & Company; following this in the iron and hardware business under the name of Shreve, Anderson & Thomas. He became interested in all public matters relating to the future prosperity of his adopted city. He was the prime mover and the first President of the Louisville Gas Company, holding the position many years. For several years he was a leading member of the City Council, and in that capacity did much to establish it on a basis which to-day makes it one of the best laid out and most attractive cities in the Union. He was the chief organizer, promoter, and the first President of the Louisville & Nashville Railroad, which position he held for three years. About the year 1838, long before the steam fire department was thought of, Louisville boasted of her well equipped voluntary organization composed of her best citizens, of whom L. L. Shreve was their Chief. Identified and interested in the city's growth and prosperity he invested his all within her environs. He was the owner of a three-fourths interest in the Louisville Hotel, besides several large storehouses on Main and other streets. Physically and mentally he towered with any of his peers; an independent thinker, fertile of resource, a forcible speaker, with strong convictions, maintained with firmness and courage. Imbued and fired with strong union sentiment he emphasized them during the stormy times of the war in his councils with such associates as Governor Robinson, Prentice, Boyle, and others. In his own home he evinced a refined taste by surrounding himself with works of art and the best literature, and his hospitality was in keeping with his character as a courteous, kindly gentleman of the old school.—(From the "Memorial History of Louisville," 1896.)

2. ii. THOMAS TALLIFERO SHREVE, the second child and second son of Judge William Shreve and Mary Lawrence, was b. in Hagerstown, Md., Feb. 4th, 1796; m. 1st, Mary Scott, in Jessamine Co., Ky., Nov. 9th, 1818; 2d, Eliza Rogers, in Bath Co., Ky., Jan. 5th, 1826; 3d, Belle Sheridan, in Louisville, Ky., Apr. 29th, 1858. He d. in Louisville, Ky., Nov. 5th, 1869.

Thomas T. Shreve acquired his rudimentary education and grew to manhood in Nicholasville, Ky., the home of his parents. He began his business career as a clerk, and by his own energy and merit advanced himself to the proprietorship of a large mercantile establishment in Lexington. Later he moved to Greensburg and embarked in the iron business with his brother, L. L. Shreve, and still later they established themselves in the rolling mill business in Cincinnati, O., the success in which ultimately became the making of their great estates. In 1832 he moved with his family to Louisville, and at once took a prominent position in the business circles of the place. He aided by his large experience and wealth in the development and prosperity of many city enterprises, which to-day commemorate his sagacity. Though modest and retiring by nature, yet he filled many positions of high and honorable trusts, among which may be mentioned the Presidency of the Bank of Louisville, also the Louisville Gas Company, and a director in the Louisville, Frankfort and Lexington Railroad Company; member the City Council and holding one of the highest offices in the Masonic Order. In this connection it may be said that long and gratefully will be remembered his donation of five acres of ground, on which now stands the Masonic Widow and Orphans' Home, an institution in which his whole heart was enlisted and whose life was shortened by exposure while present at the ceremonies of laying the corner stone. From 1850 he was associated with many banking enterprises in Louisville. Thomas T. Shreve was one of the shrewdest and most successful business men—everything he touched seemed to enhance. His judgment was unerring. When others were holding on to their stocks and bonds after the late war, he was quietly converting his into valuable real estate in Louisville and Chicago. His intuition was seldom at fault. One of his fixed rules was to cautiously and judiciously buy that he would never have any incentive to sell, consequently the records of the court seldom disclose any transfers from him; a buyer, a holder, rarely a seller, and thus his family of children and grand children are to-day enjoying the benefits of his life-long industry and princely estate. In religious belief he was an Unitarian, but largely contributed to other churches and societies, while in politics he was a staunch Whig of the Henry Clay school, and a warm friend and admirer of the great Kentuckian.

During life, he surrounded his children with every comfort and established those with families in comfortable homes. Around his own family hearth were lavished all that liberality and good taste could gather from wealth—nothing was wanting to make all around him happy.

This imperfect sketch would not be complete if reference were not made to the beautiful life that bound twin-like he and his brother, L. L. Shreve, so close to each other from the cradle to the grave, death coming only after an association of three-score years and ten to part them. During all these long years they lived single or married under one roof or in adjoining houses. The sound judgment of the one and perhaps broader intellect of the other working in harmony enabled them to confront and overcome great commercial barriers. Success followed the natural usufruct of a close fraternal alliance. A colossal family shaft jointly erected by them, carved thereon the simple inscription: "To the Memory of L. L. Shreve and T. T. Shreve," may be seen in the beautiful Cave Hill Cemetery.—(From "Memorial History of Louisville," 1896.)

Charles U. Shreve graduated from St. Mary's College, in Marion County, Ky., in the class of 1845, and subsequently studied law, and was a member of the first class that graduated from a Louisville law school. Impaired eyesight deterred him from at once practicing his profession, and his activities were later in other fields. In 1857 he engaged in mercantile business, and at the same time was one of the editors and publishers of the first society journal published in Louisville. He was later senior member of the firm of Shreve and Stewart, the first woodenware house established in the city, and for a time was interested in the iron and hardware house of L. L. Shreve & Co., and a member of the banking firm of J. P. Curtiss & Co., and was associated with other local business enterprises. Later he was engaged in coal mining operations in Washington Co., Ind., and in the manufacture of cement at Alton, Ill. He was President of the Eureka Coal Mining Company, and largely interested in developing the coal mines of Southern Indiana. The elder Shreve died in 1869, leaving the management of his large estate to his son, Charles U. Shreve. Property interests in Chicago and Louisville, amounting to one and a half million of dollars, were thus placed under his care and responsibility, necessitating his retirement from business on his own account. His uncle's large estate was also committed to his care, and since 1874 his time has been mainly devoted to those interests. These splendid estates built up by two of the most noted pioneers of Louisville, have been wisely administered on by him. Prior to the war Mr. Shreve was an old line Whig, after that party's decline he became a Democrat, but has never been active in politics. With a natural fondness for literature and literary pursuits he has been a frequent contributor to the press of poems and prose sketches of literary excellence. Affable in manner, attractive in conversation, warm in his friendships, fond of outdoor sports, Mr. Shreve lives in a genial atmosphere and well sustains the good name and high character of the family to which he belongs.

8. viii. JOHN MILTON SHREVE, the eighth child (and second by Mrs. Ann B. Wake) of Judge William Shreve, was b. in Jessamine Co., Ky., near Nicholasville, Aug. 1st, 1811; m. 1st, Sarah Bailey, of Texas, who survived marriage only ten months; 2d, Susan Lucket Simpson, of Owen Co., Ky., June 22d, 1843. She was b. Feb. 27th, 1820, and d. Mar. 23d, 1885. He d. Feb. 12th, 1886.

In his twenty-second year John Milton Shreve migrated South and engaged in mercantile business in Texas, leaving his home in Louisville, Ky., June 10th, 1835, going to New Orleans by steamer. While there he met Gen. Stephen Austin, who had just been released from prison in Mexico, where he had gone to advocate certain rights to be granted Texan colonists. At the same time Mr. Shreve also made the acquaintance of Gen. Zavalla, who had been Secretary to Santa Anna. Both these gentlemen were bound for Texas, and, at their solicitation he embarked with them July 8th, on board the San Felipi, for Velasco, at the mouth of the Brazos river.

McKinney and Williams, merchants of Quintana, and largest cotton brokers of that day, were owners of the vessel, and seeing the danger of the capture of the San Felipi with such important passengers as Austin and Zavalla by the revenue cutter City of Mexico at that time attempting to blockade Texas ports, directed William Hard, the Captain, while in New Orleans, to fit her out with two six-pound guns together with small arms, and to brace her bulwarks with bales of cotton. Thus equipped, she sailed for Velasco, and on her arrival the Mexican cruiser Guerro demanded her papers, on receiving answer from the San Felipi to "come and get them," opened fire on her. After a sharp conflict the Guerro attempted to escape, but after an all-night chase was captured by the San Felipi. When the Mexican cruiser dropped her colors to half-mast, Capt. McKinney called for volunteers to board her. Capt. Haskins, A. J. Harris and J. M. Shreve answered the call and were instructed to take charge of her and send the Captain with his papers to the San Felipi. This little sea fight, so successfully conducted, gave joy to all that section and was to the people of Texas really the crossing of the Rubicon. At the commencement of the Texan War, John Milton Shreve was appointed Assistant Quartermaster, with rank of Captain; was present and participated in the battle of San Jacinta, when Santa Anna was captured. Fear being felt for this distinguished prisoner's safety, J. M. Shreve was appealed to and gave upper rooms in his residence, which was occupied for some time by Santa Anna, with his guards. Mr. Shreve held various offices of trust in the Lone Star Republic, was appointed by President Mirabeau Lamar (who succeeded Houston), Recorder of the City of Austin, Travis Co., May 26th, 1841. His commission, signed by President Lamar, is at present among his papers. He was elected Chief Clerk of the House of Representatives of the Republic of Texas the first terms of Gen. Houston as President. His first wife survived their marriage only ten months. Dec. 4th, 1841, he procured license for the practice of law in Texas, but shortly after returned to Kentucky, his old home, on a visit, where he met and married his second wife, the daughter of Captain James Simpson, of Owen Co., Ky. He never again left Kentucky, and for thirty years prior to his death lived in or near Louisville, serving many years as Elder of the Christian Church, much beloved and esteemed by all that knew him.

Mr. Shreve declined to enlist, but used every effort to prevent the secession of Missouri, but refused to take the iron-clad oath requiring all attorneys as well to swear that they did not sympathize with the South, and on that account left St. Louis and went to England, where he married, and on his return settled in Chicago, practicing his profession. Mr. Shreve is the only survivor of his father's numerous family of children.

THE HOLLAND ESTATE.

LETTERS AND DOCUMENTS.

There is little doubt that the descendants of Caleb Shreve and Sarah Areson had a legal interest in one estate, if not two in Amsterdam, Holland. One was reported the property of Caleb Shreve's grandmother, the account of whose romantic marriage with William Shreve of the Isle of Wight is found among nearly all descendants, particularly those in the Eastern States. The other was the property of Sarah Areson's maternal grandmother. A legacy is sometimes alluded to as due them through ancestors named Shreve.

The records of the "Holland Occupation of New Amsterdam" still preserved in New York cover the period 1630-1644. In them the name of Areson occurs several times. The "Calender or Historical Manuscript" is translated from the Dutch language, and comprises three or four volumes, the contents of which are of a mixed character, and difficult to connect. They record that September 12th, 1648, a power of attorney was given by Leendert Arenson to Jan Claessen Leydecker to collect a legacy in Holland. Leydecker was drowned at sea, and the legacy was not collected, but remained in Amsterdam in the charge of the government, and has never been collected. August 17th, 1649, a deed was given to Gysbert Areson of a plantation on Long Island. This plantation "adjoins the land of Peter Schorsteenveger," and was the residence near Brooklyn of Sarah Areson's parents. Other entries show different events in the lives of the Aresons, proving they resided on Long Island. A Bart Areson was a soldier in 1660 in the service of the Holland government. One that examined these records in 1874 writes: "Sarah Areson was the heir and only heir of her grandmother (the Widow Orrest), who heired the large Holland estate at Amsterdam, originally very great for those times. Derick Areson (Aertsen), married Sarah Orrest, and her only child was Sarah Areson, who married Caleb Shreve. The Areson family lived near Brooklyn, N. Y., for some years, and occupied a farm or bowery as they called it. They also owned land at Flatbush, L. I., The legacy which Leydecker was authorized to collect, was the one heired by Sarah Areson." This record is the earliest relating to the Amsterdam estate, which has puzzled many Shreve descendants. In it there are some irreconcilible discrepancies. Sarah Areson's youngest child, Benjamin, was born in 1706. She herself was not likely born earlier than 1660, and as she was the only child of the first wife, it is improbable they were married as early as 1648, the date Leydecker was authorized to collect a legacy coming to her.

The following will of Derick Areson is recorded in the Surrogate's office in New York City:

The Last will & Testament of Dirick Areson of Flushing deceased.

The first day of October 1678 I Dirick Areson of Flushing being weak in body yet of sound & perfect memory blessed be ye Lord for it And finding myself dangerously weake and not knowing how soon I may be taken away—hence I doe here make my Last will & Testament as followeth

ffirst & principally I bequeath my soule unto ye hands of Almighty God & my body to bee interred in ye earth in good and decent order And as touching my outward estate which ye Lord hath blessed me with all I doe give as ffolloweth [viz]

I doe give & bequeath to my well beloved wife Mary Areson all my whole estate that is to say all my lands and chattels to her proper use and behoofe as long as she continues in her widowhood And upon her contracting of marriage I doe order the one half of my said estate including Both Lands & Chattels shall equally be divided amongst my seven children And I doe by these presents Impower Capt Thomas Willet & Mr Elias Doughty both of Flushing as Overseers to see that ye premises above be duly performed according to ye true Intent of this my last will and testament as witness my hand ye day & yeare above.

Derick Areson was preparing to go to Holland to get a legacy when a kick from his horse occasioned his death in 1678. He evidently thought his interest in an estate was one that he could legally devise to his children by both marriages—only one by the first, then surviving. It is not improbable he was interested in an estate coming from his own ancestors—perhaps that referred to in the records of 1648—and which he was going to collect when the fatal accident occurred, whereupon he devised it to his children. This view would reasonably explain both the power of attorney in 1648 and the will.

Family tradition says a legacy should have passed to Sarah Areson from some ancestress. That some ancestress of the children of Caleb Shreve and Sarah Areson was named Oara Oara (or a similar name), that she resided in Amsterdam, and was very wealthy—and that from her an estate should have descended to American heirs, is not to be doubted.

Caleb Shreve and Sarah Areson married about 1680, and shortly thereafter settled near Shrewsbury, New Jersey, from whence in 1699 they moved to Burlington Co., N. J., locating on a beautiful farm, afterwards known in the family as Mount Pleasant, in Mansfield Township, where they lived the remainder of their lives. Before leaving her northern home, Sarah Areson, then eighteen or twenty years of age, was undoubtedly conversant with her ancestry, and the occasion of her father's contemplated journey to Holland, and his untimely death. It is not known what evidence necessary to establish their claim was collected by Derick Areson or Caleb Shreve, or how it was preserved. On the death of the latter in 1741 the papers fell into possession of his youngest son, Benjamin, who in 1751 collected them and prepared to go to Holland to obtain the legacy. He was prevented by the breaking of a blood-vessel which caused his death, and the papers passed into the possession of his widow—Rebecca. She married a second time, and they passed beyond her control. Within the next thirty years—probably during or just after the revolutionary war—after their possession has passed through several persons they were destroyed. Oral family tradition perpetuated the circumstances until about 1830, when several older members of the family made permanent records in the form of statements caused by a revival of interest in the claim, and the desire of the younger generation to preserve the best record they could then obtain from the older ones. Mary Field, a descendant, residing in or near Philadelphia, Pa., in 1820, read an advertisement in a newspaper calling on the heirs to prove heirship and claim property. It is not surprising that several years elapsed before general action was taken, as those were the days of slow transportation and crude mail facilities, with the number of descendants largely increased and scattered from Massachusetts to Virginia, and the Atlantic ocean to the Mississippi River. To properly understand the following letters, the statements alluded to should precede. They are unsigned, and not dated, but authentic. Caleb Shreve was born in 1766, and Reuben, his brother, in 1768. They were grandchildren of Benjamin Shreve and Rebecca French, by their oldest son, Caleb Shreve (born in 1734) and Grace Pancoast. They were between sixty and seventy years of age, and the eldest descendants of the Benjamin Shreve branch living at the time. They resided on or near the old homestead, at Mount Pleasant. Caleb died in 1836, and Reuben in 1841, without probably knowing the result of the investigations then pending.

Statement of Caleb Shreve of the township of Lawrence, in the County of Hunterdon and state of New Jersey.

I, Caleb Shreve of the township of Lawrence in the County of Hunterdon, and state of New Jersey—

Having understood from my youth up that a large sum of money was now in Holland belonging of right to the Shreve's family do proceed to give the evidence that has been handed down in our family in support of the claim; (to wit—)

That Caleb Shreve came from Europe and married a daughter of (Oro Orisin or Direck Areson—or some such name—) named Sarah, he living on Long Island and that he had two wives by the first he had two children. Sarah and one younger who died young—that their grandmother in Holland left them a large property in Amsterdam and as the youngest died Sarah became heir of the whole estate. It consisted in houses and lands the the above I often heard repeated in my father's family by two persons in (particular) a man named James Varnal and a woman named Betty Martin both of them having lived in the family of Benjamin Shreve in the life time of Caleb and Sarah Sarah the father and mother of Benjamin Shreve their son talk about the same and that Benjamin Shreve did make preparation to go to Amsterdam to obtain it when he was taken sick and died—

The above statement was corroborated by Israel Shreve the son of Benjamin Shreve to me in the year One thousand seven hundred and ninety three and he also stated that he has often endeavored to prevail upon his brother Caleb Shreve to go to Holland and get it but could not succeed in his entreaties, he also stated that his mother had married a second time the name of her second husband was George Eyres he carried away all the papers in any way relating to the Holland property (Her son Caleb not being of age that is not twenty one) and absolutely refused to give up listening to no entreaties until his death, his son Samuel Eayres, was left executor and he continuing to fill to retain the said papers although often solicited to give them up when he died he left two sons George and Nathan, in dividing the property George had the house and Nathan the barn they had some difference about the goods and George put Nathan's part out of the house and Nathan put them in the barn with the desk & the barn was burnt before morning with all the goods in it, have all way thought the papers was burnt at that time Betty Martin died in the year 1791 or 2 James Varnal diad in the year 1801 or 2 it was supposed they was upwards of one hundred years old—Israel Shreve died in the 1799—

In the 1735 April 5 Caleb Shreve made his last will and testament and among many other bequeath he gives to his son Benjamin all and singular my land Messauges and tenements by him freely to be possessed and enjoyed his heirs and assigns forever to sell and dispose of the same—

And in a note is the following—

I also give unto my said son Benjamin Shreve the remainder of my said personal estate & moveables whatsoever unto him his heirs and assigns and it is my desire that what remaineth of my said wife thirds when she dieth to give the same to my son Benjamin—Proved in the Surrogate's office 18 day of February 1740.

Sarah Shreve did on the 28 day of February 1740-41 make a deed or instrument in writing according to the request of her said husband Caleb Shreve in the following words (to wit) I set over and deliver unto the said Benjamin Shreve all my right, titel and Interest of the lands tenements and hereditaments and also my right and titel and interest of the movables estate given me by my late husband Caleb Shreve in his last will and testament to have and to hold the said bargained premises unto the said Benjamin Shreve his heirs executors, administrators or assigns—

Benjamin Shreve died and leaving a will dated 14 of March 1750-51 leaving children a son Caleb Shreve being the oldest became heir to all the property not willed away—

Caleb Shreve died 21 day of April 1792 leaving no will left four son and four daughters

[Statement of Reuben Shreve of Monmouth County, New Jersey:]

To all Christian people, whom this may concern :

I Reuben Shreve of the township of Shrewsbury in the County of Monmouth State of New Jersey being about to commit to writing what I know and what has been handed down by my ancestors and others respecting my genealogy and an estate in Holland to wit I was the son of Caleb & Grace Shreve late Grace Pancoast my father was the son of Benjamin & Rebecca Shreve late Rebecca French, Benjamin Shreve was the son of Caleb & Sarah Shreve late Sarah Arenson. Caleb Shreve is the first of the family we have any record of. Sarah Arenson was the daughter of Dedrick Arenson and wife who emigrated from Holland to America and settled on Long Island in the State of New York. Dedrick Arenson's wife having two daughters previous to her death one of them departed this life when young, the surviving daughter Sarah Arenson fell heir to an estate in Holland per her grandmother. Her father Dedrick Arenson after the death of the wife that came with him from Holland married a second wife by the name of Hedger. Dedrick Arenson was preparing to go git the estate that fell to his daughter in Holland but was prevented by the kick of a horse which occasioned his death. His daughter Sarah Arenson after her marriage to Caleb Shreve moved to New Jersey in the township of Shrewsbury County of Monmouth. After their residence in Shrewsbury some time Caleb Shreve purchased an estate in Burlington County State of New Jersey. The estate remains in the family to the present day. After the death of Caleb Shreve his widow Sarah Shreve made her son Benjamin Shreve sole heir to her estate and the estate left her by her late husband Caleb Shreve. Benjamin Shreve collected the papers and was preparing to go to Holland to get the estate but he being prevented by the breaking of a blood vessel which caused his death and my father Caleb Shreve being the elder surviving son of Benjamin Shreve and he being young at the death of his father and previous to his arriving of age to heir his estate left him by his father his mother married a man by the name of George Ears. When my father came to heir the estate left him by his father Benjamin Shreve my grandmother would not exact her thirds it excited Ears so he gathered up the papers that had been collected by my grandfather Benjamin Shreve to go to Holland to get the estate there and conveyed them away with him and he put my father to defiance to get them unless he would let him have one-half of the estate

After the death of Ears my father applied to Eares son Samuel Eares who had the papers and he refused to let my father have the papers but said he could take care of them as well as any other person After his death his property fell into the hands of his two sons George & Nathan Ears when they came to divide their estate the papers fell into the hands of Nathan Ears and he moved his part of the furniture into his barn he having no other building on his part of the lot. The barn took fire by some means and the papers being in the desk in the barn were all consumed; I have often heard my grandmother Ears say there was estate enough in Holland that belonged to her son Caleb Shreve my father if he would go after it to maintain the whole family. I have heard Betty Martin a woman that lived with my great-grandmother Sarah Shreve late Sarah Arenson, whom the estate came by that she had frequently heard her speak of her estate in Holland. I have heard my father and his brother speak of the estate in Holland and others with many other things relating to the estate in Holland but not so distinctly recollected as would warrant my committing them to writing on this paper.

One hundred and fifty years had elapsed since the ancestors left the reported legacy. The descendants living represented the seventh and eighth generations from her. The children of Sarah Areson, if the estate was her grandmother's, were the third generation, but if it was from Oara's mother, Caleb Shreve's ancestress, they were the fifth generation. The correspondence and documents relating to the investigations will be presented in chronological order, with such brief comments as may tend to elucidate them.

June 4th, 1830, Joshua Haines, from Cropwell, Burlington County, New Jersey, writes his cousin, Stacy Shreve of Salem, Columbiana County, Ohio, as follows:

Respected Cousin

I take the liberty to state that it is currently reported in our country as I also apprehend in thine that there is a large estate descending from Holland to Aronsons Woolmans and Shreves Families, and much of the report I believe is without foundation. In fact the case appears to be this: About the year 1660 Devrick Aronson came to this country and settled on Long Island. Some years after a rich relative of his died and left the aforesaid Derwick a very considerable estate in Holland. Sometime after this he made arrangements to go to Holland and take possession of the aforesaid estate; but by some accident it is said he received a hurt by a horse, and in a short time after died, leaving behind him a will by which he leaves all his estate on Long Island to his widow, and his Holland estate equally between his children which estate has never been obtained by his said children, and I apprehend never will be, as it has been now more than one hundred and fifty years since his decease without any claim being made by his heirs and it looks most probably must have sunken by this time into the general government or into hands where it will be forever lost.

I may further state for thy information that the Holland minister in this country has been consulted and he has written to his correspondent in Holland upon the occasion and he will receive an answer to his letter in a very short time by the receipt of which it will be ascertained whether there is any estate for the heirs of Devrick Arinson yea or nay; by whom the Arinson Woolmans and Shreves have decended; and as each family are endeavoring to prove their line of decent I have undertaken to search into ours which I trace up to our grandfather, Amos Shreve and no further. It appears that in the first place one Caleb Shreve married Sarah Aronson the daughter of the aforesaid Devrick Aronson, by which marriage there were several children. From thence decended the line of the Shreves. Now there appears to be a blank between our grandfather, Amos Shreve, and Caleb Shreve that married Aronsons daughter, which I am at this time unable to make out; and if thee or thy sister Elizabeth have grandfathers marriage certificate or any other writings in your possession that may cast light upon the subject as we shall be under the necessity of proving our lineage before we can be admitted with the rest of the heirs, if we are in the line of decent, which I very much doubt we can prove, as the old records of our family appear to be lost. Please direct the same, if any, well folded up in a letter, without fail to me at Cropwell. The papers will be taken care of and returned when sufficient proof is made. The tracing out our lineage will be attended with no harm if there is nothing to be obtained, and I apprehend without very great expense. Bear in mind that what I have undertaken is for the general benefit of the heirs of Amos Shreve our grandfather. It is my wish that this investigation may be kept in the family and not made public, and I will inform thee how the matter stands as soon as intelligence shall be received from the Holland Minister. I now dismiss the subject; and may say that we have been favored with good health and my brothers and sisters families likewise. The season with us has been moist and cold; rye, wheat & clover & all grasses look very abundant; corn generally bad My best respects to thee and family and thy sister Elizabeth With sentiments of the highest respect I remain thy friend and relative

During the years intervening from the appearance of the advertisement the report of an estate in Holland awaiting Shreve claimants had gradually spread among the many descendants, and as a consequence each branch was diligent in collecting ancestral and genealogical information in their own interests. Very probably Samuel B. Shreve living at Alexandria, Va., only a few miles from Washington, was the one that consulted the Holland minister in this country which resulted in his addressing two letters to the American consul at Amsterdam, Holland. The latter written June 3d, 1832, is as follows:

Alexandria 6th Mo 3d 1832

John W. Parker

Respected friend.

I wrote thee some time since respecting some property in the town of Amsterdam, formerly belonging to Sarah Arison the said Sarah Arison married Caleb Shreve of New Jersey in North America which persons were my great grand parents, My cousin Benjamin Shreve who also was a great grand son of these two persons who has in his possession their marriage certificate, the Areson coat of arms, also a deed of the property which she gave to her youngest son Benjamin who was my grandfather. I have understood he has sent a man on to make some enquiries concerning the property since which time I have not heard of his return or any information he has gained. This subject is not new to us. We have often heard the older branches speaking about it. My grandfather was making preparations to go on to take possession of it, while making preparations to start his horse "kicked" him in the breast which occasioned his death in a short time I could not get one of the advertisements, but I saw it and it agreed exactly with the statements I have had of my uncles, it consisted of two squares beside other valuable property: I have understood the government has took in possession many years back: If this circumstance has come under thy notice, or if thee has gained any information on the subject, let it be of whatever nature it may, I would wish thee to write by the first opportunity—When the Dutch Minister was made acquainted with the subject and of our having a deed and the family coat of arms he was asked whether it was out of date, he said no it is easily obtained now as it ever was if it had been five hundred years back it would not make any difference I cannot employ any person in the business as long as long as I have not any of the papers, they are in the hands of my cousin Benjamin Shreve

Mr. W. W. Murkee (name not certain) having heard while in Washington of the interest manifested by probably several heirs is induced by Richard L. Coxe to use his influence in having the proofs collected and examined and accordingly writes Mr. Benjamin Shreve of Columbus, N. J.

Sir—

I returned from Washington on Saturday where I frequently met your nephew Caleb Perkins. He has for some years been urging Mr. Rich'd L. Coxe formerly of this town to take in hand the claims your family and his have for a certain large property lying in Holland— Mr Coxe has requested me to consult the principal heirs as to an arrangement if upon examination of the proofs you have he should think they would justify the time labor and expense of the undertaking.

I should like very much pleased to see you on this subject. I live in Burlington at the old Brewery. Bring with you whatever papers, proofs &c you may have that I may make out a list for Mr Coxe.

From this date Benjamin Shreve of Columbus, New Jersey, was the centre of correspondence. As the reports spread, he evidently was mentioned as the source for reliable information and great confidence was placed in his judgment regarding it. This was very natural. He was the patriarch of the family—born in 1759—owning the old homestead on which he lived and on which he died in 1844. He was the elder brother of Caleb and Reuben. His father was the eldest son of Benjamin Shreve, who was the youngest child of Caleb Shreve and Sarah Areson. His age, descent, intelligence and place of residence made him, as also his brothers, conspicuous in the minds of others. He, too, had heard the story related by James Varnal and Betty Martin in his boyhood days at the home where he then resided.

May 8th, 1833, James Brown of Dayton, O., writes Benjamin Shreve of Columbus, N. J., as follows:

Dayton 8th May 1833.

I take the liberty to address you of this time by the Request of Joseph Beck formerly of or near your plase conserning an estate that is said to be in Holland Coming to the heirs of Shreve or Aaronson. I do request of you to give me all the information on this subject peticurly the names of the pusin to who this estat was left two and who left it and wether by will or other wise and whot the estate amounted too and in whot situations and I think that there is no doubt but what it can be obtained. Washington City, February the 4 1834.

Dear Uncle

I thought I would write a few lines to you concerning that grate fortune that we have talk so much about, at the time that thee was so much stir about it. I mentioned it to Mr. Coxe, and he has bin at me ever since to not drop it, but continue and see if there cannot be something done done in it—I told him that I have not the least idea of getting one lent—but he still insists on trying—Mr Coxe has been very much encouraged in getting property for people down here, he had a case on had a short time ago, to a very large amount, and he got the property, the bargain was, if he got the property he should have five thousand dollars. Mr. Coxe says that if you can show him anything he can git any holt of that property in Holland he will go there himself, if we are all willing and see weather it can be had or not, I think his offer is a very fine offer, he says he will go there and if he gits the property give him so much and if he gits none he will charge nothing and pay his own expenses if it can be had I dont know of a better hand than Mr Coxe would be for to git it, he is very prosperous in gaining causes down here and I thought that I woud nearly mention it to you as he is as anxious for us to let him try if he cant git it for us—and as Mr McMutre was down here they was at me again I told Mr Mc that he mite go and see you, and see what you thought of it—I told him as for my part I could give him no encouragement conserning it—if you think well of it you may please tell or show him what writings you have conserning it and let him judg weather he thinks ther is any holt worth wile to look after it or not—I have nothing new to write to you at present of any importance but I would be very glad to see you hear and I think that you mite venture to come and see us and see the many curiosiyes in the city. I think if you was to come you would not be disappointed with a great deal of enjoyment hear for a few days—I should like to finish my letter out as I have paper left and tell you how we come on, and also the state of affairs hear, but I set down in a great hurry to scratch these few lines to send you remember me to my lawyers and tell them that I think they might come and see me—Rebecca send her love to cousin Mary

Wm. W. Murkee, after the lapse of another year, during which he was assiduous in gathering information, explains the situation as he views it to Richard C. Coxe as follows :

Burlington May 7th 1834.

My dear Richard—

Your sister communicated to me a part of Susan's letter received yesterday stating you had some idea of going to Holland to ascertain what was necessary to establish the claims of the Aaronson family to the property claimed by them in that country. Since I left you I have made every possible inquiry into the business & have conversed with everybody interested in the matter whom I could hear of Benjamin Shreve is the only person who appears to know anything about the matter, and I regret to state he looks upon it as a perfectly desperate affair—Shreve is upward of 75 years, and the only being now alive who knows anything of the rights of the family, and all he knows is from what he has heard his grandfather and an old English servant of the family say, when he was quite a lad.—He has not a paper of any description in his possession, the coat of arms has long since been lost. The only document I have been able to find is the accompanying copy of the will of Derrick Aaronson of Flushing. According to Shreve's statement the property in Holland belonged to his wife, he died many years before her—she married an Englishman named Eyre, by whom she left no issue—by Aaronson she had seven sons. All of the sons were provided for by estates given to them in this country, one only excepted, to whom his mother conveyed her Dutch estates. Eyre was a widower with a family—shortly after his marriage he removed to Jersey, where he lost his wife—He was an expensive frolicsome sporting man, always spending but always having miney. The legal heirs of the mother made repeated application to get the papers of the estate out of his hands, which he declined giving up; they supposed he held on to them with a view of continuing to draw the proceeds of the estate in Holland, to which he was not entitled after the death of his wife. He generally made two trips yearly to New York, returning loaded with gold and silver, on the death of Eyre his two sons seized upon all his moveable property, each grasping all he could lay hands on. One of them obtained possession of a desk which he secreted in the barn, the building and its contents were a short time afterwards destroyed by fire—during the conflagration the person who had secreted the desk, was repeatedly heard to regret the fire on account of the immense loss in the papers of the Arcson family that were in the desk. Repeated attempts have since been made to find testimony that would enable the family to get the property. A deed of the mother to her son is not upon record or at least it can not be found in the office—Shreve spent several days in New York searching the records but could find nothing excepting Derrick's will. During the revolution the family mansion on Long Island, was consumed by fire and with it everything, papers books and furniture. If the deed of the mother to her son, could be found it would reduce the number of heirs to less than fifty at the present they are over two hundred. The moment I began my inquiry I found claimants springing up all around me. The Hutchings family Pancoasts, Smiths, have been to see me, imagining that they at once were to be made people of fortune. I have encouraged them to make inquiries in hopes they may be able to procure some information. Mr. Smith has a certificate of a marriage of one of their family with the Arcsons, it is over seventy years standing and was procured by their father in consequence of the large fortune in Holland falling to the family. They have heard of some papers in the possession of a queer old woman, which they have hopes of getting, but do not know what they relate to, but as she is a relative they will endeavor to ferret her out.

I have been in hopes of hearing from New York through my old friend Colonel I. B. Murray, he has promised to call and see me shortly. Murray has lately recovered a very large property in Ireland for a very poor family in Philadelphia. It was situated many years like the Arcsons. Twenty five years ago Murray received a letter from Ireland requesting inquiry should be made after the family but to no effect, the family could not be found although numerous advertisements were issued. Hearing a short time since the name mentioned in Philadelphia he called on them traced the whole family recovered the property and got one half. With your approbation I should like to employ him in this matter, as I think every thing will depend upon a strict search into the records in N. York and no man will do it more thoroughly than he, he has also extensive correspondence in Holland. Nothing can facilitate our enquiries more than the advertisement of the Dutch Minister. Perkins told me he had a paper containing it, not one of the family here have one. The name of the woman through whom the estate is said to come is not certainly known to old Shreve—There is nobody else worth enquiring of—Peggy will copy the will I must be off for an hour or two.

[Here follows a copy of the last will and testament of Dirick Areson of Flushing, deceased.]

I feel uneasy about the box as Susan does not mention its arrival—the captain promised Mr Mac to have it immediately sent to your house and said he knew you—Dr. Osborne U. S. N. received trees by the same vessel and he knows the name of the Captain and boat—I shall write susan very soon—my love to all very truly and affectionately yours

E. M. M.

[Here the father follows with:]

I wrote Smith a few days since relative to my jacks and requested him to be governed in the sale by your instructions—I wrote you also the next day—I think it decidedly the best to sell them at once unless there is almost an absolute certainty of their rising in value they have cost me much money and will continue to do so as long as I own them—they ought to bring me at this time what I ask exclusive of all charges incurred since the last Bill was paid. I leave the whole arrangement of the matter with you a longer credit with undoubted security would be no objection—I wish you would think well about employing Murray. He is the most shrewd industrious smartest man I have ever known

very truly yours
Wm. W. Murkee.

The writer is partially in error in his genealogical record, confounding the marriage of George Eyre and Rebecca French, widow of Benjamin Shreve. Sarah Areson, widow of Caleb Shreve, never remarried. This is the best general account of affairs at that date that has been found and reflects credit on his diligence and perseverance. His activity and hopefulness stamp him as of the younger generation. His uncle, of greater experience and maturer years, is in natural contrast.

John Shreve, the eldest son of Col. Israel Shreve, was then living, at the age of seventy-four years, at Salem, Ohio. Rebecca Shreve, his half sister, eleven years younger, had married J. C. Blair, of Louisville, Ky. Benjamin Shreve, of Columbus, N. J., and John Shreve were cousins, grand children of Benjamin Shreve and Rebecca French. Their sisters were corresponding at the time and the Holland claim was an interesting topic of discussion between them. At the suggestion of Mr. Blair, Mr. John Shreve, in the interest of the pending investigation, writes his cousin Benjamin as follows :

Near Salem Columbiana County May 12th 1834 Ohio.

Dear Cousin—

I received a letter a few days since from J. C. Blair of Louisville Ky. dated 15th of last month enclosing an abstract of one from thy sister Grace dated 3rd Mo 23d last on the subject of the Holland claim. She was informed by sister Rebecca Blair that my sister Keziah had the bible of our Grandfather containing a record of the age and birth also the Marriage of our forefathers &c. This was a mistake, the bible alluded to was one which belonged to my mother before she was married which only contained the record of our particular family. I never seen the old bible alluded to, and Keziah informed me that she never saw it. Sister Keziah departed this life on the fourteenth day of the third month last aged sixty two years, nine months and ten days.

I do not know of any papers whatever which will lead to a line of heritage from Derick Areson, down to the present generation—Brother Wm. Ridgway informed me that at thy request he had searched the Records of Burlington meeting but found nothing in proof—All that I ever knew respecting our claim to the estate was from what I heard thy father and my father say on the subject. I always understood that our forefather Caleb Shreve was married to Sarah Areson in friends meeting on Long Island (or in New York) the impression is that it was at Jerico.

I believe there were no records of marriage Certificates or of births & deaths kept by the society until within the last fifty years. But if the proceedings of Monthly Meeting can be found the fact may be known.

I remember hearing our fathers say that our Grandfather Benjamin Shreve in his lifetime had collected all the necessary proof respecting the regular decent of heirship and of the claim of said estate, after his decease when our grandmother married George Eyre our fathers demanded those papers of George Eyre, who refused to give them up unless they would guarantee him one third of the estate unto his wife who was their mother—When George Eyre died the Desk and papers fel into the hands of his son Samuel Eyre of Burlington, our fathers also demanded the papers of him, he also refused to surrender them unless they would obligate themselves to give one third of said estate to Ann, the only child of Rebecca and George Eyre, they would not guarantee to her. After the decease of Samuel Eyre and his son George & Nathan divided the property, the dwelling house became the property of George and the Barn and Desk the property of Nathan after the division took place a misunderstanding took place between the brothers and Nathans property was put out in the street & he put them into the barn for the night before morning the barn and contents were consumed by fire. This conflagration took place since the revolutionary war. When this happened I heard my father say as the papers was said to be burnt, he thought it would be difficult to come to the proof of the heirship—Brother J. C. Blair thought it would be proper for me to open a correspondence with some one concerned with the business in New Jersey I thought proper to write to thee and communicate what has come to my knowledge.

My health has not been good for several years past. I have not been able to attend to my particular business and have passed my time among my children, five of my sons are settled two of them Joseph and Thomas are practising Medicine, Israel George and Benjamin have farms which they are improving, Solomon has been several years mostly absent teaching school and improving himself in literature, at and below the falls of Ohio. he is now up on a visit to see me & his brothers & sisters; My daughters mary & Eliza lives with Joseph they are settled at Mount Union in Stark county eleven Miles West of Salem, Thomas is settled at Durifld in Portage County fourteen miles North West from Salem.

My daughters and Solomon are single.

I received a letter from thy Brother Thomas two or three weeks since on the Holland business he and family were well. Please accept my love and esteem. & give it to thy children and all my enquiring Relations and friends.

I remain your affectionate Cousin

John Shreve was remarkably careful in the statement of truth and what he writes is perfectly reliable.

General interest was now manifested among the descendants of Caleb Shreve and Grace Pancoast, warranting the employment of an attorney to represent them, as suggested by Wm. W. Murkee and Caleb Perkins. Benjamin, Caleb and Reuben

Shreve, brothers, contract with Richard C. Coxe, of Washington, D. C., as follows :

Memorandum or an Agreement, made and entered into this — day of June in the year eighteen hundred and thirty four between Benjamin Shreve of Burlington Co Caleb Shreve of Hunterdon County Reuben Shreve of Monmouth County in the State of New Jersey and Richard S. Coxe of the City of Washington District of Columbia Witnesseth Whereas the said Benjamin Caleb & Reuben are supposed and beleived to be the true owners of certain property now being and lying in Holland in Europe the ascertainment of their title to which and the recovery of the same will probably be attended with labour and expense ; and the said Richard is willing and desirous to undertake the said business—now the agreement witnesseth that the said Benjamin Caleb and Reuben on their part undertake and agree to furnish to this said Richard all the papers document and evidence whatever in their power to establish the validity of said claims and full power of attorney authorising and empowering him his associates or agents to demand and receive the property or the value thereof belonging to them or either of them in Holland aforesaid and the said Richard is to pay all the expenses which may be incurred by him or those whom he may authorise to act or employ in the premises—without any charge therefore to the said Benjamin Caleb or Reuben. But he the said Richard is to be allowed and permitted as a full and entire compensation for his labour expense and responsibility to retain and reserve unto himself the one full and equal fourth part of whatsoever he may recover and receive of and from the said property so situated as aforesaid and the said Richard further agrees to pay or cause to be paid the other three fourths unto the said Benjamin Caleb and Reuben or their Heirs In Witness whereof the said parties have hereunto interchangeably set their hand and seals the day and year aforesaid.

This same month Peter P. Lowe, of Dayton, O., introduces himself to Benjamin Shreve, of Columbus, New Jersey.

Dayton Ohio 1 June 1834

Dear Sir

I am an attorney of this place and have been employed by several persons in this state who are the descendants of Derick

Ayreson to trace the heirs of said Derick downwards for the purpose of obtaining an estate in Amsterdam Holland belonging to you and to them. I am requested to say to you that whatever expenses you have been at heretofore in this matter will be proportionally paid by the heirs here. The heirs here have determined to ferret out the whole of this matter and this letter is writtten to you preparatory to the obtaining the necessary proof of heirship in this country. I shall shortly visit New Jersey on this business but before I proceed thither I wish to obtain from you all the knowledge and information you are in possession of on this subject.

We have the following idea of the course of the heirs running up—towit: Rebecca Bailey daughter of Jeremiah Shreve who was the son of William Shreve who was the son of Benjamin Shreve who was the son of Caleb Shreve and whose wife was the daughter of Derick Ayreson. Is this account correct? If so can you tell me first how many heirs Caleb Shreve had. Where they resided? and secondly how many heirs and their names had Benjamin and William Shreve? Do you know the name of Derick Ayresons wife? Did Derick Ayreson make a will? Is it recorded? If not recorded where is it and what are its contents? What was the name of the daughter of Ayreson that Caleb Shreve married? How far can you trace the line downward from Caleb Shreve and their several branches? Is there any record evidence in the United States of the marriage between Ayresons daughter and Caleb Shreve or if not what can be presented of their marriage?

Will you answer this letter and these interogatories as soon as you can and remit to me all facts of which you may be in possession.

I write this at the request of Mr. Beck and Mr. Bailey and many others who are anxious you will try and get all the information and forward it here by letter previous to my going to New Jersey and they say if you will they will be at all expenses &c

Respectfully Yours

Mr. Benjamin Shreve

It is said here that the estate belonging to you and the other heirs was about 14 years ago advertised in one of the Philadelphia papers—is this true? if so can you not obtain the advertisement?

A short time later Thomas Shreve, of Cincinnati O., communicates information lately received from his cousin, Rebecca Blair, of Louisville, Ky., to his sister Grace Shreve, in New Jersey, as follows :

Now about the Holland concern

Cousin Rebecca appears as if she is enabled to throw some light on the subject—says she has heard her father talk about it very often, and as she understands it, our predecessor Shreve became acquainted with his after wife when he was at school, she being there from Holland, they became engaged and she returned home, her marriage was opposed by her parents, they not being willing that she should marry an Englishman that Derrick Ayreson told her if she married an Englishman that he would disinherit her &c &c—but nevertheless she met him in a vessel at sea and they were married and came off to America and Derick and family followed after &c &c—then another item of information—She says there was a family came out from Holland a very short time before her father's death, indeed at the time of his last illness, he was too ill to have much conversation with them—but that family brought letters to her father, that they claimed relationship, that the name of the woman that our progenitor married was Shodwell or Schodwell, they said there was a large estate in Holland belonging to the Shreve family—She says the family above mentioned are still living in the neighborhood where they then resided, she says if when Cousin Henry comes home if it should be thought best she will go up into that neighborhood and visit those people and also to look after the old Bible &c &c she appeared to be in earnest but as Cousin Henry and Brothers have had an interview at Washington perhaps they are already in possession of all I have herein mentioned if they are not thee will give it to them immediately—I should like to have written to each of them as I could not well do that I thought I would write to thee, and thee could spread the concern as necessity would require—It has now been a long time since we have had information from Jersey and I am particularly anxious to hear if any new light has broken upon our dark affair.

The "Cousin Henry" mentioned was Captain Henry M. Shreve of St. Louis, Mo., a man of much prominence and great business enterprise, at one time holding an extensive contract with the government for clearing the raft from Red River and in honor of whom Shreveport, La., was named.

Interest among the heirs continued to spread. On Oct. 31st, 1835, seventeen in number assembled at the house of Jonathan

Crews in Damascus, Ohio, and held a formal meeting, electing Joseph W. White Chairman, and John Negus Secretary. The following are the minutes of their proceedings :

At a meeting of some of the heirs of Derrick or Richard Aronson decd convened at the house of Jonathan Crews, Damascus, Columbiana Co. Ohio, 10th Mo. 31st 1835, Joseph W. White was called to the chair and John Negus chosen secretary.

Whereas Derrick or Richard Aronson formerly of Amsterdam Holland late of Long Island, State of New York decd, having been possessed of considerable real estate in Holland which by will he left to his heirs, who having never applied it has not been obtained

Therefore we of the present meeting being a part of the legal heirs and descendants of the said Aronson have convened and do hereby organize ourselves for the purpose of investigating (in conjunction with the heirs in other districts) the circumstances of said estate with a view to ascertain the practicability of obtaining it, seeing it has been reported we believe from authentic information that the just and equitable principles of the Government of Holland are such that they are still disposed to pay it over to the heirs when legally applied for.

After a free discussion and full expression of sentiment the following resolutions were adopted.

Resolved that the secretary be authorized to give information by transmitting a copy of our proceedings to Thomas Shreve Cincinnati; Joel Woolman near Philadelphia & Benj Shreve & Ralph Shreve N. Jersey.

Resolved that it is the desire and united sense of the present meeting that the said heirs hold a similar meeting or meetings, and to appoint one or more delegates to attend a general convention of the heirs on the subject to meet on the 1st 2nd day in the 4th Month next at 10 o'clock at the publick house called Congress Hall Philad. and that such meeting or meetings give us the information if (or otherwise) they unite with the measure by the 1st of 2nd Month next.

Resolved that Aaron Arenson Woolman, John Negus and Solomon Shreve be appointed delegates to attend said convention charged with the interest of this concern.

Resolved that Saml. Woolman, West Negus Jos. W. White, Solomon Shreve and Nathan White be appointed to make inquiry collect and produce to next meeting all the authentic information they can obtain relative to said estate that they also be directed to produce a lineage of heirship of the present meeting and other heirs who may reside in this section of country.

Resolved that Saml. Woolman be appointed treasurer and to receive contributions to defray the expenses that may accrue on the present concern.

Resolved that the names of the members (17 in number) that compose the present meeting be retained upon our minutes.

Resolved that the chairman and secretary sign the proceedings of the meeting.

Adjourned to meet again at this place the 3d 7th day in the 2nd Mo. next at the 10th hour if so permitted

JOSEPH W. WHITE

JOHN NEGUS Secty.

President.

No record of the subsequent meeting appointed for the same place has been found. Local meetings were held as recommended to appoint delegates to attend the general meeting of heirs at Congress Hall, Philadelphia, the first Monday in April, 1836. Before the appointed time Benjamin Shreve, of Salem, Mass., introduces the subject to Benjamin Shreve, of Columbus, N. J.:

Salem Massachusetts December 28th 1835

Dear Cousin.

On the 13th day of July fourteen years ago I had the pleasure of making your acquaintance upon my returning home from a journey to Philadelphia, having my wife in company, traveling in a chaise and of dining with you at the homestead of our paternal ancestors, as far back as our great grand father.

I am thus particular that you bring to recollection our visit. My father was your uncle Benjamin, who died in Alexandria District of Columbia the 18th of November 1801. Your brothers Caleb, Reuben and Thomas and sister Grace I knew during their residence at that place.

There remain of my fathers family my brother Samuel at Alexandria and myself. My brother Isaac died in this place on the 4th of September 1829. He left five sons and six daughters but no property since I was at your house I have been one voyage as super cargo to Canton and two voyages in a vessel of my own to the West Indies and Europe, and last, as a super-cargo to Batavia from which voyage I returned home in April of last year.

I have had various success—the last was quite a losing voyage for I was one fourth interested in the cargo, so that my means are rather moderate, but I trust that I have enough using great economy to carry myself and wife through life comfortably.

At present I am not engaged in any business and it is rather uncertain whether I shall embark in business or endeavor to be content with what I have, at any rate I shall wait and see how our affairs with France shall be settled. I sincerely pray that we shall not have war.

When I was at your house I made some memorandum respecting our family from our grandfathers bible in your possession which I find are not so perfect as I could wish: I have therefore written this letter principally to desire you to transcribe what is therein recorded respecting our family vis an account of our grandfathers birth and parentage—and the list of the names—time of birth and decease of his children; and please give me any further information in your possession respecting our family as far back as possible.

I wish you to write me as soon as you can and send your letter by mail—directing to me in Salem, Massachusetts.

I have seen a letter from Alexandria giving an account of an advertisement by the Dutch Government or some other authority—calling upon the legal heirs to an estate in Holland to make their claims—and that that property was supposed to belong to a part of the Shreve family in New Jersey—and moreover from certain old papers brought to light there was reason to suppose that ours is that branch of the family entitled to said estate; and that your brother Reuben had employed a lawyer in Washington to investigate the business.

I wish you to inform me in what paper and of what date that advertisement was published. if it be an American newspaper I may probably be able to find it in this place or Boston among the files of our insurance offices or printers; but if it was published in a foreign paper you can probably send me a copy of the advertisement and any other information in your possession on the subject will be acceptable.

Should there be any well founded expectation of or claim to any property in Europe, or elsewhere, belonging to our family it is of the first importance that all persons interested should join in the attempt to obtain it: for how can a part of the number expect to receive it without authority from the others.

When I was quite young our uncle William was at Alexandria on a visit to my father and the impression on my mind is that he was then a widower or a bachelor—whether he left children or not I never knew—please inform me on this subject.

I am advised that you have now attained to such an advanced age—about seventy six I think—as to make it irksome for you to write in that case please request one of your sons or daughters to write to me in answer to this in your behalf. Please remember me affectionately to your brothers and sister Grace (and Rebecca if living.)

I am happy to understand that your brother Thomas and family did well to move to Cincinnati but I have not heard any thing respecting them of late. My wife joins me in love to yourself and family

The writer evidently had heard from his brother, Samuel B. Shreve, of Alexandria, Va., of the authority given Mr. Coxe, and is not quite in harmony with them in the arrangement. Samuel B. Shreve had been trying to ascertain the character of the estate through the U. S. Consul at Amsterdam, whom he had twice written—once on June 3d, 1832. Peter P. Lowe, of Dayton, Ohio, after writing in June, 1834, Benjamin Shreve, of Columbus, and probably securing from him such information as he possessed, wrote Jan. 29th, 1835, John W. Parker, U. S. Consul at Amsterdam. The receipt of his letter was acknowledged Dec. 30th, 1835, as follows :

Amsterdam Dec. 30th 1835

Peter P. Lowe Esq.
 Attorney at Law
 Dayton, Ohio.

Sir, I was favored some time since with your letter of 29th January.

There is no doubt in my mind that in case the estate of Ayreson existed in Amsterdam that the names mentioned by you are incorrect. No persons of the name of Shreve or Ayreson can be found—the great point is that the name of the Testator is written correct, without this nothing can be done. I have searched for days and weeks in order to find something relative to the property in question, but all in vain. I would therefore recommend you to look for the advertisements in the Philadelphia papers which may perhaps throw some light on the business. I am very willing to be of service to yourself and friends but without some solid proofs I can do nothing. I received different letters from a Mr. S. B. Shreve of Alexandria on the same subject, one of which I enclose herewith as it may be of service to you

Your obt st
 JOHN PARKER

N. B. The family coat of arms would be of service to ascertain the name of the testator.

The consul states the difficulties that attend the investigation there and impresses the fact that "solid proof" must be presented and the name of the testator "must be written correct." He encloses the letter written him June 3d 1832, by S. B. Shreve. His reply to Mr. Shreve was likely of the same character as the one to Mr. Lowe.

March 11th, 1836, replying to the letter of Dec. 28th previous, Benjamin Shreve, of Columbus, N. J., wrote Benjamin Shreve, of Salem, Mass., as follows:

Mt Pleasant Mansfield March 11 1836

Esteemed Cousin

I have the pleasure to acknowledge the receipt of thy letter of the 18th of December in which thee requests me to give thee a memorandum of our forefathers and relatives. I shall first begin with my great-grandfather Caleb Shreve's will dated the fifth day of April 1735.

Item I give and bequeath to my dearly beloved wife Sarah Shreve one third part of my moveables or personal estate to her heirs and assigns forever. One third of my real estate with the best room in my dwelling house & what benefit she needeth in the kitchen or cellar during her life if she continue my widow but if she marries after my death then she shall have no title or claim either to my house or any part of my real estate. Item I give and bequeath unto my eldest son Thomas Shreve five shillings it compleating his portion. I give and bequeath unto my son Joshua Shreve it compleating his portion. Item I give and bequeath unto my son Joseph Shreve five shillings it compleating his portion. Item I give and bequeath unto My son Caleb Shreve five it compleating his portion. Item I give and bequeath unto my son Jonathan Shreve five shillings it compleating his portion. Item I give unto my son David Shreve one good cow it compleating his portion. Item I give and bequeath unto my son-in-law Benjamin Scattergood five shillings it compleating his portion. Item I give unto my daughter Mary Gibbs five shillings it compleating her portion. I give and bequeath unto my daughter Sarah Ogburne five shillings it compleating her portion. Item I give and bequeath unto my grand daughter Sarah Shreve daughter of my son Joshua Shreve one good feather bed with all its furniture two good cows one young mare one iron pot which I bought at Preserve Brown's vendue, one large pewter basin which I have with a broad brim six spoons & six pewter plates to be given her when or as soon as she shall be eighteen years of age. Item I give to my well beloved son

Benjamin Shreve whom I likewise constitute make and ordain my sole executor of this my last will and testament all and singular my lands messuages and tenements by him freely to be possessed and enjoyed his heirs and assigns forever.

Thee request me to give thee some information concerning an advertisement concerning the Holland fortune. All I can inform thee concerning it is that Rebecca Perkins came to my house I think it was 15 years last January and brought a newspaper which she read and said it was for the heirs of the Holland fortune to come and prove their right. At that time I was confined to my bed not being able to sit up. My wife at the same time ill, so there was no attention paid to it, as I understood that the papers concerning the property were destroyed.

As for Uncle William he had five children which have left heirs 3 sons and 2 daughters.

Our relations from the west have sent us an invitation to meet them at Congress Hall in Philadelphia on the first second day in April next which we have accepted, concerning Derrick Arison's will to try if they can raise funds to send some person to Holland to examine the records and see if anything can be found in our favour and what proof will be necessary. If thee can attend at that time and place I think thee would be as good a person as we could get to go and search in Holland. It has always been said that Sarah Shreve's grandmother left her a large fortune in Amsterdam.

If it will be convenient for thee to attend and bring thy wife to see her relatives as far as my house, while we go to Philadelphia I shall be very much obliged

A copy of the minutes of this meeting and also the following memoranda were found in the desk of Captain John Shreve, Salem, O. A copy of the minutes of the same meeting were found in Mt. Holly, N. J. The subscription list of the same date as the meeting at Columbus was found also at Mt. Holly, but not in the possession of Capt. John Shreve. The minutes and memoranda were probably sent, the latter immediately after the Philadelphia meeting, with the object of interesting those in Ohio in contributing to the proposed fund. None of their names appear on the list of subsequent subscribers.

The estate looked after by the Heirs of Caleb and Sarah (Arison) Shreve is said to have been Willed (to her) by her Grand Mother whose name was Orey Orey Orry to her Grand Daughter Sarah Shreve Wife of Caleb Shreve (formerly Arison) and daughter of Derrick. But of this it is thought doubtful to prove.

Benjamin Shreve now of Salem Massachusetts son of the late Benjamin Shreve of Alexandria Virginia is spoken of as a suitable person to be sent to Holland as Agent for the Heirs he being a seafaring man and acquainted with business.

To defray the expense of the Agent the Convention of the heirs who met in Philad. 4th of 4th Mo. 1836 decreed that each family of the 4th Generation ought to pay $25.00 and each family of the 5th Generation to pay $5.00 and if any who pays and cannot prove themselves to be legal heirs, the amount thus paid shall be returned to them.

A subscription by the Heirs of Derick Areson and Sarah his Wife, late of Long Island and State of New York deceased for raising money to employ an Agent or Agents to go to Holland to investigate the claims to, and if practicable to obtain an estate there due the said Heirs, to be legally divided amongst them. It is also the meaning and conditions of the within subscription that if any of the subscribers hereto, shall fail to prove their legal right to a proportion of said estate that the sum they have paid shall be refunded to them in full. Thus according to the above terms we the subscribers agree to pay the sum annexed to our names.

Before the next appointed meeting occurred Samuel B. Shreve, of Alexandria, having received a letter from Rebecca Bailey, of Centreville, Ohio, wrote his cousin Benjamin Shreve, of Columbus, as follows :

Alexandria 7 Mo 5th 1836

Cousin Benjamin Shreve

I have for a length of time thought of writing to thee but have invariably put it off and had nearly given it up all thoughts of doing so until I received a letter from a relation in Ohio by the name of Rebecca Bailey I herewith transcribe a copy of said letter. Centerville Montgomery County Ohio 17th of June 1836 having recently received a letter from John W. Parker American Consul at Amsterdam in relation to a legacy said to be there and belonging to certain persons in the United States of your name I thought it might be of some service to give you all the information I can concerning it and for which purpose I here give a copy of the consul's letter in his own words—
Amsterdam December 30th 1835.

Peter P. Lowe esq Attorney at Law Dayton Ohio

I was favored some time since with your letter of the 29th of January. There is no doubt in my mind that in case the estate of Ayreson existed in Amsterdam that the names mentioned by you are incorrect. No persons by the name of Shreve or Ayreson can be found the grate point is that the name of the testator is written correct, without this nothing can be done. I have searched for day and weeks in order to find something relative to the property in question, but all in vain I would therefore recommend you to look for the advertisements in the Philadelphia papers which may perhaps throw some light on the business I am writing to be of service to yourself and friends but without some sollid proof I can do nothing I received different letters of Samuel B. Shreve of Alexandria on the same subject, they family coat of arms would be of service to ascertain the name of the testator yours respectfully John W. Parker That you may know the reason why I write to you on this subject your Grandfather Benjamin Shreve was my Greate Grandfather and Colonel William Shreve his son was my Grandfather and his son Jeremiah Warder was my father. If you have had any further information from any source I should be glad you would communicate it to me it is at least an agreeable thing to me to hear from my friends and relation when opportunity may serve. If the marriage cirtficate, the family coat of arms and the deed can be obtained and the Amsterdam record examined by the face of those documents if ever a record was made of any of them we believe that there coud not exist any difficulty in substantiating our clame we here are informed that the government of Holland will not liquidate this and such like claims unless first it is publicably advertised in the gazetts of this country a reasonably length of time for all the heirs to meet at a certain place on a given day and present their clames and those who does not attend at or within that specified time to be forever deprived ever after. the claimants thus Identified will be forwarded as to received ther dividends and the government of Holland will thereby be secured agains any after claims and justified in given they amount in demand. Inquire whether a will was made and if so wether it was recorded and also wether the deed was recorded and if they are we would like to know where If you will be so good to write to me direct your letter to John Bailey & deare cousin except of the cincer wishes of yours & Rebecca Bailey. Now as the subject of this letter is the business that I wished information on and having been informed by cousin Samuel Shreve and Caleb Perkins of Montgomery County Maryland that thee had none of the family papers and records than any one of the family I will be much obliged to thee if thee will give me all the information on the subject thee can wether thee is in possession of the will or the deed of the property said to be in Holland whose name they are recorded in and if thee has one or more of the advertisement will thee be so good as to let me know the name and the date of the paper and who it was printed by I see the one Calep Perkins had but did not take a copy it appears by the Consuls letter that it is necessary to have them and be very particular in names and dates.

My Brother Benjamin Shreve thinks that the account we had is incorrect as some of the names does not agree with the family records which he has in possession my Nephew Benjamin Shreve informed by letter that he met with thee on his return from maken us a visit and conversed with thee on the subject of the claim and that the appeared to think it would be recovered, niw I think if there is any possibility of getting it we had better unite in our endeavors to affect that purpose as in unity there is strangth.

If thee does not know who I am thee can make any inquiry of thy sister Grace Shreve who will give thee any information on the subject and to whome my wife and self desires to be most affectionately remembered. I remain thy Cousin

Samuel B. Shreve.

To Benjamin Shreve.

I called on lawyer Cox in Washington Citty some weeks ago see how he came on with the clame he told me he had nothing to dow with it but did not say wheter the businee was taken from or wether he gave it up. please write to me on the reception of this I intend to reply to Rebecca Bayley as soon as I heare from thee.

I take this method to inform you that I wish you to make further inquiries and serch for the wills of the Grandmother and Aunt who is the grantors of the estate willed (as their name is not recollected at this time by me) to Sarah Areson who married Caleb Shreve it is expected the wills was taken between the year 1660 and 1700 and by examining the wills of the Wooman it will be seen if there is any legatee of the above names. it has allway been represented it was in real estate and for the want of an heir at was sold and put in the orphant fund for the benefit of the heirs the property is a large amount in the city of Amsterdam.

The above is written on old writing paper and is neither dated, signed nor addressed. Punctuation ignored; also capitalization, excepting proper names.

as for what Parker has written upon the subject, we consider of little importance, and feel no ways discouraged by what he says as we consider his informant did not know himself consequently could not tell him how and where to look. so if thee should write again to Parker request him to look for the will of Ore Ore (or some such name as perhaps we do not spell the name right we do not understand the language) who we have been told left the property to our great grand mother whose name was Sarah the daughter of Derick Ayreson and either before or after the bequeath was the wife of our great grand father Caleb Shreve the date of the above alluded to will is supposed to be somewhere between the years 1670 and 1683 and it is said there was another gift to our great grandmother by an aunt of hers somewhere about the same time whose name has not been handed down to us. as the above bequeaths were never called for by the heirs we have been informed by our predecessors that the property was realised by the authorities of Holland or Amsterdam and placed in the orphans funds somewhere about twenty, thirty or forty years afterwards so if thou art interested to write to Parker again this may give him a clew for investigation and if he can make any discoveries—advantageous for us he shall certainly be liberally rewarded for his trouble please inform us of the result.

The above is neatly written on old writing paper—as a rule correctly spelled—a few erasures made at the time for correction—unsigned, unaddressed, undated. This and the preceding appear to be copies of letters either sent or expected to be sent by the writer to Samuel B. Shreve of Alexandria or Rebecca Bailey, of Centreville, O., who had been communicating with the Consul Parker. They were evidently made in 1834 to 1837.

Rebecca Bailey and Mr. Lowe were evidently unaware of the measures on foot by Eastern descendants and were ignorantly and innocently investigating independently. July 18th, 1836, the meeting at Columbus, N. J., was held as arranged. The following are the minutes of the proceedings. They are unsigned.

At an adjourned meeting of the heirs of Derick Areson of Flushing Long Island deceased, at the house of Isaac Johnson in the village of Columbus Reuben Shreve was appointed chairman and James C. Blair and Ralph Shreve Secretaries.

On motion of John Aaronson it was resolved that five persons, viz.: Caleb Shreve of Manayunk John Aaronson, James C. Blair, Ralph H. Shreve & Peter Shreve be constituted a committee to draft resolutions and after retiring a few moments reported the following.

Whereas it has been represented for several generations past that a sum of money has been left in Holland to the Shreve and Aaronson family it is

Resolved That five persons viz Reuben Shreve Benj. Shreve of Mansfield Benj. Shreve of Salem John Aaronson Caleb Shreve of Manayunk be appointed a Committee to employ one or more persons to ascertain through an agent in Amsterdam if any property now remains in Holland belonging to either of the above named families and inform the committee as to the result

Resolved that 200 dollars be raised for the purpose of defraying the expenses of said inquiry.

Resolved That Benj. Shreve, Salem, Mass., be appointed Treasurer and empowered by this meeting to pay all expenses incurred by said agent and his receipts shall be sufficient vouchers for the same and they shall be approved by the committee of five

On motion of the chairman the meeting then proceeded to raise the funds agreeably to the foregoing resolutions when the following persons subscribed and paid the sums opposite each of their names amounting to $ which sum was then placed in the hands of Benj. Shreve of Salem Treasurer for the purposes intended by the meeting as specified in the foregoing proceedings.

On motion it was resolved that this meeting adjourn to meet at Bordentown on the first second day of the 12th month next at the house of Mrs. Longstreth.

Resolved that the chairman and secretary sign the proceedings.

Of the same date is found the following unsigned memorandum :

Memorandum or an agreement made and entered into this eighteenth day of July in the year eighteen hundred thirty six between Benjamin Shreve of Burlington County in the State of New Jersey on the one part late of the same place Witnesseth, Whereas we the Heirs of Benjamin Shreve deceast do agree and grant full power of Attorney authorizing him his associates or agents to demand and receive the money or property or the value thereof belonging to them or either of them in Holland the said Benjamin Shreve or his associates is to be allowed and permitted as a full and entire compensation for his labors, expenses and responsibility to retain and reserve to himself the one full and equal half part of whatever he may recover and receive of and from the property after deducting all charges and reasonable expenses for money expended in obtaining it the other half part to be paid to the Heirs of Benjamin Shreve Deceast according to their heirship in witness thereof we have set our names hereunto in the year above mentioned and our place of abode.

Columbus, N. J., 18th July, 1836.

The minutes of the Columbus meeting and the agreement, also the list of heirs, are evidently copies of original papers made on the 18th of July, 1836. The transcriber omitted signatures, and it appears erroneously designated, "Benj. Shreve of Burlington County, New Jersey," as the authorized agent, instead of Benjamin Shreve of Salem, Mass. The "list of Benjamin Shreve and heirs" include the names of the children of Benjamin Shreve and Rebecca French, all of whom were many years deceased, with the number of children each of them had that married and had issue, thirty-six altogether, some of whom were living. The heirs that held the meeting at Columbus and raised the funds, were mostly, if not altogether, of this branch. The names of most of the descendants that took part in the meeting at Congress Hall are not among them. Sarah Areson had made her youngest son, Benjamin, sole heir to her estate by the following instrument dated February 28th, 1740:

Know all men by these presents that I Sarah Shreve of Mansfield in the County of Burlington in the province of West New Jersey widow, for and in consideration of a certain bond given me bearing date with these presents recourse thereunto had will more at large appear by Benjamin Shreve of the same place merchant, whereof I do hereby acknowledge myself therewith fully and entirely satisfied have bargained, sold, set over and delivered and by these presents in plain and open market according to the just and due form of the law in that case made and provided do bargain, set over and deliver unto the said Benjamin Shreve all my right, title and interest of the lands, tenements and hereditaments. And also my right, title and interest of the moveable estate given me by late husband, Caleb Shreve, deceased in his last will and testament. To have and to hold the said bargained premises unto the said Benjamin Shreve his executors, administrators or assigns to the only proper use and behoof of the said Benjamin Shreve his executors, administrators and assigns forever. And the said Sarah Shreve for myself, my executor and administrator the said bargained premises unto the said Benjamin Shreve his executors administrators and assigns against all and all manner of persons shall and will warrant and forever defend by these presents. In witness whereof together with the delivery of the bargained premises, I have hereunto set my hand this 28 day of February Anno Dom 1740

Benjamin Shreve of Salem, Mass., was not remiss in commencing the investigation.

Sept. 1st, 1836, Samuel B. Shreve advised Rebecca Bailey to directly address Benjamin Shreve of Columbus for information, which she did May 10th following.

No record is found of the business transacted December 2d, 1836, at the meeting appointed at the house of Mrs. Longstreth in Bordentown, N. J.

Joseph W. White of Medina, O., chairman of the meeting at Damascus, October, 1835, wrote to his cousins, Mary Henderson and Eliza Reeder (grand children of Mercy Shreve and James White), who were pioneer settlers in Greene County, Ill., in 1818. Their whereabouts had but recently been discovered by the Ohio descendants, who were then much interested in the investigation.

Respected Cousins

Yours of the 23d March was duly received and gave much pleasure to hear directly from one who not only from the ties of consanguinity would be more or less interesting, but, who when after the lapse of nearly forty years, fond memory calls up the recollection of personal acquaintance and esteem in early childhood, must, under such circumstances be doubly pleasing and interesting.

You will please excuse the partial delay manifested in answering your letter, as I have been perambulating the country a considerable distance from home a great portion of the time since the receipt of your favor. With regard to the great estate you enquire about I will now state so far as my knowledge extends, from which you will find you labored somewhat in error with regard to the origin of it, place, and some other minor items.

The estate (if any) lies in Amsterdam (Holland)—not Germany.

About the year 1680, one Direck Areson, or Arison, emigrated from Amsterdam to New York City—then called New Amsterdam—as it was settled principally by Hollanders, or Low Dutch. Derick (or Richard in English) was a quaker, and come to this country on account of the persecution against that sect in Holland, at that time. Sometime after his residence in this country, his wife's mother, residing in Amsterdam, died, and left, by will, all her large property in that city, to said Arison. This property consisted, as far as I can learn of a square of buildings in Amsterdam city, numbering 18— and five stories high, which was after some lapse of time, sold by that government for seven million dollars, and funded in the bank of Holland at 3 per cent interest ever since. Said Areson was preparing to go to Amsterdam for his legacy when he was unfortunately kicked by his horse, of which injury he died in three days time. Previous, however, to his death, he made a will and left this estate to his two children (all he had), which consisted of a son and daughter named John and Sarah Arison. He willed it equally to them. This will has been found of late, by one Ralph Shreeve, recorded in the city of New York. Sarah Arison, aforesaid, married one Caleb Shreve (another Hollander) of whom nearly or quite all sprang that bear that name in the U. States at this time. We are of the Shreve lineage, as our grand mother Mercy Whites maiden name was Shreve. This constitutes us as legal heirs. The first intimation I received of the affair was a year ago last October to attend a meeting of a number of the heirs, 50 or 60 miles east of this place. I attended, and was appointed chairman of the meeting, and one of a committee to ascertain the names and number of heirs in the western country. I have been extremely anxious ever since to find you out. There has been several meetings, since, the above period on the subject, one in Philadelphia and some in New Jersey. I have correct information, that at one meeting the sum of $200.00 was made up to bear the expenses of an agent, who started for Europe last August or Sept by the name of Capt. Benjamin Shreve, of Salem Massachusetts. He went in order to ascertain certainty and nature of the affair. It is probable something will be heard on the subject before long. If so I will advise you of it. I place no particular reliance on anything from that source, however, until something further is heard. You had better inform me of the names of those four heirs of the family of Uncle Thomas White. I am glad to hear of your large family and prosperity. I was married in Beaver Pa 3d January 1810 to a Dutch girl by the name of Polly Reisinger. We have had 11 children 3 of whom died in infancy. We have now 8 children, 4 sons and 4 daughters. My oldest son Madison H. White is married and has 3 children. My oldest daughter Lavinia has been married almost a year to a physician by name of Alexander Beatty. They live in this place. My 3 oldest sons are printers. My second son, Washington, has lately started a newspaper in Massillon about 35 miles from here. He will probably change his single life shortly. My third son is called Thomas Jefferson, (he lives with me,) and my fourth son 10 years old I call Charles after his mothers brother.

You will be ready to infer that I am a Democrat by the names of my 3 oldest sons. My father died in April 1825 aged 75 years. My mother is living with me in good health but a cripple, not being able to stand on account of getting her thigh broke some eighteen months ago. She is 77 years old. Uncle Robert White died in the fall of 1831, about 40 miles east of this. His widow and children are living in and about the place where he died. They have 2 sons and one daughter married. They are all quakers. My other daughters names are Teresa aged in her 17th year, and Polly in her 9th and Elizabeth (youngest) in her 5th year. I have lived in this place 5 years, and followed the printing business $4\frac{1}{2}$ years. On the 26th last January I had the misfortune to have my printing office destroyed by fire; but saved the greater part of my materials. I am now endeavoring to collect my scattered debts, which I find to be much worse than earning them. I am well pleased with the description you give of your country but cannot give any particular encouragement about moving there. I am in my 49th year, and therefore have lost that relish for change of residence that I own to have formerly possessed. I have through much tribulation gathered up real estate to about \$3,000, besides some personal and it is not so easy "pulling up stakes" to go elsewhere. My son-in-law, however, is determined, after some time, to go to either Indiana or Illinois, and my oldest son is going to the western part of this State. It may be possible that should my children aim westward, I might incline to follow; and your section of country would without doubt claim my attention, not only from soil and climate, but considerations of relatives. Please write shortly, and as we have an extremely backward season here, I would be glad were you to give a particular description of your climate, prices of produce facilities of mills water power, &c. together with your most flourishing towns and villages, and whether there are desirable openings for the printing business with the morals of society, &c. It may be among the possibilities for you to receive a visit from me this summer or autumn.

Please accept the love of myself and family to you and your family. We are well and desire that this may find all your family & connections in good health. With affectionate esteem I remain your loving cousin
JOSEPH W. WHITE.

James & Mary Henderson

 I wish you when you write to notice what state of forwardness your forest trees are on the 3d day of May as here the green tints of budding is but making its appearance.

N. B. When necessary your heirship can be easily established I will see to it and apprise you.

Letter from Rebekah Bailey to Benj. Shreve.

Centreville Montgomery County State of Ohio May 10th 1837.
Mr. Benj Shreve

Dear Cousin Having received a letter from cousin Samuel B. Shreve of Alexandria dated 9th mo. 1st 1836 containing some information respecting the Holland claim and a request to write you any information that I might have obtained on that subject &c. I have received a letter from the United States Consul at Amsterdam dated Oct. 22d 1834 stating that he had used his best exertions for some time in searching the records there, and says that the name of Derick Ayreson is not to be found on any of the Dutch Records, I have since been informed that the proper name is Arenson. The Consul further states that perhaps the estate in question was owned in another name, and there may be other facts necessary to attend to even to spelling names to a single letter the Consul also states the precise plan on which to procede which if effected cannot fail of success, towit he says at all events it will be necessary to transmit to him a particular description of the property, and proof of ownership. Likewise that the claimants are lawful descendants of the donor which he says cannot be done there, and again I will give you the information contained in a letter from the Consul dated Dec. 30th 1835 It is as follows viz

[Here follows an exact copy of the letter from John W. Parker to Peter P. Lowe.]

You have the Genealogy of the family and with this exception the following is the contents Mr. Shreve states to the Consul that he is not in possession of any of the Philadelphia papers but that he well recollects to have seen and read them and that the advertisement concerning the estate in question corresponded precisely with the information handed down by the descendants of the family Mr Shreve informs the consul that you have in possession the Marriage Certificate of Caleb Shreve and Sarah Ayreson, the Areyson Coat of Arms and also a deed of the property which she gave to her youngest son Benjamin, he further states to the Consul that while his grand father was making preparations to go on to take possession of the property his horse kicked him in the breast which occasioned his death in a short time He furthermore states that it appears that the estate was left by one Ore Orien to our great grand mother whose name was Sarah the daughter of Derick Aryson and whether before or after the bequest was the wife of our great grand father Caleb Shreve, the date of the above alluded to is supposed to be some where between the years 1670 & 1683. It is said there was another bequest to our grand mother by an aunt of hers somewhere about the same time whose name has not been handed down to us and the estates having never been called for, it was realized by the Amsterdam authorities & placed in the orphans fund, he says he inquired of the Dutch Consul here whether an estate of so long standing could be obtained at this distant period and he answered that if it were 500 years it would be as easily obtained now as at first as it respected that particular; and again by information had from a lady who resided in Philadelphia at the time the estates being advertised She says she well recollects reading the advertisements and were published in the following papers viz the Trenton Emporium True American (Trenton Federalist George Shereman editor) in or between the years 1820 1823 and 1825 and that Philadelphia papers contained the same I am also informed that at the time of the death of your sister (her first name not recolected) one of those papers was there the time of her decease you may no doubt recollect My cousin Thos. Shreve of Cincinnati informed me that you were on board the Ship on which my father Jeremiah Shreve died and attended him in his last moments by this you will know my standing as it respects my relationship without any further representation I have now given you all the information I am in possession of at present and I hope that you will do me the favor of writing to me concerning the manner in which the business is progressing & also concerning your welfare in common &c at least this will have a tendency to cause a revival of our correspondence which might otherwise have slept in eternal silence.

Yours affectionately

N. B. I am informed that every printing office retains a paper of each kind for such like re-examination and if so by inquiring at the above named offices and some of those in the city also a paper might be obtained in which one of those advertisements is inserted.

I have the pleasure of stating to you that there is a very efficient person here who will if required at any time when called upon embark in the business if sufficient pecuniary aid be placed in his hands to support him until he returns & of his honesty and fidelity there is no doubt providing you would prefer it so, of this you can give me information in your answer to this

Benjamin Shreve, of Salem, Mass., the duly authorized agent, was in his fifty-sixth year, a man of probity and wide business experience. His commercial transactions in foreign countries eminently fitted him for the work. The heirs could have selected no one better prepared to represent them. Within one week from his appointment he commenced the work by writing the firm of Hope & Co., Amsterdam, to which they replied April 20, 1838, as follows:

Benjamin Shreve Esq
Salem, Mass.

Amsterdam 20th April 1838.

Sir

Towards the close of 1836 we received your letter of July 26. and immediately placed the same in the hands of our professional advisor directing him to make the requisite research concerning the property supposed to have been left in this country to your great grand mother Mrs. Sarah Shreve (Aareson) but we regret to inform you that his investigation led to no results on his decease in 1837 we transferred the business to his successor who has been equally unsuccessful he having consulted all the documents to which access could be obtained without discovering any clew to the supposed property

Having carried our charge in this matter to the debt of Messrs Bunny Brothers & Co London we have merely to regret the inquiry has not given satisfactory result.

Remain respectfully

Sir Your obt Servant

HOPE & CO.

This communication was probably not received for three or four months after its date. A comparatively short time thereafter, March 8th, 1839, Benjamin Shreve died at his home in Salem, Mass., with hardly sufficient time intervening to commence further investigations, even if it were advisable.

That the case had been placed in the charge of able and competent parties and all the facts known were at their disposal is not to be doubted. We can only infer why no clue could be obtained. No place in all the preceding correspondence has the "solid proof" and the "name of the estator written correct" referred to by the Consul, John W. Parker, been produced, although every united effort was made in that direction. If they ever existed, they were destroyed in the fire following the division of the Eyres property by the two sons.

Two years later an interest was revived among some of the descendants of Benj. Shreve and Rebecca French, residing in the then far West. The writer of the following letter was the only son of Thomas Shreve of Cincinnati. He was aged thirty-two, living in Louisville, Ky, a power in politics, of high rank in literature and co-editor of the Louisville Courier Journal with Geo. D. Prentice. His father then resided in Cincinnati, aged seventy years.

Louisville 1st Mo. 6. 1840

D. C.

A man by the name of C. Harpending who is prosecuting some researches among the old dutch records about N. York has informed Captain Shreve by letter of December that he has discovered by those records the name of Arenson and Shreve was connected with some property. I have just written to him requesting him to drop you a line informing you when you will find him and that thereupon you will meet him in New York. This Harpending is the man who is prosecuting the suite for the Trinity Church property in New York which he is likely to get—he is familiar with all the old records and can and will give any information you may ask of him. I know that you like myself are somewhat deficient in faith in this matter but notwithstanding this I hope you will go to New York and learn all that is to be known in relation to it.

THOMAS H. SHREVE.

This completes the most accurate account obtained at this time of the first and most extensive investigation in a systematic manner by descendants in united action.

We have seen that the knowledge of this expected estate in Amsterdam—whether of large or small proportions—was at one time confined to Derick Areson—who died on Long Island in 1678, about the time his daughter married Caleb Shreve. Why Caleb Shreve, her husband, did not at once follow up the claim is unknown, as he was a man of perhaps more than ordinary business capacity for the times in which he lived. All interest in any claim to any estate from either Caleb Shreve or Sarah Arison by will and by contract passed to Benjamin Shreve, their youngest son, who possessed the only knowledge of it. After his death knowledge passed into rumor and these rumors of an expected estate spread to nearly every family of Shreve descent. In 1830-1840 descendants were scattered from the shores of New England to the Mississippi Valley. They were found in Massachusetts, New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Ohio, Kentucky, Illinois, and Missouri—a few in North Carolina and Mississippi. These rumors were an absorbing theme for speculation in the pioneer homes and particularly interesting to the younger members. The investigation was known to be in progress, but the result was never communicated. Why this should be has been a mystery to the later generations into whose possession many letters and documents relating to the investigations have fallen, for they were generally treasured and preserved by the receivers. There is no reason to suppose that the result was intentionally suppressed, but it is quite probable that the interest induced by expectancy subsided as a result of hope deferred. Many retained a feint hope that the estate could be procured and later inquiries began anew from time to time, as younger generations have appeared.

After an elapse of twenty years Thomas Shreve of Minonk, Woodford Co., Ill., writes Benjamin Shreve, of Loudon Co., Va., as follows:

Minonk Woodford Co. Ill.

Mr. Benjamin Shreve.

I got information of you by one of your neighbors moving through the State. Said he knew you well in Loudon Co. Virginia. Offer my best respects to your family. I request you to write and let me know your fathers given name and your grand fathers given name. A full account of your foreparents as far back as you can, and their residences and what County they were from and the family records as far back as you can. Your neighbor said you were about ninety years of age. I thought we might get something of great importance from you. The cause of this favor from you is this. I have for the last two years been trying to ferret out a correct chain of family records for this reason. There was a great fortune left to the three sons of the first Shreve that came to America. This immense estate is in the hands of ten commissioners in Holland in the city of Amsterdam. Those commissioners sent to advertise it in the public papers of Pennsylvania. About 1830 or 1835 The Shreves called a meeting and sent one Thomas Shreve with the proceeding of the meeting to Holland. The Commissioners told him the proceedings of the meeting were not proof enough: the proof which they would rely upon would be a family record. There had been so many deaths up to that time. Thomas returned home he brought a copy of the will. Thomas died and there has since been no effort made until I heard of it about two years ago. I will try to obtain a copy of the will if possible. I will let you know my success in finding records. My friends write to me giving the year that Caleb Shreve land in America and the year that his son of Joshua was born. Samuel was son of Caleb and John Shreve son of Samuel. This John Shreve was my father born in Loudon Co. Virginia and moved out into the backwoods of Pennsylvania when he was twelve or fourteen years of age. If you are a descendant of Caleb Shreve you are as much interested in this as I am. I wish you to give me all the information in your power as it is worth looking after. When Thomas Shreve was in Holland the estate consisted of about half the city of Amsterdam besides lots of Cash: The Commissioners told Thomas that the estate was worth $75,000,000, at that time the annual income from the estate was $1,000 and the commissioners fee $1,000. apiece. I wish you to write me soon and oblige

THOMAS SHREVE.

Thomas Shreve, of Cincinnati, O., died in 1846, aged seventy-six years. His son, Thomas H. Shreve, of Louisville, Ky., a prominent man, died in 1853, aged forty-five years. The latter is the one referred to. Benjamin Shreve, to whom the letter was addressed, had died in 1853, in Loudon Co., Va., aged eighty-three years. He was the oldest living member of the Virginia branch of Shreves. The letter was received by his son, Major Francis E. Shreve.

About this same time Margaretta Bowles, of Louisville, Ky., daughter of Grace Shreve Bowles and granddaughter of Thomas Shreve, of Cincinnati, affords a slightly different version of the matter:

Oara Oara was an only child of a German nobleman of Amsterdam. She fell in love and wished to marry Wm. Shreve an english merchant. Her aristocratic father disclaiming the alliance forbade it upon pain of his lasting displeasure and the certainty of her being disinherited. Oara aided by an aunt who was in a convent succeeded in joining Shreve on board an english vessel. here they were married by the english church service and immediately sailed for America. She was disinherited—her father refusing forgiveness and holding no communication with her. After many years her descendants being informed by the Dutch Consul that they could enter upon possession of a considerable part of Amsterdam if they could show any undeniable proof of Shreve and Oaras marriage tried to find the certificate of marriage. It could not be found but was thought to have been consumed in a house that had belonged to the family and been burned some years previous. This as well as I can remember was the story of my ancestors that I heard when a child. I could not positively declare its accuracy for I have but rarely given a thought to the matter since I first heard it. I have a copy of the Dutch Coat of Arms, the legend is "Fides et Constantia"

This same year Joshua Shreve of Belle Plain, Ill., gives his version :

Belle Plain Marshall Co. Illinois, Nov. 23, 1859.

Dear Friend—

We are all well at this time. I would have written sooner, but I wanted to get all the information I could. Caleb Shreve that came from Endland in 1682 is the oldest we have any account of. Joshua Shreve son of Caleb that came from Endland was born in 1692 and this Joshua was my great grand father, Caleb Shreve was born 1717, and this Caleb was my grandfather and James son of Caleb, was my father. He was born in 1754 and I was born in 1791. My brother John has my great grandfather's will. It was made in 1751 and recorded in 1759. This will was made in Sheffield, West New Jersey, and recorded in Coalington. * * * * *

This letter I have copied from a letter I received from Uncles Lewis and John Shreve. My uncle John has his great grand father's will on record. He lives in Bedford Co., Penn.

There is a copy of the old Holland will in Louisville, Ky., among Thomas Shreve's papers. He is dead. He went over to Holland and brought home a copy of the will. The first Caleb died in Philadelphia. His death is recorded in the quaker church book. The estate aforementioned is advertised in my papers and is estimated as fifty million dollars.

JOSHUA SHREVE.

The will mentioned was more likely made in "Springfield" and recorded in "Burlington."

Major Francis E. Shreve of Loudon Co., Va., about ten years after Thomas Shreve of Minonk, Ill., had written his father Benjamin Shreve, addresses Mrs. Carter of St. Louis, Mo., the only surviving child of Capt. Henry M. Shreve:

Leesburg, Loudon Co., Va.
Jan. 14, 1868.

Mrs. Carter.

The following is the account I have often heard from my father relative to our fortune in Amsterdam. There were three brothers, Shreves who left England many years ago in order to get rid of the persecution against the Quakers, then raging in England, they were of a good family. Two of them went to Holland, where they became immensely wealthy, owning nearly all Amsterdam. They never married and left all their property to the heirs of the other brother, who had come to America. He had come over with William Penn or some of his followers and settled in Philadelphia. The family afterwards moved to New Jersey, and members of this now numerous family are scattered over the country. The heirs of Mr. Shreve were advertised in the Pennsylvania papers to come forward and prove their right to the property about thirty or forty years ago. My father lived to be eighty-three years of age; had he lived until next May he would have been one hundred and one years of age. He said the first Shreve was married in a church by the Quakers, and the church burned during some of the early wars.

FRANCIS E. SHREVE.

At this time the writer was fifty-five years of age. He lived until 1878. The branch from which he descended was not of the Shreve-Areson union, but from Daniel Shreve and Jane ———. Daniel and Caleb being brothers, sons of John Sheriff, or Shreve, of Rhode Island. This version is an entirely new one, referring not to "Areson" or "Oara," but to male ancestors "Shreve." Nearly two years later Francis E. Shreve addresses Joshua Shreve of Belle Plains, Ill., as follows:

Leesburg, Oct. 10th, 1869.

Dear Sir.—I received yours and was glad to hear from you. I would have answered it sooner, but I was quite unwell and had a very sick son we are both much better as it regards our Holland estate I have received a lot of letters on the subject you wish to know what I have don I have been to Waslington and tryed to get Mr Bradley to undertake it But he is an old man and would not undertake it. I know him. He is honest lawier. I was very unwell at the time and was glad to get home But I will try it again you say you can tell me where to get the Records which is all important to success. My Father was Benj. Shreve was born in Louden County Va my grand Father was Benj. Shreve Born I think north of the potomac perhaps in New jersey my great grand Father came from New jersey to Louden County Va about 180 years ago I suppose was the Son of the old Sire to whom the fortune was left. I would say to you that my health is not good I am much better than I have been for 4 years. I have a wife and 2 sons and 2 daughters living give me all the light on the subject of the estate you can. I am yours with very great Respt

FRANCIS E. SHREVE.

The Loudon Shreves held a meeting in 1859 or 1860 and authorised me to take steps to recover the property. I made arrangements with John Shelton Esq. then practising in the Supreme Court of the United States. During the war he died. He agreed to undertake the case, if he succeeded he was to have a large fee, if not nothing. The best plan I can conceive of is to advertise calling on all branches of the family to hold conventions and send delegates to a general convention where they might deliberate and adopt measures to try and recover their estate. My health is very bad and has been so for five years. Though I have once been to Washington since the war with the intention of trying to do something in the matter. Should I recover my health I will again urge the matter. Meanwhile I desire to be kept posted as to what steps you have taken and what progress you are making.

My kindest regards with the love of my family are tendered you and your family.

Yours respectfully

FRANCIS E. SHREVE.

This latter appears to be an afterthought or postscript to the preceding dated October 10th 1869.

Joshua Shreve was deeply interested. He had commenced as early as 1859 to collect information. Previous to October, 1873, he employed Mark Bangs, an attorney, to write the American consul, on the subject. The Consul turned over the inquiry to Edward B. Humphrey, who replied. October 25th, 1873, Attorney Bangs wrote Joshua Shreve, giving probably a summary of Humphrey's letter, but largely quoting verbatim. Mr. Bangs makes no suggestions, simply notifies Mr. Shreve of the reception of the letter.

Lacon, Oct. 25, 1873.

Mr. Joshua Shreve, Belle Plain.

Dear sir:—I got a letter from Amsterdam to-day—written by one Edward B. Humphrey in answer to one we wrote some time ago to the American Consul at Amsterdam. He says our letter to Consul was handed to him by the Consul, as that kind of work was out of his line of business unless funds were sent to pay him for making the examination. This Humphreys says he has given the claim a somewhat extensive examination, but so far finds but two, that in any way assimilate to yours. These are the estates of one "Scheres" and one "Scharen" and one "Schaffers." He says he is however, confident that the family or parties have placed in our hands soliciting information are in error regarding the claims in question, and he further says: "They are I am confident in line of blood descent to a certain claim that I now hold all documents, and If the said parties will favor me with a perfectly correct line of their family descent, all the names plainly written as far back as possible, so that I may not be mistaken, nor cause them false hopes, I will then place them in possession of information of great interest to all of name Shreve or Shrieve, I am not positive how it is written."

"1st. Inform me where the family originally came from, and where located in the states, at the time of the Revolutionary war in 1775—am certain."

"2nd. All details in any way relative to this or them whatever, and how the family was apprised of it." "I am particular in soliciting all as above, for sometimes, I am solicited by wrong parties."

He further says: "At the same while waiting your reply, will give the name of Shreve a careful search. I now have many claims, have been subject to call many years, so if you have others you are at liberty to solicit information of me."

Very Truly Yours,

EDWARD B. HUMPHREYS.

I have given you above the substance of his letter you may govern yourself accordingly. Respectfully

MARK BANGS.

Less than three months after the receipt of the letter from Mr. Humphrey by Mr. Bangs, Caleb D. Shreve of Medford, N. J., writes Dr. Joseph Shreve of Burlington, N. J., the following:

Medford, Jan. 7th, 1874.

Dr. Joseph Shreve, Esq.

Dear Sir:—Yours of last month has been received. My genealogical table has almost entirely to do with our family since they came to this country. I enclose a copy of a paper drawn up by my Uncle, Benjamin Shreve some thirty or more years ago in regard to this very matter. It contains all that I know about it. It gives the names of the parties inheriting and from whom the property descended. Of course more could be learned by spending some time and money hunting up wills, etc.

Your correspondent says, "he has spent both time and money and is confident of ultimate success:" it is evident that he has spent but little of either, as he does not know even the names of the parties, and expects those interested in the result to do the work for him. I as one of the heirs would be willing to allow him one-third of the sum gained for his compensation, but first wish him to make a statement of what he is endeavoring to get and his experience and ability and reliability in that line of business as he might possibly make the case worse for us than it is now. I don't suppose his road to success will be much better than our roads here are at present. The weather is certainly "phenominal" and is not appreciated as joyfully as cold weather and sunshine would be. If you hear anything further from your correspondent among the hyacinth and ——— I will be much pleased to hear from you again. I expect now to be in my brother's office about two days in each week, perhaps his ink is much better than this, which is so thick it has almost to be coaxed out, and then doesn't look well, like a bashful boy in his first company. I have the pleasure to remain,

Yours truly,

CALEB D. SHREVE.

[Claim of title to the Holland property as set forth by Benjamin Shreve of Medford several years ago and copied by Caleb D. Shreve of the same place in the year A. D. 1870.]

To Whom It May Concern—

There has been handed down in the Shreve family that there was a large sum of money due from the Orphans' Fund in Amsterdam belonging to the heirs of Sarah Shreve who was Areson which she heired from her grand mother Ore Onert or Hornet as I do not understand the language it may not be spelled right but as near as I can recollect that Sarah Areson of Long Island married Caleb Shreve of Rhode Island and after marriage they moved to Freehold Monmouth County East New Jersey from thence removed to Mansfield Burlington County West New Jersey where part of the family yet remains that this Sarah Shreve heired her fortune by her grandmother that she made her son Benjamin Shreve her lawful heir that the said Benjamin Shreve sent to Amsterdam and received for answer that the property had been sold and the money had been placed in the Orphan's Fund to be paid when demanded by the heirs that the said Benjamin Shreve collected the proof and was going to Amsterdam for the property but had the misfortune to burst a blood vessel and bleed to death and his heirs being young and the widow marrying again to one of the Ayers, and he took possession of the papers, and the farm for several years, when Caleb Shreve, the heir, arrived at the age of twenty-one years of age and he being obliged to leave the farm the said Ayers took the said writings with him and refused to give them up but said that if he had got them he could take as good care of them as any person and after the death of the father his sons also refused to give them up and his grandsons still refused to deliver them up and a quarrel and a dispute arose between them the elder brother threw the youngest brother's goods out of the house, the youngest put them in the barn, a few nights after the barn was burned, and after that time the youngest brother said that there was some valuable papers burnt in the desk that belonged to the Shreves then we thought all lost until Mary Field found Derick Areson's will which has made quite a stir in which he has left his property in Holland to his seven children. Mary Field said she had traced said Areson back to where he married a woman by the name of Mary Hedger if so she must have been his second wife, which accounts for the family always saying that there was but two daughters, Sarah and Maria. Maria died before grown up. that the Aaronsons claimed, but had no right to claim the Shreve family always claimed the whole and said that Sarah Areson came from Amsterdam with her mother and the property was left by her grand mother in Amsterdam

Three days later Dr. Joseph Shreve received the following communication from Mr. John P. Hutchinson :

Bordentown, N. J., January 10th, 1874.

Joseph Shreve M. D.

Dear Sir

I have received the papers sent about the Holland Estate. I have taken the matter in hand and will investigate as fast as I can. Uncle Charles Shreve will get the records from Springfield. I have the direct line already, but not the collaterals. I will investigate the historical collections of the state of New York in reference to the settlers from Holland in the seventeenth century. Caleb D. Shreve at Medford has all the papers now held by the family, and which you saw at Aaron Buntings. You will hear from me soon again. The two parties at Mt. Holly; Turner Risdon was killed about Dec. 1, 1873, and Bullock keeps store. I will see him. Your obt. servt.,

JOHN P. HUTCHINSON.

It is uncertain whether the late Samuel H. Shreve of New York City was co-operating at this time with Dr. Shreve, C. D. Shreve and J. P. Hutchinson. Very soon thereafter he became very interested in identifying the Coat of Arms, and knowing more of the very early ancestry of Caleb Shreve. He addressed the following to Major Wm.P. Shreve of Boston (a descendant of Benj. Sheve of Salem, Mass.), who, it seems, was "to undertake the search." These gentlemen were all descendants of Benjamin Shreve and Rebecca French, and Mr. S. H.

Shreve was then active in collecting material relating to the Shreve family generally, parts of which he had published. He died without having used a large amount of material which he had intended to publish, and which was subsequently unavailable. Much of this letter may appear a repetition of another from his pen of later date, but a closer examination shows the subject matter treated in a different manner.

SHERIFF OR SHREVE FAMILY.

My dear Sir, I have your favor of the 20 and am glad to learn you will undertake the search. It is to learn something of family matter prior to the time of Caleb Shreve and Sarah Areson that I wish to identify the Coat of Arms. You may in your searches find something that will assist us. I will therefore tell you what I know of this Caleb and something of the family traditions. I find his name in the Surveyor Generals office of East Jersey in the book of Warrants where a warrant was issued to Caleb Sheriffe for 60 acres of land in Shrewsbury about this time. The first conveyance from him on record is dated Jan. 4, 1692. Another warrant was issued to Caleb Shrefe for 240 acres in Shrewsbury. These warrants were not located until 1679. We may therefore assume that he settled in Shrewsbury about this time. The first conveyance from him on record is dated Jan. 4, 1692, and is signed by his wife, Sarah. In the conveyances to him he is described as "Planter." He purchased the Mansfield Homestead property April 22, 1699; he died in 1742 and his wife was living in 1735.

From the first date given, 1676 to 1742, are 66 years and he must have been 21 when the first warrant was issued to him, or at least 87 years of age when he died, consequently if not born in America he must have come to this country when very young. I infer from his extensive real estate dealings that he must have been when quite young possessed of considerable means. The title "Planter" when most of his neighbors were called "Yoe-men" would also seem to show this. I therefore infer that his parents were wealthy. He made his son Benjamin the youngest of seven brothers his sole heir, leaving his other sons $5 each by his will. The others, however, had all been given good farms in Burlington County, N. J. These sons' names were Thomas, Joshua, Joseph, Jonathan, Caleb and David and I am quite sure they all lived and died in Burlington County. I find the following in the publications of the Rhode Island Historical Society. At the General Assembly held for the Colony of Rhode Island and Providence Plantations at Newport:

Caleb Shrieve of Portsmouth was admitted as a freeman May 1, 1722.

Daniel Shrieve of Portsmouth was admitted as a freeman April 23, 1723.

John Shrieve of Portsmouth was admitted as a freeman Feb., 1724.

John Shrieve, Jr., of Portsmouth was admitted as a freeman Feb., 1724.

William Shrieve of Portsmouth was admitted as a freeman, May 4, 1731.

John, son of John J. Shrieve, of Portsmouth was admitted as a freeman May 1, 1740.

Capt. John Shreve, Jr., of Portsmouth was deputy to the General Assembly May, 1759. * * * * *

Caleb Shreve married Sarah, daughter of Derick Areson of Flushing, L. I., and formerly of Amsterdam. Areson by his first wife had two children, Sarah and Maria, the latter died young. Areson's second wife's name was Hedger and by this second marriage had four or five more daughters, this brings us to the Amsterdam or Holland fortune. This there is no doubt never was Areson's, who left a will bequeathing his property to his daughters. He left some property in Amsterdam, but it was not a fortune by any means. If Sarah Areson was an heir-ess it was through her mother. Now all traditions agree that the Holland property once belonged to Oara Oara, but what relation to our family was Oara Oara? She was an ancestress, no doubt, but in what generation? I have several statements made by older members of the family in regard to this matter, but put most confidence in that which comes through Col. Israel Shreve, for this reason: Two servants of Benjamin the father of Israel were living in the time of Caleb and Sarah and frequently repeated to Israel conversations which they had heard between Caleb and Sarah and their son Benjamin in regard to the Amsterdam fortune. This Benjamin died when his children were very young and his widow married a second time. The old family papers were taken possession of by the second family who persistently refused to deliver them to the rightful owners and they were finally burnt hence Benjamin's children depended solely on traditions, and Israel seems to have taken more interest in this subject than his brothers. His story is; Caleb Shreve was the son of William Shreve and Oara Oara, the latter was the daughter of a Holland Nobleman of great wealth and an only child. She was studying in a convent in England of which the lady Abbess was her father's sister and there met William Shreve who was a warm friend of the Abbess. The young people became engaged and notwithstanding the strong opposition of the Father, eloped and were married. They subsequently came to America and lived on Long Island or Rhode Island. Some of Oara's jewelry is still in possession of the family. William Shreve graduated at Oxford and was the son of Sir William Shreve and Lady Elizabeth Fairfax, who came from Greece or Rome. He resided on the Isle of Wight, his name in his native language corresponding to the word Sheriff or Shreve, I think we may assume from this story the following as facts because they would hardly have been invented by those who handed down the tradition.

1. The elopement story was true of some member of the family.
2. Elizabeth Fairfax married some member of the family.
3. Some Ancestor was a Sir William Shreve and lived on the Isle of Wight.
4. Some Ancestor came from Rome or Greece.

Other traditions say that Oara Oara was the mother or grandmother of Sarah Areson. The Coat of Arms has been in the family for several generations and from the ornaments about it must have been painted at least 200 years ago, probably more. These Arms are said to belong to Areson, by others to Oara. To identify them will help us greatly in our search. About the year 1832 a meeting of the Shreve family was held in consequence of an advertisement for the heirs of somebody, etc. * * *

This is the latest record received relating to a renewal of the investigations, yet as late as 1895 a descendant in Idaho became greatly interested and employed legal counsel with whom he went to New York City, and one of them embarked for Amsterdam. The result of this trip has not been made known by themselves or relatives.

A few years ago a request for information of this estate was sent to many descendants and copies of wills, statements and other documents reliable in character were solicited. The proceeding contributions were generously forwarded by many persons in response. Comments were freely made by many, some of which are the following:

Mrs. Abigail Strawn, Salem, O.

* * * I remember helping my mother to get dinner for a crowd of men who were investigating the Holland estate—there were several by the name of Rockhills also Whites and Fowlers who lived about Alliance. I cannot tell anything about them now, I was only fifteen years old. I learned from them that there was one link lost by the burning of a bible if that could have been had that great estate could have been recovered and Dr. Solomon Shreve would have crossed the ocean and done the business for the heirs. * * *

Abigail Strawn, Salem, O.

* * * It was a school house two miles west of Salem where the relatives interested in the Holland estate met—think it was the year 1830 or 1834.

Maud Shreve, Belle Plains, Ill.

* * * My father wrote and received several letters from Holland stating in some that the claim was there for the Shreve family when they proved their heirship. * * * My father said that there was an estate for the Shreve family in Amsterdam, Holland, and he wrote and received many letters concerning it. About fifty years ago a man by the name of Thomas Shreve went to Holland, but being unable to prove his heirship could do nothing, he said there was an estate for the Shreve family. This Thomas got a copy of the old will and brought it to this country, but he misplaced it and it was never found.

Z. B. Shreve, Hastings, Neb.

* * * I would be glad if you would write me and let me know what you think of the prospects in regard to that Holland matter. * * *

J. W. M. P. Wallace, Philadelphia, Pa.

* * * I recollect well Mercer Shreve telling me some twenty-three years ago, before my marriage, that he had looked into it and there was nothing in it. Mercer was a shrewd and able lawyer and as he had an eagle eye for litigation, especially if there was compensation at the end of the suit, you may rest assured that the Holland money could not be gathered in * * *

Arthur B. Shreve, Lucketts, Va.

“William or Thomas Shreve of Kentucky visited my father some years previous to the war endeavoring to find out something about the Amsterdam property which belonged to a Miss Harrison the wife of one of the three brothers who came over in the “May Flower” the deed of which was lost by the burning of a wooden bank in which it was deposited in N. Y. known at that time as New Amsterdam. I have also heard that at least $75,000,000 went to the crown of Holland for want of proper claimants though it was known to the authorities of Amsterdam that a Mrs. Shreve owned the property, but the burned deed was the missing link in the chain of evidence. It was remarkable that when I first met the Carters in St. Louis in order to ascertain whether there was any real relationship between us Mr. Frank Carter requested me to narrate some story connected with the early history of the Shreve family and I repeated to him substantially as I have given it to you and he replied that it was identical with their version."

Harold Shreve, Boston, Mass.

* * * I am under the impression my father had a certain amount of faith in the tale, but the chance of proving heirship and of locating the exact property and ascertaining its value were so remote that few members of the family cared to undertake the expense and trouble of investigating. * * *

Robert L. White, Tonganoxie, Kan.

* * * Father said that Doctor Shreve was appointed to go to Amsterdam Holland to look after a large legacy there that belonged to Shreves Whites and their descendants, but before the time appointed for him to go he took sick and died so it fell through. We have got letters from Holland since we came to Kansas concerning the estate. Deric Erinson I believe was the man that wrote to us. * * *

Mary Briggs, Coal Creek, Iowa.

* * * Father is an old man and can remember many incidents of long ago, and he says it was tried in his youthful days and for reasons abandoned.

I am so glad for thy letter and circular for I had very little faith in getting the Derick Arison estate but to please some I sent some records in my possession to one in Ohio a stranger to me. I wrote to her the other day asking how such excitement started and sending her a circular too. D. G— was one of the excited. * * * I think the Holland affair has delayed their sending their genealogical data. * * *

I received a few lines from ————— telling the reason of such excitement. A clipping in a paper of Sylvester Shumard in regard to a sum of money in Holland coming to their family. It must have been done in fun. $60,000,000 to their family relatives of Shreves.

Grace Shumard, Elkhart, Ind.

* * * I want to ask you what you think the prospects are of our ever claiming the estate which is said to be coming to the heirs of Sarah Areson Shreve. Do you think there is anything in it. I have been in correspondence with Mrs. ————— and Mrs. ————— and from their talk especially the latter we have been much encouraged. I wrote to the Consul at Amsterdam and will mail you the reply which please return. I sent it to Mrs. ————— but it did not seem to discourage her as she said that if the property was properly described in Deric Aresons will that would enable us to show the property was there

MRS. LA BELLE BOYCE DUNLAP.

How is the property described in his will? You have a copy I presume. * * *

William P. Briggs, Belaire, Kan.

* * * How is that $60,000,000 progressing and is there any prospect of getting it? and how soon? Please let me hear from you in regard to it. * * *

Job Briggs, Plattsmouth, Ia.

* * * What is the prospect of this great fortune that we hear of? Is there any foundation for the talk we hear about it. I had several letters from _____ he seemed very sanguine of getting it for a time but of late I hear nothing from him or his attorney and suppose that they have given it up. * * * Please let me hear from you.

Letter written from the Pacific Slope to a party in N. J.

One of aunts ancestors (she believes her great grandfather) married a Shreve. She is certain of the marriage, but not of the parties or their names. Every branch of the family have had Calebs and Sarahs and she cannot therefore locate any of them farther back than her remembrance. She remembers the name Areson as in a dream, but can give no information concerning it. She well remembers the time when men were sent to Amsterdam to see after the fortune. The men met and arranged matters at her grandfathers house, where she lived after the death of her parents. She remembers that the main member of that committee proved to be a scoundrel never returning to give any account of the success or non success of the mission intrusted to him. It was always understood that her branch of the family were interested in the fortune and known that they were related to the Shreve family. * * *

Mrs. Lucy Pease, Bellbrook, O.

* * * My grandfather used often to tell me of the Shreves —of their being such fine formed noble looking men. She said that when dressed in their uniforms (Regimentals she called it) there were no finer looking men to be found. It was Israel Shreve who on leaving home to go to war wrote over the door "Col. Israel Shreve" and when the British came to Princeton they stationed a guard of honor around the home and protected it. * * * As to the Holland estates, while I feel sure that we are heirs to an estate there I am not sure of ever getting it but in order to get desired informaion I have sometimes to revert to it. * * * Are you keeping yourself posted on the Aneke-Jans question? I am told that Daric Arrisons heirs are interested in the estate. I just got a pamphlet from the President of the Ohio committee of investigation. * * *

Mrs. Mary Sothern Shreve, Dun Loring, Va.

* * * Have heard a great deal about the Shreve fortune in Amsterdam, Holland, and one time they sent a lawyer from Alexandria to see about it but he was lost—at least never was heard from. At one time there came two old gentlemen from New Jersey to talk of it but it seemed to die out and no one took interest to ferret it out. I heard Major Frank Shreve of Loudon Co., Va., say that his father knew a great deal about it but he neglected to work it up. The fortune comes from a Count in Amsterdam. The counts daughter eloped with him and they were married on board of an English ship and sailed to Long Island and built a house and after awhile the house was burned and the certificate was lost. She had four sons. Her father was angry with her and willed all to his son, her brother, and her brother willed it all to his sister. I cannot say how many years ago but according to the laws of England that certificate ought to be recorded in London, England, and a penetrating lawyer might work it out. * * *

Mrs. Ann Donaldson.

* * * She says "two of our fathers brothers were named Benjamin and William Shreve and they were in the Revolutionary—that her grandfather was named Joseph Beck, and her great grandfather Arroweth Beck, and his wife's name Hannah Gibbs. She says that in regard to the interests in Holland, the name Daric (or perhaps Diedric) Aricson or Erickson was the proper name; that one Mary Field came to visit at her fathers house with the will and letters of administration, Coat of Arms, &c; that the will was read in the hearing of many people." She describes the Coat of Arms thus: "The Coat of Arms was about the size of a small window glass and had a black frame with a rose of grandem on it with horns of plenty and with the head of a dog." I have written to find out if there are any of this Mary Fields relatives yet living and what year she visited these people. * * *

C. E. Stansell.

* * * Our family with a very few other members spent quite a good deal of money and time some years ago trying to trace the family name back to its source, also trying to get the estate in Holland into the present heirs hands but were unable to do so on account of not being able to prove whether Caleb Shreves wife was Sarah Arison or Harrison. I would be pleased to know how you discovered that her name was Arison. * * *

C. U. Shreve, Louisville, Ky.

* * * Two estates involving many millions one on my maternal side, "The Laurence Townley" in England and the other the Shreve estate in Amsterdam, still remain unclaimed by this omission of ancestry. * * *

Jessie E. Martin, St. Louis, Mo.

* * * Father remembers well when in 1835 his father contributed to a purse and sent an agent to Holland; said agent returned stating that the matter had been in the court there so long that it was outlawed and the matter dropped. * * *

* * * Mary D. Grant knows nothing about the investigation, only remembers hearing her father say that there was a fortune there that would come in her time but not in his. * * *

Mrs. Octavius B. Shreve, Salem, Mass.

* * * Capt. Benjamin Shreve, brother of Isaac, did investigate the "Amsterdam Claim" but with no satisfactory result. As I remember the story there were papers missing supposed to have been lost in a fire which burned a barn where they were many years ago. If said estate could be recovered (even supposing Sarah Areson to be the only child of Derick Areson to whom the property belonged) there would be so many heirs that after expenses were paid each ones portion would be too small to find. * * * If it is an Amsterdam estate you want it went to the crown years ago and is not worth your postage stamps. * * *

Evan Shreve, Damascus, O.

* * * Solomon Shreve stated about the Holland estate—that he and others were looking it up—if reached it would take the principal part of the wealth of the city of Amsterdam but there was a link wanting in making the connection of inheritance owing to two brothers getting at outs and one took his goods and papers to the barn, the barn was burned and a family bible consumed containing the genealogy necessary to make connected chain of heirship. Dr. Solomon Shreve made preparation to go to Holland to look the matter up but whether he went in vain or found it not worth while and declined is unknown. * * *

Louisa Kemple, Malvern, Iowa.

* * * My mother had a large fortune coming to her from England by her father and for some reason or other she never got it. I dont suppose it could be gotten now, could it? It was way up in the millions. Please tell me what you think about it if you have time to write. * * *

Mrs. Emily McClure, Williamsville, Ill.

* * * Uncle Charles had the will of Sarah Arrison relating to the Holland estate, also some papers showing that his father Caleb Shreve and two uncles took a cargo of goods to France in 1812 which the French captured. If you think it worth while I could look up these items—it would take a little time as they are scattered.

John Moody, Hayden, Ind.

* * * I often hear them speak about their dowery coming to them. * * * My wifes grandfather Jonathan Shreve is a great grandchild of Caleb Shreve.

Joseph Beck, Eldorado, O.

* * * Ever since I can remember I have heard father say he had an interest in a fortune in Holland and I think his mother was a Shreve. * * *

Henry Shreve, Easton, Md.

* * * I know from hearsay that my father Dr. Solomon Shreve was interested in looking up the Holland estate and was selected at a meeting of heirs held—I know not where or when—to go to Amsterdam, but never did so. I have learned that whatever there might have been has probably reverted to the government. * * *

Joel White, Limaville, O.

Paul and Nathan White were part at least of the committee appointed to attend to the legacy for Deric Errison of seven millions from the King of Holland at Amsterdam. But it appears that the papers were burnt with a building and we the descendants got none of it. * * *

Mrs. J. H. B. Edgar, New York City.

* * * In regard to the Holland estate my grandmother somewhere around 1835 employed Mr. Peter P. Lowe (deceased), of Dayton, Ohio, the most eminent lawyer at that time, to write to Amsterdam on the subject. It seems the estate was once advertised in a Philadelphia paper and with it names of the supposed heirs but when grandmother took the matter up they were unable to get possession of the paper and she had to rely on her memory for names &c. Mr. Lowe wrote and while he did not get a very encouraging answer yet he had a very strong belief that if grandmother would pay his expenses over he could gain possession of the estate. In those days going to Europe was looked upon as a great undertaking attended with great expense, grandmother felt too great an expense based upon so much uncertainty, and finally gave it up, although to her dying day believed the estate rightfully hers or ours, and many times we have thought, talked and wondered about it. * * *

Charles H. Ayres, Jacksonville, Ill.

* * * My father got a letter from Holland when I was a small boy but I cant tell anything about that or where it is. A Mr. J. Green had considerable correspondence with the Holland people. * * * As soon as his wife died they having no children—he quit as he was out of the family. I have always thought that the money could be got if some one would go to work in the matter and get it in shape for it is surely there as I have heard about it ever since I can remember. * * *

Richard A. Shreve, Bladensburg, Md.

* * * About the Holland business I have been told by my father and my uncle Samuel Shreve Jr the following:

Benjamin and Jonathan Shreve came from England, that they were transported on account of their religion. They were single men and settled in New Jersey, Burlington County. After a while they separated and Benjamin remaining in Burlington County, they vowed to each other at that separation that whatever they accumulated of this worlds goods should go to the survivor. Jonathan Shreve traveled until he came to Amsterdam, Holland. There he worked and saved his money and turned his attention to speculating in land. He bought up a great deal of ground and built on the same at ground rents. The rents got so high the people could not stand it. He would sell and build again and it increased so till he owned all of Front street Amsterdam. About the year 1829 commissioners of the Shreves after he died furnished a chartered vessel started for Amsterdam to prove their claim to Jonathan Shreves estate. The vessel was lost and about 1833 the commissioners of the Shreves amounting to about thirty-five men consolidated and chartered another vessel commissioned from the United States government. They started for Amsterdam. A revenue cutter from Amsterdam saw a Mexican flag flying from a Mexican ship. They sailed ahead and spread the news through Amsterdam which caused the (Coat of Arms) called the City Hall to be burnt which they supposed would destroy the claim. Benjamin Shreve had to my knowledge two children named respectively Reuben and Phoebe Ann. Benjamin Shreve of Burlington County was the grandfather of James H. Shreve and Samuel Shreve Jr. He being a Quaker, the British destroyed his property. He went to Blackwoodtown, West Jersey, and had a talk with Genl. Geo. Washington. Washington told him that he being a Quaker he could do nothing for him. Benjamin Shreve said to Washington, "give me men enough and I will take that British fleet to-night." Washington gave him sixty men and made him captain of them. That night he took the fleet. He went with Washington through the entire campaign. He was with him side by side when Lord Cornwallis gave up his sword at Yorktown. You can find this on file in the War Department.

Statement of family history dictated by Charlotte West Shreve Sutton for her grand daughter, Gertrude Randolph, in 1886.

"A Captain Shreve married a Duke's daughter from Holland and afterwards came to America, and we are their descendants. My grandfather's name was Joseph, and my father was David—a miller. He had three brothers, Thomas, a farmer; William, a weaver, and Benjamin, a miller. My mother was Esther Martin of Monmouth, N. J."

Statement of Family History, dictated to A. K. Lewis in 1895, by Hannah Frith Williamson, wife of Merrick Martin Shreve.

"My mother-in-law, Esther Martin Shreve, wife of David Shreve of Monmouth, N. J., about 1860, gave me the following family history:

"A Holland nobleman of great wealth owned large shipping interests. One of his captains a Shreve by name, fell in love with the nobleman's daughter, and this not meeting the approval of the nobleman father, the young folks eloped, taking the ship with them, first went to England, and afterward to America. The old nobleman before death made his will, leaving his vast estates to his daughter and her heirs, this estate, estimated at about $75,000,000, was willed to the daughter, and her sons, Caleb and Joseph, (perhaps a third). My mother-in-law (said Esther Martin Shreve), who was born about 1784, remembered well the old Quaker gentleman, Caleb Shreve, the uncle of her husband, David Shreve. He often visited them about 1800 to 1810. My husband's father, David Shreve, of Monmouth, N. J., often said to his family: "There is lots of money for the Shreves if there are brains enough and perseverance enough to get it." Said David Shreve, husband of Esther Martin, is buried in Monmouth, N. J.

Wednesday the 9th July—Set out at Sunrise, Daniel Harvey and wife being unwell halted and breakfasted at the Sign of the Spread Eagle, here for the first time in our Journey boiled the Tea Kettle, Set out again hindered by having two horse shoes put on, hard showers of Rain to day, halted at Downington, 22 Miles to-day, Stayed all Night.

Thursday the 10th July—Set out again hindered some time getting forage at a Mill, went on over exceedingly muddy bad roads, halted and dined at Caleb Ways, here perceived the Black mare badly foundered, drenched her with salt and water and sent her to the light waggon, went on and halted at the Sign of the Marriner's Compass, kept by a Mr. Taylor, in Pequa Valley, 13½ Miles to-day only, occasioned by bad Roads and crossing the South Mountain and one of my waggons drove by James Starkey oversetting bottom upwards, to day the women were much fatigued by walking, Sarah Hervey walked eight and a half miles over the Hill at one heat.

Friday the 11th July—Set out and passed over Roads full of bad Mudholes, halted and breakfasted at the Sign of the Hat kept by Andrew Coldwell, hindered this morning by getting clasps put round the felloe of a wheel, went on over muddy roads to George Prisly at the head of the Great Spring, Sign of the Bird in Hand and dined. Set out again and crossed the Cane-stoga Creek within two miles of Lancaster—17 miles to day, all cheery and in high spirits, stayed all night, it being the height of harvest, took particular notice of the wheat which is bad in general so far, being killed by the severity of the weather, and much mildewed.

Saturday the 12th July—Set out Early and halted some time in Lancaster, had one new horse shoe put on. Drove out of town and breakfasted late—went on, halted at Scotts Mill and dined in the woods, went on again and were obliged to halt at a Private House, paraded our beds in a barn, this did not set well. Daniel went on to Elizabethtown in the Night, 16 miles to day.

Sunday 13th July—Set out and halted at Alexander Boggs; at the Sign of the Bear in Elizabethtown, 4 miles to day; Here Jchn Gaston and Wife overtook us on their way home to the Monongahala River.

Monday the 14th July—Set out at Sunrise, halted and breakfasted at Middletown; we are now in sight of the Susquahanna River; went on to the Chambers Ferry crossed over to Captain Simpsons,—Set out again and forded a rapid Creek called Yellow Breeches,—very mirey roads—halted at Pattersons Tavern, 8 miles to day, stayed all night—here is good level land; the wheat along the road from Lancaster to the Susquahanna, appears to have plenty of straw but is much mildewed and rusty.

Tuesday the 15th July—Set out again passed over exceedingly good level land and halted at Carlisle and dined—here lost my Dog—Set out again and passed over level roads full of bad mud holes, halted at Robert Simples Tavern, 22 miles to day—Rainy night.

Wednesday 16th July—Set out and halted at Mr. Cracken's Tavern at the head of the Great Spring and breakfasted, Road something better than yesterday, went on to Shippensburg, there halted and dined at Capt Scotts Tavern,—(when we dined at Taverns we always made use of our own provisions.) Set out again in a hard rain, by advice took the right hand road that leads over the three hills, lately opened and made by a Mr. Skinner from Jersey, halted at Joseph Fenleys Tavern at the Sign of the Ball, 19 miles to-day, a rainy night, Roads level but muddy in places to day.

Thursday 17th July—Set out and halted at Coopers Tavern at the foot of the first hill called the Blue mountain and breakfasted, all in good health and high spirits, Crops from the Susquahanna to this place exceedingly good and plenty, free from mildew and rust, then ends the good land until over all the hills except in spots, and here began sorrow. Set out and ascended the first Mountain so steep that we were obliged to double the teams to get up and very stony going down the other side, in this valley crossed a Creek called Cannogoguino, halted at said Mr Skinners who made the road, A hard rain coming on and our horses much worried we stopped the afternoon, 8 miles to day, stayed all night, Here Joseph Becks daughter Ann was taken sick.

Friday 18th July—Set out again and rose the second hill called the North Mountain, this as steep and stony as the first, at the west fort forded a Creek in Path Valley, went on and halted at a Tavern, the Landlord drunk, a man who calls himself Noble with the Landlady on the Bed nursing the Landlord who was fast asleep;—this place affords neither forage nor water and whiskey nearly out. Coming down the last Hill Daniel Hervey left his stallion to follow the waggon, the horse took an old path and caused several hours search before he was found stripped of all his gears but the collar, consisting of a new blind bridle, a pair of leather lines, harness, back and belly bands, and one iron trace the other having been taken to lock the waggon—about 2 o'clock in the afternoon set out and ascended the third hill called the Tuscarora Mountain which is much steeper than the other. At or near the top there are several Cabins, in one lives or stays an old woman who appears to be very sick and in distress. At the West fort of this third Hill is a good farm—Went on a mile farther to Mr Gimmersons who keeps a Tavern and Store of Goods which he sells as cheap for hard cash as such Goods are sold in Jersey for paper money. Here had the misfortune to break one of my Waggon wheels, sent it on five miles this evening to be repaired, 8 miles only to-day: This is the place called the Burnt Cabins, where the old road that passes through Chambers Town comes into the old Road said to be twenty miles farther than the new one but much better and shuns two of the three Hills just mentioned. Our women complain heavily on account of being obliged to walk on foot over the Mountain.

Saturday 19th July—About eleven o'clock set out all but the disabled Waggon and passed over barren sideling roads, halted at Capt Birds at fort Littleton, 5 miles to day, one or two pretty good farms in this valley, here stayed for the Waggon wheel which was not finished until evening.

Sunday 20th July—Sent the repaired wheel to the Waggon, About eleven o'clock had a further hindrance by having three horse shoes put on, Set out and passed over barren roads good but much gullied, halted in the woods at a Run of Good Water at the foot of Sideling Hill, 13 miles to day, stayed all night, heavy complaints among the Women.

Monday 21st July—Set out and ascended Sideling Hill up a good new Road made by said Skinner, halted on the top and breakfasted at Henry Livingstons Tavern, went on over exceedingly stony Roads to Rays Hill, here cut saplings and chained to our Waggons, this hill steep, gullied, and very stony, Skinners men at work making a new Road down, we continued on to the crossings of the Juneatto, forded the River, halted on the Hill at a Colonel Martins Tavern, Land Lord nor Lady at home, no feed but 2 Rye sheaves cut up for which I paid 9d, the girls of the House very uncouth and surly; went on and halted at Cabin Tavern kept by a Jersey Dutchman; 12 miles to-day. Road from Martins barren and bad sideling hill; one fellow of one of my Waggon gave way, Mr. Shreve put in a new one.

Tuesday 22nd July—Set out after breakfast, went on and passed through Bedford, halted for a horse shoe, went on four miles further and halted at John Bonnets Tavern at the forks of the Old Pennsylvania and Glade Roads, 15 miles today, Here is an excellent farm with more than one hundred acres of the best Meadow land. Joseph Becks child very ill, stayed here all night.

Wednesday 23rd July—Set out late in the morning, went over a poor country and in the evening halted at a poor Dutch Hut where the Landlady was very angry with D. H. for pulling a radish. No feed at this Tavern nor anything else but whiskey, 13 miles to day. The gnats very bad here.

Thursday 24th July—Set out and passed on five miles to the fort of the Allagana Mountain, having now passed twelve miles along Dry Ridge and seen but two or three houses which are very poor,—went on and ascended the mountain which is nothing of a Hill to what we have passed, halted and dined a little off the road on the Hill, very rainy, we then proceeded on from the Allagana one mile into the Glades and halted at Christian Spikers where we stayed the remainder of the Day on account of the illness of the child, 13 miles to day;—About eleven o'clock this evening, Ann Beck daughter of Joseph Beck departed this life to the great grief of her parents, more so on account of being far distant from their former home.

Friday 25th July—Sent to Berlin for a Coffin which arrived towards Evening when the child was decently interred in Mr. Spikers family Burying ground. Stayed here all night again. Still raining by spells.

Saturday 26th July—Hired George Pancakee and two horses to put before my heaviest Waggon for 8-4 per day and find him and horses. Set out, halted at a Blacksmiths, had two clasps put on my Waggon wheel and one horse shoe put on— Set out and halted at Mr. Blacks, here is a family waiting for Judsims, went on taking a right hand road at an empty Cabin on account of the other Road being cut so much by heavily loaded Waggon, halted and dined at one Jacob Louts, went on and halted at a Dunken called Perkeys, 15 miles to day. The land in the Glades on the Roads we have passed poor.

Sunday 27th July—Set out and after going a few hundred yards missed the most material part of Daniel Herveys property, it having gone before and taken a wrong road, a hue and cry was raised when to his great joy it was found unhurt. We passed on and began to rise Laurel Hill, halted and breakfasted at a run of Water. Set out again and ascended to the top of the Mountain over miry and stony Roads, then soon began to descend, first down a short steep hill, then a long gradual descent through chestnut Brush, the timber appearing to have been killed by fire sometime before, huckle berries here as well as in many places before very plainly on the low green bushes,—this Road down is over logs and stones enough to dash all to pieces : At length we arrived at a house in Legeneer Valley it being Sunday and rain coming on we stayed the afternoon and all night. Our women exceedingly fatigued by walking over the Mountain.

Monday 28th—Set out and after passing three miles halted and breakfasted. Set out again and found the steepest hill we had met with, in going up Chestnut Hill were obliged to put six horses to some of the heaviest waggons. Raining hard—Descend the Ridge and came into the other road which is so miry as to sink the Waggons to the hubs in many places, stopped at a Blacksmiths and had one shoe put on one of my horses— Set out again and met Joseph Wood on his way to Jersey from Little Kenhaway, he informed me that a house was ready for me in the forks of Youghaina, went on and was overtaken by John Fox with the intelligence that one of Daniel Herveys Waggons had broken down. I halted at John Bennetts junior it being the first house over all the mountains. In the evening all the waggons arrived less Daniel Herveys two. 12 miles today— D. Harvey last evening in coming from his Waggon to Mr. Bennetts, got out of the Road ; it being very dark he could not find it again and was forced to take up his lodging in the Woods until day. Sarah Harvey and Sarah Beck walked six miles over very bad Roads this afternoon and arrived much wearied.

Tuesday 29th July—Sent for D. Harveys broken waggon and got a new axle-tree put in. We are now clear of the Mountains over which we have with much difficulty got so far safely except the misfortune of losing the child. The Allagania mountain, the Back Bone of America or the United States, is easy to ascend, being a long gradual ascent up Dry Ridge. Upon it, especially on the East side are very large white pines in great plenty ; the Glade is a high country or piece of land 18 miles wide :—Between this and the Laurel mountain the road for many miles is through chestnut Timber, such I never before saw for size and height— In many places as many rails could be cut on an acre as could be got out of the best Cedar Swamp in Jersey. The land is of little value but for timber.

Wednesday 30 July—Set out halted and breakfasted at Mr. Robesons, went on through a settlement on good level land for this country, stopped and dined within four miles of Budds Ferry, here found a Mr. Brunt with a large family from Huntendon in Jersey bound for Kentucky, went two miles further and found Moses Juttle waiting for Judge Symmes, went on again and forded Youghagaina River, the water being so high as to come into some of the waggons that happened to drive a little amiss— Halted and stayed all night at Budd's Ferry—14 miles to day— We are now in the forks— Here I received Colonel Bayard's letter of instructions where to find the house prepared for me.

Thursday, 31st July.—Set out, and halted at Capt. Petersons, where Cawet formerly lived; went on, and took the Elizabethtown Road for several miles, when all the waggons left me and turned off to the right hand near the meeting house to Asher Williams. I went on with my family, and turned to the left of Mr. Walter Walls. A hard rain coming on, and the road difficult to find, I stayed the afternoon and all night. Mr. Wall is a Jerseyman, and very kind.

Friday, 1st August.—Set out. Mr. Wall sent his son James as a guide with me; after going a mile or two, met Mr. Joseph Lemmon, the owner of the house I was going to, with Mr. Taylor. Walter Carr also accompanied us, with several others, to our new habitation, where we arived about one o'clock in the afternoon— All well, after a very fatiguing journey of 25 days since leaving Jersey. The house provided for me is a new one, 30 feet by 26, two stories high, built of hewed white oak Logs, with a very good stone chimney. The house is not finished, no family having lived in it until we came. We set to, stopped it with lime and clay, laid the upper floor with Chirety boards, and it is now pretty comfortable for Summer.— There is a Spring of good water within about five rods of the door.

I have the privilege of pasture and fourteen acres of good land to sow this fall with wheat, and plenty of apples for house use, &c. &c.

I have ridden over some of the neighborhood, and must say that the land in general is exceedingly good, producing excellent crops of grain— Many parts are too rich for wheat, though the crops in general are good. Indian corn in some places is excellent, in other fields it has been hurt by the wet season— All that truth can say against the place is that the land in general is hilly, though even the sides of the hills are very rich, producing Walnut, Sugar Trees, Ash, with a variety of other woods, &c.— As to the inhabitants, they are mostly from Jersey, very kind to new comers, as well as to one another; they live in a plain way, not spending much in Dress and foppery, but are well provided with the real necessities of life.

Dear Brother:

Having an opportunity to Philada., I embrace it, and mention my situation or intended one. Since I have been here have wished to get Washington's Bottoms, and have at last obtained the whole tract on rent for five years. I wrote to the General by his Agent in this County, Colonel Canon, who a few weeks ago returned from New York; the General was pleased to order Colonel Canon to let me have the whole of the Bottoms so called at my own offer.—The old farm contains about 80 acres of improved upland and about 40 of the best kind of meadow, a bearing orchard of 120 apple & 100 peach trees; the buildings as good as most in this country—pretty well situated, and five other improved farms that at this time rent for £43—10— I am accountable for the whole rent, which altogether is £60—so that I shall have the old place for £16—10, to be paid either in money or wheat at 3s. per Bushel.

I considered that land at the Miami Settlement was rising fast, and that I had better pay this low rent for a well improved farm than barter away my land at a low rate for land here—Land does not rise much in this place, owing to the great emigration down the River. It seems as if people were crazy to get afloat on the Ohio. Many leave very good livings here, set out for they know not where, but too often find their mistake.

I believe this as good as any of the settlements down the River for the present. The Mississippi trade is open at this time, and all the Wheat, Whiskey, Bacon, &c., buying up by those concerned in it; the highest price for Wheat is 4s in trade, or 3s. 9. cash, whiskey, 3s. cash, and Bacon, 9d. p. lb. cash, &c—

On the farm where I am going is as good a stream for a Grist Mill as any in the whole forks, and a Mill that can be set going for, I believe, £50, and a number of years given for the repairs. I am in hopes of being able to set it going as it will produce more grain than all the six farms on the tract.

I am to have possession the first of April next—and flatter myself I have as good a chance as any person in my circumstances could expect—I shall have nothing to attend to but my own private concerns—and think this way of life far preferable to any other.—Richard Shreve is to have one of the small farms; they contain of improved land as follows; one 40 acres upland and 5 good meadow; one, 35 acres upland and 7 good meadow; one, about 35 acres upland and 6 good meadow; the other two about 25 acres upland and 5 or 6 of good meadow each; the whole in fences, they being the year before last rented for repairs only, &c. Peggy Shreve has a daughter; she and her husband have been very sickly this last fall but have recovered. I am grandfather to another son;—John and his wife pretty well, as is our family at present, but expect the measles, as it is in the school where our boys go. I hope you are all well also—I am, with great respect and love,

Your Brother,

PERSONAL NARRATIVE OF THE SERVICES OF LIEUT. JOHN SHREVE OF THE NEW JERSEY LINE OF THE CONTINENTAL ARMY.

Soon after the battle on Bunker's (or Breed's) Hill, near Boston, in the province of Massachusetts, Congress, composed of delegates chosen in the 13 United Colonies, ordered four regiments to be raised in New Jersey. William Maxwell was appointed Colonel of the Second regiment, and my father, Israel Shreve, was appointed Lieut. Colonel of the same regiment; Maxwell took charge of four companies, rendezvous in Trenton, and the other four companies were under the command of my father at Burlington. Their commissions (I believe) were dated in November of that year; the companies were all completed in December, but clothing, arms and other equipments could not be procured for all the men until the month of February. Maxwell's men were supplied first, and marched for Canada with the other three regiments, the first commanded by Colonel Ogden, the third by Colonel Dayton and the fourth by Colonel Marten. They passed over Lakes George and Champlain and down the River Saint Lawrence on the ice to the plains of Abraham at Quebec. My father followed the last of February with his four companies, and took me with him. We passed through Trenton, past Sussex Court House in New Jersey and Kingston (alias Esopus) to Albany in New York, where we stayed several weeks waiting for the ice to disappear in the lakes; here we were joined by Colonel Buel's regiment from Connecticut and several companies from Pennsylvania. We proceeded up the Hudson river to old Fort Edward, then over to Fort George, at the head of Lake George, where we remained some time for the ice to pass out of Lake Champlain and the river Saint Lawrence, collecting batteaux and loading them with cannon balls, bombshells and other military stores. When the ice was gone out of Lake Champlain we, with 25 or 30 men in each boat, cut through the ice a considerable distance in Lake George, passed Ticonderoga, Crownpoint and through Lake Champlain; then passed Fort St. Johns down the rapids to Fort Chamblee, from thence down the beautiful River Sorel to the River St. Lawrence, thence down the latter river between several islands, then through Lake St. Peter, said to be thirty miles wide each way, the St. Lawrence river passing through it. A heavy gale of wind came on us as we were about the middle of the lake; we all reached the shore in safety in the dark night, but several of the batteaux filled with water. Next morning we got into the river below, and passed down in a heavy shower of snow by the town of Three Rivers, Point Shambo, and landed at Wolfe's Cove in sight of Quebec City; they fired cannon shot at us, which fell short of us, but we heard the shot or balls whistle, which were the first English bullets that I ever heard screaming in the air, but not the last. We marched up General Wolfe's road to the plains of Abraham, and joined our other troops, I believe on the 2nd or 3rd day of May, 1776. A fire ship had been prepared, to set the enemy's shipping in the harbor on fire, and was in waiting for our arrival to storm the city. After preparing ladders, an attempt was made to set the enemy's shipping on fire, and our army marched with the ladders to scale the walls; but the ship had been fired too soon, and blew up before she reached the enemy, and our troops threw down their ladders and returned to the encampment. The next day the British fleet arrived in sight of the city with a reinforcement of nine or ten thousand troops; our army then raised the siege and retired up the river on the sixth day of May, 1776.

I, with Samuel Shute, son of Captain Shute, who was a little younger than I was, with our guns and knapsacks filled with some clothing and provisions, were sent off by ourselves with orders to remain at Point Shambo till the army arrived at that place. An English armed schooner came up the river ahead of our army with intent to capture our boats at Point Shambo, which were in a cove above the point. She frequently fired at Shute and me, but did no other damage than to kill a cow belonging to a Frenchman. She passed on ahead of our army, and at low water got half way up the rapids. At this point, the wind dying away, she drifted down and came to anchor below the falls. Our army came on before a vessel could ascend the falls, got possession of the boats and ascended the river, passed over Lake St. Peter, and arrived at the mouth of the River Sorel, where we met General Thompson from Pennsylvania with fresh troops; they being full of fight, would go and meet the enemy; they took the boats, and met the enemy near the Three Rivers Landing, and left the boats without a guard. The enemy moved many vessels up the river, landed their troops and took possession of the boats, defeated General Thompson, killed many, and took him and half of his men prisoners. The survivors had to pass through a swamp and round the north side of Lake St. Peter, and cross over the St. Lawrence to the mouth of the Sorel.

When we arrived at the encampment near Quebec General Thomas of New England commanded, but died in a few days with the small pox (and many of the New England soldiers died also; the British knowing the New Englanders were opposed to being inoculated sent out spies to spread the disease in the American camp which killed more Yankees than they did). After the defeat at the Three Rivers Sullivan had the command.

My father was left at Sorel to collect provisions. When the army went down the river with General Thompson I stayed at Sorel. Captain Ephraim Anderson who was blown up in the fire ship and considerably burnt, was sent express to Congress after the defeat at the Three Rivers, and my father sent me and Samuel Shute, a son of Captain Shute, with Captain Anderson to go home and attend a school to fit us better for the next campaign. Gen. Sullivan conducted our army up the River Sorel and over Lake Champlain, and made a stand at Mount Independence, opposite and in sight of Ticonderoga, where I was appointed Ensign, a few days after the Declaration of Independence, in the Second regiment. The four New Jersey regiments were raised for one year, and were discharged in December, 1776.

Capt. Anderson left me with Samuel Shute at Skenesborough contrary to promise, and took the most of my money. Samuel and I had to go on foot by ourselves to Albany; from that place we went in a vessel to New York. The British fleet had arrived near Sandy Hook a short time before, and we could see their masts, which appeared like a forest of dead trees. We went on foot from New York through Elizabethtown, Brunswick, Princeton, Trenton and Bristol. I crossed over the Delaware to Burlington, and stayed a few days with my grandmother; then went to Philadelphia, and went to school, and continued at school until the Jersey troops were discharged.

I then was appointed first Ensign in the Second Regiment, my recruiting warrant was dated the 26th of December, 1776. Wm. Maxwell was appointed Brigadier Genl. and my father commissioned Colonel of the Second Regiment. Three new regiments were ordered to be raised; Col. Ogden commanded the First, Col. Shreve the Second and Col. Dayton the Third. The new regiments were organized and mustered the first of February, 1777.

The enemy having been driven out of New Jersey, except at Brunswick and Amboy, Gen. Maxwell was appointed to command the New Jersey Brigade, consisting of three regiments, and ordered to watch them at Brunswick, and to be on the lines between Elizabethtown, Newark and New York. The enemy came out from Brunswick and had an engagement with our regiment at the Short Hills; we lost Captain Ephraim Anderson, killed.

I was appointed Lieutenant the 1st of July. I was taken sick with a fever, and went to Col. John Olds, twelve miles east of the town of Reading, in Pennsylvania, where my father's family were residing after the enemy had overrun New Jersey. I was very low with the fever for several weeks. When I was well enough to ride out, Col. Olds took me to several harvest fields, where a dozen or more women were reaping and securing the wheat, and not a man with them; their fathers, husbands, brothers were at camp with General Washington, watching the movements of the enemy.

The British had embarked in their fleet, and were maneuvering on the coast between Boston and the Chesapeake, with the intention of baffling Gen. Washington, and keeping the American Army scattered from Boston to Philadelphia. They then sailed up the Chesapeake Bay, and landed their army at the head of Elk. I had by this time recovered my health and joined my regiment which was on the march. We passed through the cities of Philadelphia and Wilmington and halted and prepared to meet the enemy within two miles of the town of Newport, where the British army lay; this was on the 10th of September, 1777. The enemy moved in the evening, not to attack us where we were, but to get round our right flank. Washington perceiving their intent, moved our army in the night, and we crossed the River Brandywine at daylight the next morning, the most of our army fording at Chads'-ford; but Gen. Stirling's division composed of Gen. Maxwell's brigade of New Jersey troops, and Gen. Conway's brigade of Pennsylvania troops, crossed at Brinton's ford, about two miles above, when we, in sight of the ford, laid on the leaves in the woods in a line on our arms to rest and wait for orders.

About ten o'clock a messenger came with the information that the main British army was on the road leading to Jeffrey's ford, about three miles above Brinton's, and that part of their army had been ordered to proceed to Chads'-ford, and to make a feint of crossing at that place to keep our army there, while they made a landing above. Upon this Washington ordered Gen. Stirling's division to go up and hold the enemy at Jeffrey's ford as long as possible, while he recrossed the river and attacked that part of their army that was sent there. Two brigades had recrossed, and the rest of our army was on the move to join them, when another messenger came and said the British troops that were seen on their march for Jeffrey's ford were only a small party sent up to draw up and divide our army, so that the main British army could easily force their way over at Chads'-ford. Washington thinking the two Brigades that had recrossed would be in great danger, ordered them back, and directed Stirling's Division to halt for further orders. In less than one hour the third messenger came and said the main British army had actually crossed above, and were on their march down the river on the East side. Gen. Stirling was ordered up to meet them; on going half a mile we met them at Birmingham Meeting House, two miles below where they crossed. It was supposed by many of our officers that the second messenger was in the British interest, and gave that information to divide the American army and give the enemy the advantage, which proved to be the case. The enemy outnumbering us four to one, turned our right flank and broke off platoon after platoon. When we had to give way, the enemy in our front was so much cut up they did not follow us. We got off all our wounded, the enemy put theirs in the Meeting House, and remained there the next day to bury the dead. Two men, Jeremiah McMahan and Ezekiel Jobs, were severely wounded near me; they both recovered. My father was also severely wounded in the thigh. I took him that night from the battle ground to near the town of Darby, where we stayed until morning, then through Philadelphia to one of my uncles in New Jersey. When we stopped to dress his wound, and unbuttoned his breeches at the knee, the bullet, which had been flattened on one side by striking the bone, rolled down on his boot. I believe one of my sisters has it now. On our retreat we met a Virginian division coming to assist us, but it was too late; I believe they were not engaged with the enemy that day. This account of the battle at Brandywine does not agree with some statements written of that engagement, but what I have written respecting it I believe to be true. There was harder fighting at Chads'-ford, where Gen. La Fayette was wounded. The American army being scattered, the enemy had the advantage.

After they obtained possession of Philadelphia, I went with my father to Reading in Pennsylvania. I joined the regiment at White Marsh a short time after the battle at Germantown. Our brigade was ordered to cross the river at Schuylkil, and break up a redoubt the Hessians were building near Gray's ferry, opposite Philadelphia. We were ordered to attack the fort on three sides at once, North, South and West; I had the middle forlorn hope on the West; they, hearing we were coming to attack them, left the fort and crossed over the Schuylkil River to Philadelphia. On our return we heard the explosion and saw fragments flying in the air of the British ship of war which blew up near Mud Island Fort. We then went into winter quarters, and built log huts at Valley Forge, where the whole army suffered for want of provision and clothes. I was sent with a scout of 26 men on a very cold night; the ground had been very muddy, and having frozen suddenly, was very rough, there was not a pair of shoes in the detachment; blankets were cut up and put around the feet of some of the men, but soon were worn out, so that their feet come to the ground, and they could be tracked by the blood. We came to a farmhouse about 10 or 11 o'clock about 15 minutes after an English scout had left the house; the men of the house were away, the women said if we stayed the English, they were afraid, would return and kill us. I told her we came to meet them if they were out, and were not afraid of them. I let the men lay in the fresh straw in the barnyard near an hour to rest themselves. I told the woman I wanted her to give the men some bread and milk that the English had left.

She with reluctance gave each of them some. She would not tell where the men belonging to the house were. I expect they were gone to the city with provisions to market. She appeared to me to be in the British interest, as no one called or known to be a Whig would stay and live so near the British army, as the Tories, who were worse than the English, would butcher them. We followed the road from this farmhouse to the river, then up the river road to our encampment at Valley Forge, where we arrived a little after daylight.

My father had now recovered sufficiently to join his regiment. After we received a partial supply of clothing, my father was ordered to take his regiment across the River Delaware and make a stand at Haddonfield, about seven miles from Philadelphia, to watch the enemy and prevent them getting any supplies from that side of the river. The English could not remain in that city much longer, unless they should get supplies from the country. Our patrols stopped a great quantity of provisions going to the British.

General Washington and Congress were trying to increase the army that he could prevent the enemy from returning to New York, and they were becoming uneasy in their situation, as our army was getting fairly supplied with clothing.

I have thought of an occurrence which happened on the 11th of September, 1777, the day of the battle at the Brandywine. In the morning of that day of the battle a division of the enemy came near Brinton's ford while we lay in the woods near the ford; they discovered us and fired several bomb-shells at us, which burst in the tree tops near where we were. As we had been marching four or five days and all one night, some of our officers obtained a pig, with the intention of barbecuing it, that we might have one good meal, as we expected hard work before night. When the messenger came at about ten o'clock (as I mentioned before), informing us that the main body of the enemy was on the road to Jeffrey's ford, we expected to be ordered soon to meet them; the roasting pig was examined, it was yet quite raw, we cut off slices and roasted them before the fire. But Captain Stout of our regiment could not eat any; he was asked if the enemy's bombshells that burst over our heads had taken away his appetite. He replied: "No, gentlemen, you know me better than that, but since I came to this ground I am satisfied that I shall not eat another mouthful or see the light of another day, but you will see that I will do my duty as well as any of you." After we met the enemy and the engagement commenced, a cannon ball went through Captain Stout and through a Sergeant that stood behind him and killed both of them. This I know to be truth—I heard that a Captain Ashton of the British army told this story after that battle was over. When they were marching down on the east side of the river Brandywine from Jeffrey's ford and in view of the Birmingham Meeting House, Captain Piercy of the British army said that the scenery before him was as familiar to him as the scenery at his native place in Northumberland (in England); it had come before him at the twilight and in his slumbers over and over again and added, "I know I am to die here." The battle soon commenced, and Captain Piercy received a mortal wound; he was taken to the Meeting House, and died before night in the presence of Capt. Ashton. The British buried the next day Colonel Gordon and Capt. Piercy of the English army and Capt. Stout of the American army in one grave.

Finding the enemy in Philadelphia were preparing for a move, Gen. Washington sent Gen. Maxwell with the rest of his Brigade to join us. While he prepared our army to move after or to meet them, Maxwell came to Mount Holly, where my father joined him. Maxwell was informed that the enemy was fitting out an expedition to plunder the inhabitants between the mouth of Rancocas River and the city of Burlington before they left Philadelphia, and sent me with twenty-six men to pass down Rancocas to the Delaware, then up to Dunk's ferry, and try to stop them if they came. I patrolled all the night, but they did not come, and I returned through Burlington to Mount Holly the next morning and joined the regiment. The enemy soon after crossed their whole army over the Delaware at Philadelphia, and began their march toward New York. When they approached near Mount Holly I was sent off with the baggage of the Brigade (I believe in six wagons) to pass through Bordentown and Trenton, then on the road towards Princeton, there wait at the Red Barracks until the enemy had passed Allentown towards Monmouth Court House, as it appeared they would take that road. Gen. Washington was on his march and crossing the River Delaware at Howell's and Creel's ferry above Trenton with his main army. When he with the army crossed the road leading from Trenton to Princeton towards Monmouth Court House, I followed him with the baggage that I had under my care, and stopped at Englishtown, a small village three miles north of the Court House. General Washington met the enemy near the Court House, where he had a general engagement with them. The British left the field of battle and retired to their former encampment; Washington kept his ground, he had planned the action well, and if General Lee had obeyed and executed his orders, Washington would in all probability have destroyed and taken the most, if not all of the enemy at that place. This action occurred on the 27th of June, 1778. After the battle the British left their dead and the most of their wounded on the battle ground, and took their flight in the night. Gen. Washington lay wrapped in his cloak under a tree with his troops on the battle ground all night, waiting for light to renew the engagement, but the enemy had fled. The day of the action was so exceedingly hot that many soldiers of both armies fell dead from the great heat and the want of water. Lee, was for disobedience of orders, deprived of his command and sent home. The day after the battle I joined the Brigade with the baggage. After I reached the battle ground I halted at a Presbyterian Meeting House and barn, both filled with wounded men of the American and English; the surgeons of both armies (the enemy had left several), after having been twenty-four hours dressing the wounded, had not got through. After the dead were buried we remained a few days to refresh the men. The enemy had got so near to Sandy Hook they were protected by their shipping, and as our men were much fatigued it was not proper to follow them with the whole army.

The enemy in a few days reached New York. Our army then went to the west and north of New York, the New Jersey Brigade, commanded by Gen. Wm. Maxwell, took our former station between Amboy, through Woodbridge, Elizabethtown and Newark, where we remained through the summer, the following winter and the forepart of the summer of 1779. We had many skirmishes with the enemy during this time; they at one time came in force and burnt the barracks at Elizabethtown, and in June their Gen. Knyphausen, with about eight thousand troops, passed about seven miles into the country, and burnt a little village called Connecticut-farms; after plundering the inhabitants and killing the wife of Parson Colwell and burning his house near Springfield, they returned to Elizabethtown, losing many men, killed and wounded, and sergeant, corporal and twelve men taken prisoners. I had the Camp Guard with twelve tories confined, and Gen. Maxwell sent me to Chatham, a village three miles west of Springfield, with the tories and the English prisoners, where I remained about a week, and then took them to Morristown, put them in jail, and joined the regiment on the lines near where General Knyphausen lay at Elizabethtown.

After the British Gen. Clinton arrived at New York from Charlestown in South Carolina with troops, Gen. Knyphausen, being reinforced, came out with nine or ten thousand men to destroy our stores at Morristown. Maxwell had but about fifteen hundred men, but the militia and Gen. Green with troops came to our assistance. My father's regiment, with Col. Angel's regiment of Rhode Island troops, contended with the enemy at the bridge east of the town of Springfield; after their pioneers had relaid the bridge and crossed over, we were forced to retire to the bridge west a quarter of a mile, of the town and in fair view of it, where we met Gen. Greene and several thousand militia. The enemy burnt all the town, but two or three houses belonging to Tories, and retreated rapidly to Elizabethtown and crossed over to Staten Island. We followed them, but no engagement was brought on. The inhabitants residing on the road said they had thirty wagons on their retreat, all filled with their dead and wounded. I know they left some of their dead in Springfield. I lost one man killed within two steps of me in my platoon, and received a slight wound in one of my legs; this engagement took place on the 27th of June, 1779. We continued in that neighborhood until the latter end of August, when we were ordered to march to the Susquehanna and join Gen. Sullivan, who had been ordered to chastise the Indians and tories who massacred the inhabitants on the Susquehanna the year before. We arrived at Wyoming (now Wilkesbarre) in September, then proceeded up the river to the mouth of the Chemung branch, where the town of Athens now is. At Wyoming we were joined by troops that came up the river that from Northumberland, and by troops came down the river from the state of New York. While we waited here for the latter troop our Brigade marched up the river Chemung twelve miles in the night of an Indian town by that name; we arrived at daylight. The Indians laid in ambush, and killed one of our men by my side (he touched me when he fell) and wounded several, one of them died. We knew of but one Indian killed; we burnt their town (ten or twelve houses), cut down several acres of good corn, and returned down the river, carrying corn, pumpkins, garden truck and the dead and wounded men in several boats that we had taken up the river, and arrived at our encampment in the afternoon. After remaining here a few days, my father was ordered with a detachment to build a stockade fort at a place about two or three miles up the two rivers, Susquehanna and Chemung, where they pass each other within about one hundred yards. I was left with this detachment. The fort was called Fort Sullivan; it was nearly four square, about 90 yards one way and a little under the other way, and was built by digging a trench $2\frac{1}{2}$ feet deep, and placing upright logs in the trench about twelve feet high, leaving two or three gateways. After leaving the heavy baggage and the woman that belonged to the camp, Gen. Sullivan marched up the Chemung River to the Indian settlement in the northwest part of New York State, called Genessee Country, inhabited by several tribes of Indians and tory white men, who were under the influence of the English, and hired by the British Government to burn the property and kill the American men, women and children, by offering a reward for all the scalps they could take; our army killed some of them and lost several men in several skirmishes, burnt their town and destroyed their corn and other property, but could not bring the Indians and tories to a general engagement; the British had troops with the Indians. After destroying all that could be found, our army returned to Fort Sullivan; we left the Fort and passed down the River to Wyoming the last of October. We kept the boats in order until their return. I had four boats under my care going up and steered one of them. Our Brigade then crossed the great swamps at the head of the Lehigh River, a branch of the Delaware, marched through Easton, and passed the winter near Morristown in New Jersey.

I got leave of absence, and went to school about two months and boarded at my uncle's, Thomas Curtis, in Burlington County. I joined the regiment before the opening of the campaign in the spring of 1780. We then took our former station on the lines, and had frequent skirmishes with the British on Staten Island at Strawberry Hill, Ash Swamp, Woodbridge, Elizabethtown, Newark, Passaic and in Bergen, and passed the summer of 1780 in that way. When the enemy sent a twenty gun ship up the River Hudson, conveying their Adjutant General John Andre (the spy), she came to anchor at the head of Tappan Bay, about seven miles below West Point; Andre landed, had an interview with Major General Benedict Arnold, who conducted him to West Point Forts, and gave him a plan of the forts and public works. When the ship took her station so near the highlands and so near the Fort, the New Jersey Brigade was ordered up the river to the little village of Orangetown near the river; here we met Gen. Greene with several Brigades of New England troops. I was ordered with a sergeant, corporal and twenty-four privates to take a stand on the west bank of the bay, nearly opposite where the ship lay, and watch her motions, and prevent her having intercourse with the shore on that side of the river. I was then about three miles above Orangetown, and was to remain there one week unless sooner recalled; after being there a few days, I saw a barge, with four oarsmen and two men sitting in the stern sheets, rowed to the ship; she immediately weighed anchor, made sail and passed down the river, with a full band of music playing; before she got out of sight another boat came out of the narrows from West Point, rowed by four men, and with two sitting in the stern; she passed on by me and landed at the mouth of a small stream called the Slot, which comes down from Orangetown. She was the guard boat from West Point, commanded by Lieutenant Joseph Edes, with information to General Greene that Major John Andre, the Adjutant General of the British Army, a spy, had been taken on a horse within a short distance of the British lines, with a plan of the forts and works in the handwriting of the traitor Gen. Benedict Arnold; Major Andre gave his name as John Anderson, and had a pass from Arnold with that name. He was taken by three militia men, and conveyed to an American officer at an outpost, who suffered him to write a letter to Arnold under the name of John Anderson, informing him that he was taken prisoner; and it was the traitor Gen. Benedict Arnold that I saw making his escape to the British ship. I was then recalled, and joined the regiment; General Washington returned at that time from Rhode Island, where he had an interview with the French Admiral De Grasse. Gen. Washington then sent the spy, Major John Andre, to Orangetown to Gen. Greene, and called on the Governor of the State of New York for the militia to keep possession of West Point, not knowing the extent of the conspiracy among the troops that Gen. Arnold had under his command. Washington sent them to Gen. Greene, and followed himself as soon as he had made preparations to repair the breaches that Arnold had made in several of the fortifications while the spy John Andre was there; his excuse for this being that he wanted to make alterations for their better security. After Gen. Washington arrived at Orangetown where the greatest part of our army was collected to resist an expected attack of the British upon West Point, he ordered a Court Martial of general officers to try Major Andre; they pronounced him a spy, and sentenced him to be hanged. General Washington approved the sentence, and appointed a day for its execution. The prisoner was guarded by a Captain two subalterns and sixty privates. I was not on duty the day of execution, and when the guard moved from the place of confinement with the prisoner, I joined them; we passed to the north to a cross street, then wheeled to the west, which brought us in view of the gallows and of a great number of citizens and soldiers collected to see the execution. Andre did not appear to be in the least confused, and was in a familiar conversation with the Captain and one of the other officers of the guard—one walking on each side of him between the two platoons formed of the guard. On looking forward and seeing the gallows, Andre broke off from conversation and said, "I am fully reconciled to my fate, but am disappointed in the mode;" he had petitioned Washington to be allowed to die like a soldier, he could not bear the idea of dying on a gibbet; he then recommenced conversation. When we arrived at the place of execution my father had the command of the detachment that formed a square around the gallows to keep off the crowd, and opened to the right and left to let us through; there was a wagon standing under the gallows with a coffin in it, and Andre stepped up into it. Gen. Parsons of our Army was officer of the day; he rode near and read the sentence of the Court Martial against him, and looking at his watch said, "Major Andre, you have fifteen minutes to live, if you anything to say, you can say it." Andre replied, "I have nothing to say, but this is for you to bear witness that I meet my fate like a brave man." He then took two white handkerchiefs out of his pocket pulled off his scarlet coat and handed it to his servant, telling him to put it in his trunk. The man obeyed, going to the house where the trunk was, the tears running down his cheeks as he went. The wagon moved to let Andre swing clear; I have seen several men hung, but he flounced about more than any one I ever saw. When dead he was taken down, put in the coffin and driven under an escort to the landing place at the river, where a boat belonging to the enemy was waiting by permission, and took the corpse of Major Andre to New York City, and arrived with it at the British camp before midnight. His body was not buried under or near the gallows, as some historians have asserted. Within a few days after the execution of the spy the New Jersey Brigade, under General Wm. Maxwell, marched to West Point and relieved the New York Militia; they had repaired the breaches that the traitor Arnold had caused to be made in the fortifications. My father was ordered with the Second New Jersey Regiment to go down near the lines of the enemy on the east side of the River to protect a brigade of wagons that went down to bring up a quantity of forage that it was supposed the inhabitants were preparing to take to the enemy in the city of New York. I had the Piquet Guard the night we laid nearest the enemy; the wagons were loaded and moved on their return; we followed and came up to them before night, halted, put out a guard and laid down in a line on the long grass in a meadow that had not been cut. We had been marching three days and having no sleep the night before, as I had the advance guard, I slept all night. When waked to march after the wagons that had been driven all night, I found myself covered with snow, and did not know that it had been falling.

The next evening we reached West Point. The British came out after us, but I suppose the snow storm stopped them, as they did not come up with us. After remaining at West Point a few days, we were relieved by the other troops, and returned to our former station at and above Newark and Elizabethtown. General Washington, preparing to drive the Enemy from the city of New York, had collected about sixteen thousand troops for that purpose within twenty-five miles of the city, but our purchasing commissaries failing to bring on provisions, we were for several days without anything to eat but damaged salt pork, and but half allowance of that; for two days without even that. Washington knowing soldiers could not be kept idle in camp without anything to eat, marched the army down the river towards the enemy's lines, where there were no inhabitants but those in the British interest, for if any of the inhabitants must be plundered, those should suffer who had for years been supplying New York with all the provisions they could procure. After we halted in the evening, one man in the company that I commanded asked liberty of me to go and see a friend who lived in the neighborhood; saying he had not seen him for some time, and that he would return before nine o'clock. I promised to excuse him at roll-call. He returned about eight o'clock, and gave my cook several pounds of excellent beef without saying how he got it. After provisions arrived at our former camp, our army returned to our former place of encampment, and the man who gave me the beef told me that he and another soldier saw two men killing a steer, they supposed, to take to the enemy; he told the men they were butchers also and would help them to skin the steer; they each took a slice and returned to camp. I suppose that was the friend he wanted to see. While our army had to wait for provisions, the enemy by calling in their outposts strengthened their position in New York, and this I suppose was the reason our army did not attack them.

After manoeuvring and fighting several years, the two armies, our own and the enemy, went into winter quarters nearly on the same ground they occupied two years before. Our Brigade went into winter quarters by building huts at Mendham, near Raritan River, between Brunswick and Springfield. In the latter part of winter the Pennsylvania troops revolted. When they rose, the commissioned officers opposing them, the rioters killed a lieutenant, and left their encampment and took up their quarters in Princetown. The enemy thought to persuade them to join the British army by offering to commission officers of their own appointment, and sent spies to negotiate with them; and to the honor of the revolters they said, their attachment to the cause of liberty was as strong as ever, and sent the spies to General Washington for trial, saying if the enemy sent an army to persuade them to join the British, they would fight them to the last man under their own officers. The Legislature of Pennsylvania sent commissioners to ascertain their grievances; they said it was the want of pay and good clothing. The commissioners, with the commissioned officers of their regiment, satisfied them, and they returned to duty. Towards spring the New Jersey troops revolted also. The Legislature sent commissioners, who, together with my father, prevailed with them to return to their quarters, and if to their duty, promising that they should not suffer, and that the State would see that they should be supplied with pay and clothing. The revolters did return to their quarters, but the most of them refused to be subordinate to their officers. General Washington was determined to make an example of some of them, and had the leaders of the three regiments tried for their conduct. Two sergeants were condemned and shot, one of the First and the other of the Third Regiment. My father got the leaders of his regiment (the Second) clear.

Many of the men had enlisted to serve three years or during the war, but neither was designated. Some who had served three years claimed the privilege of leaving the service, and were discharged. The number of men being reduced, Congress ordered the men of one of the three New Jersey regiments to be distributed between the other two. My father being very fleshy, weighing three hundred and twenty pounds, left the service on half pay, and he thought, on account of the situation of our family, I had better leave the army also, as he had no available property left, not even being able to obtain what was due him from the Government. I left the army as he did. We rented a farm, and worked to support ourselves and the family. The same summer the capture of the British General Cornwallis and his army put an end to the war. That was the only engagement the New Jersey troops were in after I left the regiment.

The foregoing is not intended as a history of the Revolution, but merely as an account of the manner in which I passed the most of my time while I was in the army. I was in my minority the whole of the time, being but twenty-one years old at the close of that war.

I have written the foregoing narrative or statement, more than seventy years after the close of that war, from memory in the ninety-second year of my age, and without spectacles. Therefore I must be excused, as I cannot well transcribe and correct it, in letting it go as it is.

JOHN SHREVE.

EXTRACT FROM LETTER OF JOHN SHREVE.

Near Salem, Ohio, Jan. 16th, 1854.

* * * I thought I would mention a few occurrences, that I now recollect, that were omitted from my narrative.

Shortly after the battle of Lexington, when the British troops went from Boston to take possession of the military stores belonging to the then province of Massachusetts, the militia in the county where my father resided began to organize; they met at least once a week to learn military discipline, and elected my father Colonel of the battalion in the year 1774; and in the year 1775, shortly after the battle of Bunker Hill he was commissioned Lieutenant-Colonel in the regular service.

I will now mention what I understood from the conversation among the officers of our brigade concerning General Lee.

I believe it was before the British army took possession of Philadelphia, General Lee, with but one of his aids-de-camp, went to spend the day and dine with an acquaintance near the British line; while at dinner a troop of British light-horse surrounded the house and took Lee prisoner. Washington had many captains and lieutenants prisoners that he took at Trenton and Princeton, but the British commander refused to exchange Lee unless Washington had one of the same rank. An American officer, who was acquainted in Rhode Island, knew where a British general quartered in that island, and procured a whale-boat and competent men, who were used to row in rough water, and with a suitable number of chosen men, put out in the bay, and passed with muffled oars through the British fleet that was anchored near the Island, landed on the Island, took the sentinel, prisoner, captured the General and pulled him out of bed, hurried him to the boat, and returned through the enemy's fleet in safety and landed with the prisoner on the Connecticut shore. Washington exchanged him for Lee shortly before the enemy left the city of Philadelphia.

After they left the city Washington came up to them at Monmouth Court-House. When the British General called a council of war some of the German troops opposed the risking a general battle; they were sent as a guard for their baggage to the forks of the roads, one leading to Middletown point and Sandy Hook, the other to Amboy—Washington called a council of war, General Lee opposed risking a general engagement, saying, British troops could not be conquered. All the others of the council, I believe, excepting one, whose name I have forgotten, were in favor of a general action. Washington then gave the officers the plan of attack. Lee, with his division of Virginians and one other division, the New Jersey brigade with them, was ordered to attack the rear guard of the enemy on the west and press on them and bring the main army to their assistance, not to retire until they drove him by force, and then he, Washington, with the main army, would march in between the British army and their baggage. As soon as the general action commenced General Morgan, with his riflemen and our militia, were ordered to attack the Hessians and drive the baggage towards the town of Cranberry.

Lee disobeyed the orders, and suffered the English rear-guard, with not half the number of men that Lee had, to drive him. The British general then knew that Washington was not there, he went out north and met Washington late in the afternoon. After being engaged near half an hour the enemy retreated, and left their dead and wounded on the field. Washington sent his aid-de-camp three times to know why Lee did not press on the enemy. Lee said, "tell the General I am doing well enough." My father heard him say it. Washington called a court of inquiry on proof that Lee disobeyed general orders; he was suspended from his command for one year. The officers of our brigade knew he disobeyed orders, and some of them thought he was a traitor, but it could not be proven.

About the time Major Andre, the British spy, was brought a prisoner to the American camp General Washington was to have returned from Rhode Island to West Point, and it was reported in camp among our officers that one or two Tories, having men in disguise, lay in ambush to surprise Washington, and convey him to the British ship that Andre came up in, and traitor General Arnold made his escape to, and she was detailed for that purpose. As soon as Andre would have arrived in New York the British ships were ready to ascend the river with troops and take possession of West Point fort. Andre being taken the plan was broken up. After Andre was sentenced to be hung, I was told that he sent two or three notes, requesting an interview with the General, who declined to see him. If Washington had gone to see him, what would have been the consequences, as they were both Free-Masons?

Twenty-two years after General Arnold had made his escape I chartered a vessel at New Orleans to take flour to the West Indies. On the passage I found the captain of the vessel to be the same Lieutenant Edes that commanded the guard boat that followed traitor Arnold from West Point fort and took the information of Andre being captured and Arnold's escape to General Greene at Orangetown. Captain Edes told me he could have taken General Arnold but he thought it best to let him go. Were they not both Free Masons? Arnold certainly had some one or more that aided in the conspiracy.

After our brigade relieved the New York Militia at West Point, it was discovered that several of the cartridges prepared for the cannon in each fort had two or three inches of ashes in the lower end to prevent the fire from the tube igniting the powder.

CAPTAIN HENRY MILLER SHREVE.

A Contribution by Judge Samuel Treat, of St. Louis, Mo.

[From the "Democratic Review," February 1848,]

The earliest navigators on western waters were the French traders, who pushed their way in bark canoes far up the Missouri river and its tributaries in the perilous fur trade. The typical navigators of a later period were the Mike Finks and their compeers, who performed more regular trips in rude flat boats or arks between the scattered settlements along the Ohio and Mississippi Rivers. They were a strange race—hardy, brave and reckless. Their boats were generally built of green oak planks, rudely fastened together, and sufficed for the descending voyage to New Orleans. There the crafts were abandoned, and the crews returned on foot overland, through a wilderness inhabited by hostile Indian tribes. It is evident that, under such a system, commerce could hardly be said to exist. A few piroques and keel-boats made ascending voyages from New Orleans with extreme difficulty. The cost of such transportation left no margin for profits nor inducements for trade. The only markets of value to the farmer grew out of the demand caused by new immigrants to his neighborhood; and his surplus products were small, for there were but few to purchase them. At that period, corn and oats were seldom sold in Ohio for more than ten or twelve cents per bushel; or wheat for more than thirty or forty cents. Beef was readily bought for one dollar and fifty cents per hundred, and pork for two dollars. Each family produced whatever was necessary for its own consumption, and lived in almost Arcadian simplicity. Still, as if conscious of the coming value of their river trade, they insisted upon the free navigation of the Mississippi, as a natural right, with which they would not part at any price. Hence, when the rumor crossed the Alleghanies, that the right was about to be relinquished to Spain, the settlers talked boldly of resistance, and their threats and apprehensions could not be quited until Washington, contrary to his usual custom, addressed to them a frank statement of the then condition of negotiations.

But, as population increased, additional energy was given to all departments of labor. Men began to struggle for more than daily subsistence—to toil for permanent wealth. Their acquisition depended principally on better and more profitable markets; and hence their commerce at the beginning of this century gradually assumed a more judicious and improved form. To the flat-boat, piroque, and keel-boat, propelled by "setting poles" and oars—"eatem conto subigit"—barges with sails were added; an improvement celebrated in that day with as much joy, as was subsequently the use of the steam-engine; not that the use of sails for the propulsion of boats had been unknown and unappreciated previously, but because it had been supposed that barges of thirty and fifty tons could not thus navigate the rapid waters of the Mississippi Valley. Almost simultaneously with the commencement of this new class of boats,—the connecting link between the former rude system and the introduction of steam, Henry M. Shreve began his career. Western commerce, just struggling into shape, was then attracting the enterprise of men of integrity, education and wealth. The news of the occlusion of the port of New-Orleans had served only to test the patriotism and daring of the western pioneers; for hardly had they enrolled themselves as volunteers to force open their great highway to the gulf, when the more joyful intelligence came, that Louisiana had been purchased and the divided valley united under our Republican flag. Their right to navigate the Mississippi and trade along its banks—to sell and buy at New-Orleans without molestation, had thus been placed beyond dispute; and new scope was given to their enterprise and feeble trade. Western commerce had become a regular and legitimate pursuit. Its destinies had enlisted the zeal of those who could give it energy and value—and a class of merchant-navigators had appeared, who opened a profitable traffic among the distant settlements. Among those Capt. Shreve bore a high rank. In 1807, he built at Brownsville, on the Monongahela, a barge of thirty-five tons burthen, and manned it with a crew of ten men for a voyage to St. Louis. He reached the latter place in December of that year, forty days from Pittsburg. After purchasing a cargo of furs, he returned to Pittsburg and forwarded them to Philadelphia. The trade thus commenced by him was continued three years with considerable profit, as each voyage was on his own account. This was the rude beginning of regular commercial transactions between Philadelphia and St. Louis, through Pittsburg—transactions which now equal in value several million dollars annually.

Early in 1810 he determined on opening a new business. Prior to that period the British had monopolized the traffic with the Indians along the Upper Mississippi, and exercised over them a controlling influence which was subsequently felt in all the horrors of Indian warfare from 1812 to 1815. There were only a few settlements at that time north of St. Louis, the principal ones being at Cap au Gres, Salt River, Fort Madison, and Dubuque. It was known that British traders were engaged in a profitable pursuit, buying of the Indians in exchange for rum, whiskey, &c., large quantities of lead as well as furs. Capt. Shreve left St. Louis for Fever, or Galena River, on the 2d of May, in a new barge of thirty-five tons burthen, manned by twelve men, and loaded with an assorted cargo. Notwithstanding various detentions to hunt food, and from other causes, he made the trip from St. Louis to the spot where Galena is now built, in fourteen days. There he remained until the 1st of July following, busily employed in traffic with the natives. During that time he had bought sixty tons of lead; and was therefore compelled to build a flat boat, and buy a Mackinaw boat, to aid in transporting his return cargo. His little flotilla reached St. Louis in twelve days—the commencement of the American lead trade on the Upper Mississippi. He took his cargo to New-Orleans and shipped it thence to Philadelphia, realizing upwards of $11,000 from the enterprize. That trade in 1847 equalled in value about $3,000,000 annually, estimating only the shipments from Fever River. Then there were only eight or ten small settlements between Louisville and the mouth of the Ohio, and about the same number between the latter place and Vicksburg. He never repeated the trip to Galena, as his success induced immediately on his reaching St. Louis, others to send six barges to that point, and thus overdo the business. On his return to Brownsville that year he built a barge of ninety-five tons burthen, and entered upon regular voyages between Pittsburg and New-Orleans, in which he continued for four years.

The difficulties of western navigation at that period cannot be appreciated at this time. Each voyage consumed six months, and was attended with extreme toil, great expense, and imminent peril. During a favorable wind barges would float gently down the stream, with the aid of sails and oars, guided with the utmost care and vigilance through the forests of snags among which lay their tortuous and threatening course. At other times, oars and "setting poles" were the sole resort. The force of the current bore them rapidly forward, but subjected them to the constant danger of striking a snag, sawyer or sunken root, and going down with their cargoes at a moment's warning, beneath the muddy waters of the Mississippi. In ascending, the cordelle was used at the most dangerous and difficult points; the barges dragged up stream by main force. Many of those boats were of more than one hundred tons burthen, and required a crew of forty men for their management. Such was the improved mode of performing those early voyages of two thousand miles in length, which was in general use from 1804 to 1814; and from such rude efforts has sprung, by aid of steam, an interior commerce, which in about thirty-four years has come to double in value the whole foreign trade of the Republic.

No where did the experiments of Fitch and Fulton elicit greater interest than in the Mississippi valley. The people of that vast region needed only a better mode of transportation to enable them to compete successfully with the Atlantic states, even in eastern and foreign markets. Nature had prepared the way for a thriving commerce, by providing navigable rivers of the aggregate length of about 15,000 miles; but their strong currents required more than animal muscles for their successful navigation. Fitch and Fulton were endeavoring to substitute natural agents for human strength; and their triumph was destined to give new wealth, impetus and power to the Union. The boatmen, farmers and merchants of the west had vast interests at stake, and none could feel more anxious for a favorable issue to these experiments with steam. They had scaled the Alleghanies, beaten back the Indian tribes, and encountered the privations incident to frontier life, in the firm expectation that the avenues to happiness would eventually be opened to them and their children. History taught that, at each period in human affairs, new discoveries and inventions, as well as men to lead the way, had grown out of the wants of the times. The law of progress was especially discernible in the career of our republic. From the severe schooling received by our colonial ancestors, intellectually and physically, during their early disputes with the mother country on questions of prerogative and principle, no less than in their contests with the Indians, and with their French and Spanish neighbors—the great lesson of self-reliance was so learned, that national independence and free government were the natural results. At the close of the Revolution, the population of the country was confined almost wholly to the narrow strip of land east of the Alleghanies; but when the advancing wave o'erleaped the "mountain barrier" a few years, sufficient to teach those early adventurers that mountains must be practically leveled and fierce torrents stayed in their course; that the iron-horse and self-moving leviathan must supercede the slow wagon and clumsy barge, before their fertile prairies and distant forests could teem with an industrious and thrifty population. If the genius of Fulton and his compeers had not opened the great avenues of the west, who can say how long its undeveloped resources might have slumbered unknown, or what now would have been its relative rank in the confederacy? The great problem to be solved was not, whether vessels could be propelled by steam on the tide waters of the Atlantic, but whether they could be forced into the very heart of our continent, and along its main arteries to the extremities of the system, overcoming all obstacles in their course. Navigation along the Atlantic coast, and in its bays and short rivers, was not difficult with sail vessels, and could be easily conducted during fair winds and tides. Not so with the rivers of the west. Hence, the experiments of Fulton on the Hudson, and of Fitch on the Delaware, required repetition on the Mississippi, before the steam problem, could be solved; and so thought Fulton himself. In the year 1812, he built at Pittsburgh the steamer "Orleans," of 400 tons burthen, and descended in her to New-Orleans, where he arrived about Christmas of that year. That downward trip, however, convinced him that the "Orleans" could never return to Pittsburg, and she was consequently used from that time as a trading packet between New-Orleans and Natchez. That was the first steamer that ever floated on the western rivers; and great as must have been the astonishment of the boatmen and settlers at the appearance of so strange a craft; far greater was their regret at the failure of the experiment. The next year Samuel Smith built a small steamer at Pittsburg—the "Comet"—of thirty tons burthen, on the model of French's patent, obtained in 1809. It was constructed with a stern wheel and vibrating cylinder making a voyage, in 1813, to Louisville and back. In 1814 she descended to New-Orleans, was then condemned, and sold at Natchez, where her machinery was placed in a cotton gin. In 1814, Mr. Fulton made another trial. The "Vesuvius" was built by him at Pittsburg—445 tons burthen—and early in the year descended to New-Orleans, under command of Captain Ogden. In June following, an effort was made to perform the ascending voyage, but proved a signal failure. That boat was then placed with its predecessor in the Natchez trade. Thus far, the experiments only served to demonstrate, that steamers, like flat-boats, might pass down stream well enough, but that they would have to be abandoned, as were the Kentucky arks, on reaching New-Orleans.

Those expensive failures, however, did not dishearten all western boatmen, although most of them looked upon the project of forcing vessels up the Mississippi, with fire and steam, as practically absurd—an impossibility. It remained for one of their own number to crown that project with success—to devise improvements by which the steam engine could exert, not only the propelling power necessary, but regulate its own motions with the precision of clock-work. Before his genius was directed particularly to the subject, Capt. Shreve had taken one-fifth of the stock in a new steamer, 45 tons burthen, built at Brownsville, on French's patent. It was intended by the owners that he should command her, but as she was finished while he was absent with his barge at New-Orleans, Capt. Gregg made two voyages with her to Louisville during the summer. She was then loaded with ordnance and military stores for General Jackson's army; and as Captain Shreve had, in the meantime, returned to Pittsburg, she was placed under his charge. About two month previous three keel boats had been also loaded at Pittsburg with small arms for the same army, but permitted to trade by the way—a strange contract, which endangered the safety of New-Orleans, then threatened by General Pakenham's expedition. On the 1st of December, 1814, Capt. Shreve left Pittsburgh, in command of that small steamer. He felt a double anxiety in the success of his enterprise. Not only was it his first in a steam vessel, but it was connected with the glory of his country. Born of true Revolutionary stock, a devoted Republican and a zealous advocate of the war then waged against England, he had felt, in common with the people of the West, extreme indignation at the burning of our national capital by the Vandals of modern times, and at the proposed gathering of traitors in Hartford to "give aid and comfort to the enemy." He knew that Sir Edward Pakenham's army was about to land on our Southwestern coast, and that New Orleans was the probable point of attack. He knew, also, that it was of vast moment that Gen. Jackson should receive his military supplies, without delay; and in fourteen days they were safely landed in his camp. As anticipated, he found intense excitement prevailing in the city on his arrival, and after receiving the thanks of the commanding General, he was ordered to proceed as rapidly as possible up the Mississippi and tow down the long delayed keel-boats. He was absent six and one-half days, during which time his little steamer had run 654 miles; and then returned to New Orleans with the small arms and ammunition so much needed. From that time to the third of January following, he was engaged in transporting material from the city to the final battle-ground on the 8th of that month. On the 3d, he received notice that the Commander-in-Chief desired him to call at head-quarters. He immediately obeyed the summons, and on reporting himself to General Jackson, was accosted as follows: "Capt. Shreve,—I understand that you are a man who will always do what you undertake. Can you pass the British batteries on the bank of the river, nine miles below, and with your steamer bear supplies to Fort St. Philips?" After a moment's reflection, which convinced him of the extreme danger of the enterprise, and suggested a mode of success, he answered; "Yes, if you will give me my own time." "What time do you require," asked the General. "Twenty-four hours," was the reply. It was then agreed that the supplies should be put on board the steamer by 4 o'clock that afternoon, and the effort made to pass the British before the next morning. It will be remembered that two battles had been fought prior to the in-river just mentioned. The British were encamped several miles below the city, and had erected heavy batteries so as to command the river entirely. It was of great moment that Fort St. Philips should be relieved before the enemy advanced, in order that it might be made the key to subsequent operations whatever the issue of the impending battle.

That evening, the steamer was run down to the Scud just above the British batteries. The side most exposed had been completely covered with cotton bales, fastened securely to the vessel with iron hooks. By midnight, as is usual there, a dense fog covered the river, and screened all objects from view. Taking advantage of that circumstance, Capt. Shreve put his steamer in motion, under "a slow head of steam," with muffled wheel; the strictest silence having first been enjoined on the crew. As anticipated by him, he passed wholly unobserved by the sentries on the shore, at a signal from whom his vessel would have been shattered into fragments. Reaching the fort in safety, he discharged his freight, and on the next night repassed the batteries, undiscovered, until beyond effective reach of the enemy's long guns. Only a few spent balls struck the cotton bales by which his vessel was protected. This daring exploit excited the greatest admiration in Gen. Jackson's camp, and received his marked commendation.

The day previous to the battle of the 8th of January, Capt. Shreve requested permission to join the ranks; and he was accordingly stationed at the sixth gun—a long twenty-four pounder, in Col. Humphrey's battery. There he shared in all the perils and glories of that remarkable victory—ready to aid his country in any manner possible, and at all necessary risks. It was during those eventful scenes that he became familiar with the true character of Gen. Jackson; and at that time an intimate friendship sprung up between them, which nothing but death dissolved. Hence, as early as 1819, when the people of the West first began to talk of Mr. Monroe's succession in the Presidential chair, he expressed his decided preference for the hero of New-Orleans. He was one of the original seven who made the first demonstration in Louisville in favor of Gen. Jackson's election to the Presidency; and the old hero never had a truer friend in his various contests with his political opponents.

After the battle of New-Orleans, the steamer "Enterprize" was sent to the gulf to exchange prisoners with the British fleet; subsequently with troops up the Red River, and then made nine trips to Natchez. On the 6th of May, 1815, Capt. Shreve determined to make an effort to ascend the Mississippi to Louisville. Although every previous attempt had signally failed, he was convinced that success was practicable. On the 31st of that month, the "Enterprize" reached Louisville—the first steam vessel that ever performed that voyage. Still the delays, difficulties, and expense of the undertaking, rendered it doubtful whether steam navigation on the western rivers would prove of any practical benefit.

The experience acquired by him whilst in command of that steamer wrought out improvements of momentous value. He had examined closely the engines of Fulton and French, watched their operations in every particular, studied out their defects, and diligently applied his inventive powers to devise the proper remedies. Convinced that the various inventions he had matured in his own mind would overcome the main obstacles to success, he abandoned the command of the "Enterprize" for the purpose of testing his plans, and commenced the construction of the "Washington," of 400 tons burthen. The hull was built at Wheeling, in accordance with his directions, whilst he superintended, in person, the construction of his new engines at Brownsville. That steam-boat was the first "two-decker" on the western waters. In appearance it resembled a dismasted frigate; the cabin being between decks. Previously, the boiler had always been placed in the hold of the vessel; and under Fulton's patent upright and stationary cylinders used—under French's the vibrating cylinder. Despite the ridicule with which his suggestions were received, he ordered the cylinder to be placed in a horizontal position, and the vibration to be given to the pitman. Fulton and French used a single low-pressure engine; Capt. S. built a double, high-pressure engine, (the first used on the western rivers,) with cranks at right angles, and the boilers on the upper deck. Mr. David Prentice had previously employed the cam wheel for working the valves to the cylinder; and Capt. Shreve added his great invention of the "cam cut off," by which three-fifths of the fuel was saved. Most of these improvements originating with him, have long been in universal use, although their origin has not been generally known. The "Washington," when finished, was, in every essential part, unlike any other steam vessel then known. The machinery weighed only one-twentieth as much as the Fulton engine, and was worked with about one-half of the usual amount of fuel. The alterations and improvements by Capt. S., made the engine essentially a new machine; and in the course of a few years, no other model was used west of the Alleghanies. If Fulton's inventions entitle him to the great fame awarded by the world, why should not equal merit be accorded to Capt. Shreve, whose improvements superseded all others more than thirty years ago?

On the 24th of September, 1816, the "Washington" passed over the falls of the Ohio, on her first trip to New-Orleans; returning to Louisville in November following. The trial was eminently successful. At New-Orleans she was visited by the most distinguished citizens of the place, all of whom expressed surprise and admiration at the ingenuity of her commander. Edward Livingston, after a critical examination, remarked to Capt. S.:—"You deserve well of your country, young man; but we (referring to the Fulton and Livingston Monopoly) shall be compelled to beat you (in the courts) if we can." The ascending voyage to Louisville demonstrated satisfactorily the practicability of resisting by steam the currents of the Mississippi. In consequence of the ice in the Ohio river, and continued low water, the "Washington" remained at the Falls until March 3d, 1817. On that day she started on the voyage, from which all western historians date the commencement of steam navigation in the Mississippi valley. She was heavily laden, both in descending and ascending, and crowded with passengers. From the time of starting to her return to the landing at Shippingport, just below Louisville, including all detentions at New-Orleans and elsewhere, only forty-one days were consumed; the ascending voyage being made in twenty-five days. "This was the trip," said the early historian of Louisville, "which convinced the despairing public, that steamboat navigation would succeed on the western waters." To commemorate the event, and express their gratitude for the triumphant solution of the great problem of the day, the citizens of Louisville gave him a public dinner, and hailed him as the first of benefactors to the Mississippi valley. In reply to a complimentary sentiment, he predicted that the time was not distant when the ascending trip from New-Orleans to Louisville would be made in ten days—a prediction received with incredulity, even by those who had then met to celebrate an event, of which they had previously despaired. That prediction was not a random statement, but a conclusion formed from accurate mathematical calculations. That prediction has been more than verified since. The trip has been made in less than five days. On his return to New-Orleans, his friends hastened on board, eagerly inquiring what accident had forced him to put back—none of them supposing that he had been to Louisville since they last parted with him. Out of the profits of those two voyages, he paid all the expenses of running the steamer, the original cost of the construction; and divided among the stockholders a surplus of seventeen hundred dollars.

In 1806, Dr. McMurtee says, there were only six keel-boats and two barges owned on the Ohio river. In connexion with the flat-boats and piroques in use, they then sufficed for the carrying trade of that region. In 1819, so rapid was the increase after Capt. Shreve's success, twenty-five steamboats with the aggregate tonnage of 6,050 tons, were owned by the citizens of the Ohio valley; twenty-six others, whose average tonnage amounted to 6,720 tons, were nearly completed and ready to be launched. Judge Hall, of Cincinnati, says in a recent address, that "prior to 1817, the whole commerce from New-Orleans to the upper country was carried in about twenty barges averaging one hundred tons each, and making but one trip in the year; so that the importations through New-Orleans in one year, could not much have exceeded the freight brought up by one of our largest steamers in the course of the season. On the upper Ohio there were about one hundred and fifty keel-boats, of about thirty tons each, which made the voyage from Pittsburg to Louisville and back in two months, or about three such trips in a year." In two years, the steamboat tonnage amounted, in consequence of Capt. Shreve's ingenuity and enterprize, to 12,790 tons, and it has continued to increase with almost incredible rapidity to the present hour.

We have alluded to several efforts on the part of Spain, France and England to command the navigation of the Mississippi river, and to the firmness with which the general government, and the western pioneers resisted all such efforts. In 1788, Congress resolved that they had no intention to give up to Spain the navigation of that river—"that the free navigation of the river Mississippi is a clear and essential right of the United States." But a corporation nearly effected in 1815 what had been so resolutely opposed for more than a half century. At an early day after his patent had been obtained, Fulton associated himself with Robert R. Livingston, of New York, with the view of monopolizing the trade of the western states and territories. Failing to procure a charter from several legislatures to which they applied, they finally obtained in 1811, an act of incorporation from "Orleans Territory," granting to them the exclusive right "to navigate all vessels propelled by fire and steam on the rivers in said Territory." By an abuse of its powers the Territorial Legislature sought to place in the hands of a soulless monopoly, the keys to western commerce—an occlusion of the Mississippi, as fatal to trade as that attempted by the French government in 1802. That corporation laid its relentless grasp on the Father of Waters, resolved not to relax its hold, but to extort tribute, from all coming time, from the people of half the continent. It dared not rely on Fulton's patent, for the invention of Fitch claimed precedence, and French's ingenuity had secured a patent equally valuable; hence it sought, by corporate privileges, as wealth has ever done, to make trade subservient to the aggrandizement of the few, instead of leaving it open to honorable competition. Among those who felt indignant at the outrage, Capt. Shreve stood foremost. He determined to resist such exactions, in every way known to the laws of the land. Anticipating that a protracted legal controversy would commence as soon as the steamer "Enterprise" arrived at New-Orleans, he had consulted whilst there with his barge, in the spring of 1814, A. L. Duncan, Esq., one of the most prominent members of the bar, (subsequently one of Gen. Jackson's Aids,) and gave him five hundred dollars as a retaining fee, together with a bond for fifteen hundred more, to be paid on the successful termination of the impending suit. The foresight was fortunate; for, on learning that the "Enterprise" was on her way down the river, the Company retained in its service the whole New-Orleans bar, and offered to Mr. Duncan three thousand dollars if he would remain silent. But that patriotic lawyer frankly replied that he was Capt. Shreve's counsel, and had advised him to oppose the pretensions or demands of the Corporation. On the first arrival of that steamboat, however, New-Orleans was under martial law, and she was not seized until May 6th, 1815, the day fixed for her departure for Pittsburgh; but his counsel anticipating the step, had the necessary bail ready. The "Enterprise" was accordingly released and pursued her voyage. In a few months the trial took place, in the inferior court, and the jury promptly returned a verdict in favor of "free navigation." The cause was removed by writ of error to the Supreme Court of the Territory; and the act of incorporation was there pronounced unconstitutional, in the year 1816. But that colossal monopoly resolved not to relinquish its unjust privileges on the first defeat. Hence, when the "Washington" reached New-Orleans, in the fall 1816, she was also seized, and Captain Shreve arrested. By advice of his counsel, he refused to give bail, and the officer expostulated with him: strongly, offering to receive his bond without sureties, rather than take him to prison. Whilst they were conversing, however, the rumor had spread along the levee, and an immense crowd collected, determined to oppose the arrest. At the request of Capt. Shreve, no outbreak occurred, and he agreed to go to the office of Mr. Edward Livingston who, with John R. Grymes, was the principal counsel for the Company. The crowd followed; but on reaching Mr. Livingston's office, Capt. S. was prudently released. The steamer, when seized, was instantly abandoned to the Marshal; and Mr. Duncan applied to the Court for an order on the Company to give bail for damages, caused by her detention. Messrs. Livingston and Grymes resisted the motion, but it was granted. They then became seriously alarmed for their monopoly. Public sentiment cheered on their opponent, eminent jurists sustained his cause, and he could not be intimidated into a compromise. Messrs. Livingston and Grymes offered him in behalf of their clients, one half of all the advantages of their monopoly, if he would instruct his counsel to so shape the defence as to cause a verdict to be rendered against him. The temptation was powerful, but he had commenced the controversy for other objects than private gain. He felt the force of his position—that on him hung the right of free navigation—that his companions on the waters of the West looked to him as their leader and representative in the struggle:—and he was equal to the occasion. He had dared to risk his fortune in a contest, single-handed, against the most powerful monopoly of the times, and the same spirit which prompted him to resist at first, impelled him to spurn the base bribe, although it promised boundless wealth. The issue was a triumph which unsealed the arteries of the Mississippi Valley.

Next to Fulton, the Western country owes a vast debt of gratitude to Capt. Henry M. Shreve. His spurning the offer of the Livingstone Company defeated the impending monopoly of the carrying trade on the western waters which induced the rapid settling of emigrants into the Mississippi Valley. The experience of four years demonstrated that neither Fulton's nor French's patent could ever be made of practical benefit to western commerce.

In 1818 Capt. Shreve had matured in his own mind further improvements and consequently built the steamboat Ohio, adding the other inventions his genius suggested. This boat ran four years, and the United States, subsequently built, one year when he undertook further improvements on both the engine and the model of the boats. Previously boats were constructed like sea vessels, and drew too much draft for river navigation. In 1824 he finished the George Washington, the first vessel built with the upper cabin or hurricane deck for carrying passengers. It was also constructed with side wheels, each run by separate engines, rendering the vessel more completely under the control of the pilot. While other improvements were made in steamboats since then, yet they at the same time contain all the inventions made by Capt. Shreve.

Mr. Calhoun, when secretary of war, quickly saw the advisability of rendering western waters available for military purposes, when the time for transporting government supplies from Pittsburgh to New Orleans could be lessened from three months to ten or twelve days. Through his influence, in 1824, Congress appropriated $75,000 to improve navigation, the river then being strewn with snags and sawyers. In 1826 Captain Shreve was commissioned Superintendent, and ordered to commence operations at the Government's expense. In 1829 the first snag-boat was built, according to his plans, by the consent of the government, and named the Heliopolis. This vessel, in a scientific manner, quickly removed the largest obstructions, and all such vessels to this day embody the principles of his invention. It has saved to the government and to individuals untold millions of dollars, and given an impetus to river commerce that no mind can estimate.

While government engineers advised that the removal of the Red River raft be not attempted, the War Department consulted Captain Shreve on the subject. His reply being satisfactory, he was ordered to undertake the herculean task. An official report to Congress shows that this formidable obstruction extended more than one hundred and sixty miles, but the task was successfully accomplished and twelve hundred miles of navigable water was made available to the government. The entire cost was only $300,000, instead of two or three million.

Captain Shreve invented a marine battering ram for harbor defense, an accurate description of which was filed in the Navy Department at the request of General Jackson. He was under the employment of the government until 1840, enjoying the greatest confidence. After his retirement he resided on his plantation near St. Louis, where he devoted his attention to improvements in agriculture with the same zeal and liberality always manifested by him for western commerce.

Thus after thirty-four years literally spent on the waters, he returned to the quiet pursuits in which his early youth was employed, enjoying the pleasures of uninterrupted social happiness and commanding the esteem and affection of a wide circle of friends.

This brief sketch of his eventful career indicates clearly his pure and intellectual character. He contributed more than usually falls to the lot of one man to the progress and blessings of his age, and to the rapid growth of new states in the then far off west, although the full value of his many inventions cannot be computed, he never applied except in one instance for letters patent to secure for himself the deserved fruits of his genius. For twenty years the Government used his private property without remuneration, during which period at nine different times and in various forms, his claims were recognized and encouraging promises made. He refrained from enforcing his rights at the injury of that commerce with which his name was so intimately associated, preferring to wait for even tardy justice at the hands of the government he so long and faithfully served.
